Enactment of New Act to Give All Control to Department Looms.

DISTRICT GROUP BACK OF CHANGE, IS REPORT

Radical Reform Viewed as Reply to Tactics of Harland, Aid.

AGITATION DIRECTED BY A. A. A. EXECUTIVE

Reported Indorsement by Subcommittee Awaits Ratification Oct. 1.

By WILLIAM ULLMAN.

Abolition of the present traffic office and enactment of an entirely new traffic act, putting all of Washington's motor vehicle control again under the Metropolitan Police Department—in short, a brand new traffic deal for the National Capital—now looms as the latest and most sensational production of the District Commissioners' traffic advisory committee.

It is reliably reported that such a course already has been voted by the subcommittee on permanent traffic organization and finance. The action now awaits ratification by the full committee, which will meet after October 1 to consider the recommendations of nine subcommittees named in June by Commissioner Herbert B. Crosby.

The vote of the subcommittee in favor of the radical change in local traffic affairs is understood to have been 4 to 0, with Traffic Director William H. Harland, a member of the group, refraining from voting on the ground of a personal interest in the issue.

Retention of Harland.

If approved, the recommendation would require enactment by Congress of a new basic traffic law setting up a new traffic organization, headed by an engineer responsible to the major and superintendent of the Metropolitan police. The present traffic act, or basic law calls for separation of the administrative and enforcement aspects of motor vehicle control. This division of functions has been the subject of endless criticism in many quarters and the partial basis, at least, of the conflict for dominance in traffic affairs.

What effect the proposed sweeping changes would have on the personnel of the Traffic Office is not known. Although the new plan calls for a traffic engineer under the Superintendent of Police, it is regarded as highly conjectural that the place would fall to Mr. Harland, who recently was reappointed for another three-year term, but under the act which is slated to be displaced.

Mr. Harland's three years in the Traffic Office have been marked by policies and practices that have brought violent disagreement, criticism and opposition.

Criticism of Policies.

He has stood out flatly, until recently, against the American Automobile Association in its vigorous advocacy of a change in the rotary left turn. His policy in signal lighting of circles on main thoroughfares near the business district also has precipitated clashes with that organization or its officials.

In addition, both Mr. Harland and M. O. Eldridge, his assistant, have followed an inflexible course in the matter of revoking operators' permits. Their flat refusal to restore permits regardless of the pressure brought to bear upon them has made numerous powerful enemies for their administration.

It is no secret that the Traffic Office has been the scene of violent set-

Judge Discharges Oesterreich Jury

Group Unable to Decide Fate of Woman in Attic Lover Case.

Los Angeles, Aug. 25 (A.P.).—Unable to reach a verdict, the jury which heard the trial of Mrs. Walburga Oesterreich for the slaying of her husband, Fred Oesterreich, wealthy Milwaukee manufacturer, was discharged late today. The jury had deliberated since Saturday morning.

The six women and six men, after being dismissed, told newspapermen the voting stood 10 to 2 since yesterday, with the majority favoring conviction of second-degree murder and two voting for acquittal.

Mrs. Oesterreich was indicted this spring with her attic sweetheart, Otto Sanhuber, for the slaying for Oesterreich on August 22, 1922. Sanhuber, tried separately, was convicted of manslaughter, but freed by the statute of limitations.

Calvin Coolidge

Says: The reports of revolution making headway in Peru are disquieting and discouraging.

Revolutions have long been the curse of some sections south of the Rio Grande. They indicate at their best that the orderly and lawful method of conducting changes in the form or the officers of the government affected have broken down and that there is no remedy for alleged abuses except an appeal to force. At their worst they are an attempt to seize a government that is doing as well as it can under all the circumstances surrounding it for the purpose of getting the power and spoils of office.

Too often these outbreaks are accompanied by a confiscation of private property and much suffering by innocent persons. If a revolution meant a cleaning up of a bad situation and the substitution of a stable, permanent and free government, it would have some merit. But when it means only a loss of life and property in order to substitute a new regime that is no better than the old it accomplishes no constructive purpose. That is the reason our people regard revolutions with so much suspicion. They do not consider them as productive of genuine reform.

ROVER TURNS DOWN RUM BOND QUIZ PLEA

LOWER BAIL ASSESSED

United States Attorney Leo A. Rover yesterday refused to call a grand jury investigation of charges of collusion between bondsmen and police because there was no direct charge.

The hint of such "reputed" collusion, however, caused Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police, to issue an order instructing police of all precincts in making liquor arrests to make only one charge against the defendant, leaving it up to judges of the Police Court, the United States Attorney's office or the United States Commissioner to fix a higher bond, if necessary.

Mr. Rover, shown an affidavit from a woman defendant in a liquor case, declared that while collusion between police and bondsmen was not indicated, it revealed that there might be such an agreement between bondsmen and certain attorneys, "who claim to have influence."

Agitation over the bond situation in liquor cases was started by Assistant United States Attorney David A. Hart, in charge of prohibition enforcement in Police Court. Mr. Hart urged a nominal bond, alleging that liquor law violators were held under too high bonds. He was joined in this viewpoint by two judges of the Police Court, and as a result Maj. Pratt, in an official order sent out Saturday, ordered police of all precincts to book a liquor law defendant only on one charge.

This rule was carried out to the letter over the week-end, according to records in the office of Mr. Hart. Seven cases were booked and in each instance the prosecutor's office upheld the police. It was noted, however, that bonds assessed by police were $500 in six cases and only $1,000 in the seventh.

Discussing Mr. Kronheim's visit, Mr. Rover said:

"Mr. Kronheim had nothing of any import to tell me. He was unable to show that bondsmen and police had been charged with collusion—other than rumors. He also was unable to give any proof that the charge was not true. In my opinion, a grand jury investigation is not needed."

Regarding the affidavit, Mr. Rover said: "That does not show any collusion between police and bondsmen, but between bondsmen and certain lawyers. If such conditions exist, as the affidavit shows, the matter should be referred to other sources."

PLANE DERBY IS WON BY MRS. O'DONNELL

Shoots Before Grand Stand at Chicago to Arrive First From Coast.

BLUM IS MEN'S VICTOR

Mrs. O'Donnell, mother of two children, crossed the finish line of the 2,245-mile derby from her own home town, Long Beach, Calif., at 3:18 p. m., turned her ship groundward with a final triumphant flourish and then shot straight into the air in front of the grand stand. Had she shut off her motor for a moment she would have heard deafening cheers.

Mildred Morgan, of Beverly Hills, Calif., was runner-up to Mrs. O'Donnell, and Jean La Rene, of Chicago, took third place. The official elapsed times were: O'Donnell, 15 hours 13 minutes 16 seconds; Morgan, 21 hours 18 minutes 35 seconds, and La Rene, 21 hours 45 minutes 49 seconds. Ruth Stewart, of St. Louis, and Ruth Barrow, of Hollywood, were the only other contestants to finish the race.

Close on the heels of the women derbyists came John Blum, of Seattle, to win the men's Pacific class A derby —1,545 miles from his home city. Blum crossed the finish line at 3:50 p. m. His victory was no invasion of feminine rights, for it was also German day and Illinois manufacturers' day.

Nick Mamer, of Spokane, took second place, and Floyd Keadle, of Portland, Oreg., was third. Keadle nosed out Frank Kammer, of Wenatchee, Wash., by less than six minutes. The elapsed times were Blum, 18:24:31.1; Mamer, 18:47:46.1, and Keadle, 19:21:-08. The fifth contestant to finish was Bert Ruoff, of Seattle, Wash. Blum piloted a Lockheed-Vega plane with a Wright J-5 motor.

Art Chester, of Joliet, Ill., won both of the civilians' closed course races, each of them 25 miles around the

Wreck of First Ship to Ply Great Lakes Found in Bay

Canada Will Salvage Le Griffin, Last Seen Afloat 251 Years Ago, When It Departed on Mission Directed by La Salle.

Sebguandah, Ont., Aug. 25 (A.P.).—The water-logged hulk of the first commercial vessel to ply the Great Lakes has been discovered in Missisagi Strait, off Manitoulin Island, in Georgian Bay.

A commission of three Canadians, after a close inspection of the wrecked craft, announced today they are convinced the vessel was the Le Griffin, commanded by a Danish pilot named Lucas, which was lost in a storm 251 years ago.

The commission has received permission from the Ontario department of public works to salvage the wreck. The department had denied a similar permit to an expedition from Wyandotte, Mich.

The Le Griffin was the boat in which Rene Robert, Sieur De La Salle, expected to find an opening from the Great Lakes to the Mississippi River. After sailing Lakes Erie and Huron, La Salle in 1679 took on a load of furs at Washington Island, Lake Michigan, and started it back to Niagara in charge of the Dane and five seamen.

The vessel was last seen as gales drove it through the Straits of Mackinac. Later La Salle, who had continued down Lake Michigan seeking a route to the Mississippi, made a circuit of Lake Huron, but aside from small bits of wreckage could find no trace of the craft.

Several expeditions have searched for the wreck of the Griffin in recent years and a number of sunken hulks have been examined without avail. The location and nature of construction of the hulk now under scrutiny convince the members of the expedition that they have at last discovered the pioneer merchantman of the lakes.

LEAD OF ATHLETICS CUT TO 6½ GAMES

Sam Jones Winner Over Lefty Grove in Pitching Duel.

WASHINGTON'S LEAD IS TIED IN FOURTH

By FRANK H. YOUNG
(Staff Correspondent of The Post).

Shibe Park, Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 25.—Walter Johnson's scrappy Nationals made it two victories in a row over the world's champion Athletics here this afternoon, winning a hard-fought pitching duel between "Sad Sam" Jones and Robert Moses ("Lefty") Grove, 3 to 2. The triumph cut the Mackmen's league lead to six and one-half games and enabled the Johnsons to step into a four-game second-place lead over the Yankees, who did not play.

Although Jones deserves plenty of credit for outpitching the great Grove, who was shooting for his twenty-second triumph of the season and his eighth in a row, it was the potent bludgeon of Shortstop Joe Cronin which made victory possible. Joe poled out his eleventh homer of the season with a mate on base to give the Nationals two runs in the fourth, while it was his single in the ninth which propelled Rice across the counting block with the winning run.

Nats Bunch Hits

Both Jones and Grove pitched spotty ball, doing well one inning and ineffective in others. Jones struck out two and walked five, and Grove fanned four and walked two. The Nationals did their scoring in the only two rounds in which they were able to garner two hits. Jones pitched hitless ball for three frames, the Macks crowding all of their six safeties into the fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh, with the veteran traveling at top speed again in the last two rounds.

In addition to Cronin, "Buddie" Myer also was credited with two bingles, while the only triple of the game was inserted by Bluege, West, Cronin and Bluege contributed the fielding features. Grove, with two one-basers, accounted for a third of the alien attack.

Round four seemed to be a signal for the batters of both teams to go to work, for previously Rice's wasted single in the first had been the only safety of the game. In the fourth, however, both teams got busy, the

G.O.P. Chairman Praises Record of Hoover in Radio Talk.

FOREIGN RETALIATION THREAT IS SCOUTED

DEMOCRATS RAPPED FOR EXAGGERATIONS

(Associated Press.)

A Republican view of the Hoover administration, which, in contrast to expressed views of Democratic party leaders, saw good in the agricultural marketing act and the tariff bill was presented last night by the party chairman, Senator Simeon D. Fess, of Ohio, speaking over the National Broadcasting System, who scoffed at the idea that other countries would retaliate against tariff duties.

He gave President Hoover credit for dulling the edge of the business depression and said that the future historian would probably place the President's work for world peace as the major accomplishment of his first year and a half in office.

In summing up administration achievements he said that the President "has taken a strong stand on enforcement of the eighteenth amendment and has presented to Congress recommendations of legislation to more effectually enforce the law."

Special Session Cited.

Mr. Hoover called a special session, Senator Fess said, to deal with campaign promises and out of it came a farm relief bill and a tariff bill.

The Republican chairman said that the farm relief bill is fundamentally sound and avoids danger of direct subsidies from the Government. He added that the tariff was revised to aid agriculture and industries in need of help against foreign competition.

"There has been no retaliation legislation," he said, "and there will not likely be any. Such talk may be good partisan policy, but is never good economic sense. Countries legislate in their own interests, not to make an outlet for party spleen."

Blame for the business depression was placed by Senator Fess on world-wide speculation. He said that the administration made every effort through the Federal Reserve Board to warn against the speculation mania. The crash came, he continued, and when it did President Hoover, with characteristic promptness, took charge of the situation.

Says Democrats Exaggerate.

"The Republican chairman said that Democrats had attempted to capitalize the depression and had not hesi-

Hungarian Archduke Weds; Spurns Throne

Albrecht Takes Oath to Otto as Liege; Will Go to Brazil.

Budapest, Hungary, Aug. 25 (A.P.). Archduke Albrecht, of the Hapsburgs, aspirant to the Hungarian throne, has found, like King Carol of Roumania, that the royal road to romance is a rocky one.

The archduke, preferring love to leadership, has married Mme. Irene Leibach, divorced wife of the Hungarian minister to Sofia, also known as Irene Rudnay. For the love of her he intends to renounce all his titles and privileges as a member of the Hapsburg royal family and emigrate to Brazil.

The marriage is said by an official communique to have ben a civil ceremony, which took place some time ago, probably in London. With it virtually end Albrecht's chances of ever occupying the throne.

Albrecht was bitterly opposed in his desire to marry by his ambitious mother, widow of the Archduke Friedrich. She led a fight in legitimist ranks against the pretentions of Archduke Otto, son of the former Emperor Charles, who has been studying in Belgium with his mother, the former Empress Zita.

When at last the Archduchess Isabella's remonstrances became embittered, Albrecht took matters into his own hands and decided to sail for South America.

On his way he determined to settle the question of love or politics once and for all. He visited Archduke Otto in Belgium, and by swearing allegiance to him automatically transferred his claims to the boy, who now is the sole hope of the Hungarian legitimists.

In Brazil Albrecht acquired 150,000 acres of land, where he intends to settle with his bride and about 400 Hungarian retainers. He is 42 years old, whereas Otto will be 18 in November.

WARDMAN RELEASES HELM OF PROPERTIES VALUED AT $30,000,000

One of the most important deals in Washington's real estate history was consummated yesterday in transfer of real estate properties owned by a group headed by Harry Wardman (right), to the Hotels Management & Securities Corporation, headed by J. Reed Lane, of Davenport, Iowa, president.

Transaction Marks Real Estate Man's Virtual Retirement.

FIRM TAKES CONTROL; NO CASH IS INVOLVED

$200,000 in Improvement Work Approved by New Owners.

LONG STUDY OF FIELD MADE BY PURCHASERS

Several of Capital's Best Known Hotels Included in Agreement.

All hotel and apartment house properties of Harry Wardman, constructed throughout Washington during his meteoric rise to national prominence in the real estate field, passed from his possession last night.

The properties, valued at $30,000,000, included the Wardman Park Hotel, one of the largest and best known hosteiries in America; the Carlton Hotel, Hotel Roosevelt, the Chastleton Hotel, Hotel Annapolis, and various apartment houses aggregating more than 7,000 rooms.

They were turned over to the Hotels Management & Securities Corporation. The executive officers of the new company are Emory L. Coblentz, of Frederick, Md., well known capitalist, chairman of the board of directors; J. Reed Lane, of Davenport, Iowa, a prominent figure in the hotel business, president; George E. Allen, of Chicago, Ill.; F. Roger Miller, of Asheville, N. C., and Alfred C. Torgeson, of New York City, vice presidents.

No Cash Is Involved.

Mr. Wardman, in a statement to The Washington Post last night, said that no cash was involved in the deal nor would any financial consideration be included. He likewise explained that the transactions marked his virtual retirement from business, and that he intended to devote himself only to his private real estate interests, and possibly at a later time to certain construction activities.

The statement of the new owners said that they had met all interest and sinking fund obligations of the groups taken over.

The new owners assumed full control and management of the Wardman Realty and Construction Co., and its subsidiary, Wardman Real Estate Properties, Inc. The associates of Mr. Wardman in these enterprises likewise severed their connections in the deal, which began taking form on July 15, 1929, when the new owners acquired a management contract for the properties.

Change of Name Made.

At the time the new owners of the property were known as United Realties, Inc., but they obtained only a lease on the hotels and some of the apartment house properties, and operated under this name until the change of name was deemed expedient to complete the ownership of the properties.

"We are acquiring ownership after months of intimate contact and the most searching study of business possibilities, present and potential," declared the new owners in a statement. "This indicates our confidence in the business future of the Nation's Capital and in the largest group of hotels and apartment houses operating under one management in one city in Eastern America.

"Ample working capital is available for necessary current requirements. Additional funds are available for necessary capital expenditures, and we have already approved appropriations aggregating between $200,000 and $250,000 to be expended for improvements during the coming year. The values of Washington real estate in our opinion are sound, and with the return of ordinary business conditions, substantial earnings from

ARMY COUP DEPOSES PRESIDENT OF PERU

Junta Names Gen. Ponce to Be Ruler as Leguia Sails to Exile.

CROWDS IN LIMA JOYFUL

The 67-year-old man, who seized the Peruvian government by a coup d'etat in 1919 and since had ruled the country as a dictator, resigned before dawn this morning in compliance with the demands of a military junta.

Thereupon the Junta immediately established a new government, headed by Gen. Manuel Ponce, and announced that its policy under the existing constitution would be one of "progress, concord and moral sanitation."

Then the government guaranteed safe conduct out of the country to the former president, and the journey to Callao, port of Lima, began. At 5:15 o'clock this morning, accompanied by his son, John; his son-in-law, Alfredo Larranaga, and the remainder of his family, Leguia went to the pier and walked aboard the Almirante Grau, which immediately steamed out.

The cruiser was scheduled to connect with the British steamship Orduna, which is due in Panama August 29 at sea. Some of his supporters were at the pier and they cheered Leguia farewell as the cruiser pulled out, while catcalls were heard from others.

The dramatic events which unseated one of the strongest rulers of South America began only a few days ago. Late last week the garrison at Arequipa revolted under the leadership of Lieut. Col. Sanchez Cerro, and the revolt soon spread to other districts in the southern part of the republic.

Nothing occurred in Lima, but the

TWO KNIFED BY MAN IN STREET SCUFFLE

HAD WOMAN COMPANION

Whipping out a long butcher knife, an unidentified Negro ran amuck last night on Prospect avenue between Thirty-third and Thirty-fourth streets northwest, attacked four young men who were walking together and escaped after critically stabbing two in the group.

They are Richard Reardon, 20 years old, of 2616 Pennsylvania avenue northwest, who was stabbed below the left lung, and Marion Harding, 18 years old, of 1718 Thirty-fourth street northwest, a chemist of the Chevy Chase Dairy, who was stabbed above the left groin.

Both were taken to Georgetown Hospital, where the condition of Reardon was reported as grave, with Harding having a slightly better chance for recovery.

Seventh Precinct police immediately were notified by the two companions of the stabbed pair, Woodrow Williams, 17 years old, of 3330 T street northwest, and Ralph L. Dushout, 19 years old, of 3415 Q street northwest.

Williams and Dushout told police that the four had passed the Negro man and a woman companion coming from the opposite direction, when the man suddenly wheeled, started to cursing them and flashing a long knife from a rear pocket. They said that Reardon nad Harding were slashed in grappling to defend themselves.

Williams, according to his story, pursued the man for about three blocks, but was outdistanced. The woman, wearing a polka dress, also escaped. Dushout, in the meanwhile, removed his two hurt companions to the hospital. They told police the Negro wore eyeglasses and a dark blue suit.

Fourth Woman in Custody as Georgia Authorities Seek Taxi Driver Regarded as "Key" Man in Killing of Capital Painter.

Special to The Washington Post.

Darien, Ga., Aug. 25.—A fourth woman was under arrest here today and a taxi driver by the name of Hamm was being sought as the key man in the mysterious death in 1928 of Frank Nagel, Washington, D. C., interior decorator.

One of the four women, Ruth Cross, is out under $500 bond and the three others, Daisy Rowe Crisp, Lillian Lewis and Ann Rowe, will be given preliminary hearing Wednesday.

Ruth Cross is charged with being an accessory after the fact, while Lillian Lewis and Ann Rowe are being held as accessories before the fact. In the arrest of Daisy Crisp today, officers charged she was hostess of the house at Brunswick, Ga., where a party was staged on the last night Nagel was seen alive.

Although declining to reveal details of the investigation, authorities said that Hamm, the taxi driver, would, if located, provide the missing link in the evidence which they have in their possession.

Lillian Lewis, when taken into custody, said she was willing to tell everything she knew about the case. She said she could establish where she was at the time of the slaying of the decorator.

On the evening Nagel disappeared, the Lewis woman said, she saw him at a house in Brunswick where she was staying. She said she left later for Jacksonville, Fla., and was at a Large Interests Elsewhere.

The new group owns Grove Park Inn, in Asheville, N. C., one of the finest resort hotels in the world, and also has large interests in New York, Iowa, Minnesota and other sections of the country.

Mr. Wardman for more than two decades has been the biggest real estate operator in Washington, and about the time of the World War, when Washington experienced its greatest growth, he built stores and apartment houses in all parts of the city. He also was heavily interested in the Park Lane Hotel in London.

In the last decade he constructed a number of hotels, including the Wardman Park Hotel, the Carlton Hotel and the Hay-Adams House. His final large job was the British Embassy, only recently completed. He made particular efforts to get the contract, inasmuch as he was a native of Great Britain, having come to this country as a poor immigrant youth to enter on a career which brought him considerable prominence.

Mount Hope Farm Pen Leads; Pennsylvania Hen Still High Bird.

Special to The Washington Post.

College Park, Md., Aug. 25.—During the forty-second week of the annual egg-laying contest at the University of Maryland Experiment Station, the birds under competition resisted the tendency for a normal seasonal decline, and increased their rate of laying to 44.64 per cent. This percentage represents an increase of 3.58 from the previous week, when a percentage of 41.06 was recorded. It constitutes the first substantial increase since April.

Production line-up for the leading pens continues the same as for last week, all of the leaders being of the single comb, white leghorn breed. The entry of Mount Hope Farm, Williamstown, Mass., is still in first place with 2,224 eggs, and the ten hens of L. R. Douglas, Kinsale, Va., are second with 2,193 eggs. Third honors went to the entry of Jack Lynch, Mansfield Depot, Conn., with a lay of 2,161.

High hen continues to be No. 1 in the pen of the Ehmann Poultry Farm, Allison Park, Pa. She has produced 260 eggs to date. Hen No. 364 in the pen of the Wayside Poultry Farm, Elmont, Va., has produced 257 eggs.

Comedian Who Struck Spectator Pays $5 Fine

Baltimore, Md., Aug. 25 (A.P.).—Herman Katz, burlesque show comedian, is said to be funny but he doesn't think it funny when others think his efforts are not funny.

"That's awful. Bring on the girls," was shouted from the audience Friday night by Claude Battles, of Mobile, Ala., as Katz did his stuff. Whereupon Katz leaped over the footlights and struck Battles. In police court he paid a fine of $5. The end of the matter is not yet, for Katz struck James Devine, of Baltimore, who appeared against him, as Devine left court. He was arrested today to face another charge.

Orange, Va., Aug. 25.—Harry St. George Tucker, of Lexington, Va., will address the Confederate Veterans at the Grand Camp to be held in Orange September 16 to 18 inclusive, according to announcement today by Col. Daniel L. Porter, general chairman in charge of arrangements for the entertainment of the old soldiers. Mr. Tucker will speak on Thursday, closing day of the reunion.

Somerville, and Montpelier Cemetery, wherein are buried President Madison and his wife, Dolly. His place has recently been made a national shrine through its gift by Mrs. Somerville to the William Byrd Chapter D. A. R.

A leading feature of the program will be the unveiling of a monument at Walnut Hill in honor of Gen. Lawson Kemper, Confederate leader and Governor of Virginia from 1874 to 1878. The monument will be unveiled by two of the general's descendants, Miss Virginia Kemper Millard, a great-granddaughter, and Lyman Clifford Millard, jr., a great-grandson. Dr. Douglas Freeman, of Richmond, will make the dedicatory address.

Farm Hand Is Held On Arson Charge

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., Aug. 25.—Camillus McKee, farm employe, was arrested today on an information warrant accusing him of burning the dwelling and barn of Clarence Lockhart, near Rockenon Springs, Saturday night, causing a $10,000 loss with $3,000 insurance. McKee was released on bail for the grand jury.

The house, a colonial mansion, was built by Gen. Josiah Lockhart, who served under Gen. Washington. Three other houses between the mansion and barn were not fired.

The Lockhart family was attending a lawn festival at Gore for the families whose homes were burned during a recent $500,000 fire there and when news came of the Lockhart fire the party broke up, all hands going to the scene, but too late to save anything.

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Clarendon 2324-W-2.

A mass meeting of the Republicans of Fairfax County was held last night in the Fairfax courthouse. They were very enthusiastic in their support of Dr. F. M. Brooks, the Republican nominee for Congress from the Eighth Virginia Congressional District. They made plans for an active campaign in the district in his behalf. The fact that Fairfax County has voted Republican in the last two general elections has given them heart and they plan to make a hard drive to carry it again this year.

Delegates and alternates to the State Republican convention, which is to be held in Roanoke Saturday to select the Republican candidate to oppose Senator Carter Glass, were also elected last night. The delegates elected were: Aleck L. Height, Anthony Hart, C. J. Mohler, Ben Middleton, George R. Bready, Clark Robb, W. T. Westcott, Milton Roberts, Miss Mattie Grundy, J. Sidney Wiley, Mrs. M. C. Midwell, Dr. F. M. Brooks, Ross Walker, Mrs. E. Neil Berry, J. Norman Gibbs, Leon L. Freeman, R. L. Robertson, W. R. Gray, Merton E. Church, Leslie Bell, Mrs. Cuba Curtice, Henry Curtis, George W. Hawhurst, H. A. Sager and A. F. Hinsberger.

The delegates who are to attend the State convention were instructed to cast the vote for the entire county and not by districts, of which there are 25 in Fairfax County. J. Rain in Winchester First Since July 1

Farmers and Fruit Growers Hail Downpour With Joy.

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., Aug. 25.—An inch of rain fell here late today, the first since July 1 and the heaviest precipitation in any day since early last spring. Reports early tonight indicated it was general over the lower Shenandoah Valley, which was described by Secretary of Agriculture Hyde as the hardest hit drought section he had visited in a four-day survey of Virginia and several other Eastern and Middle Western States. The precipitation in some other valley communities was reported even heavier.

Farmers and fruit growers hailed the torrential downpour with joy. The former said it would put ground in condition for fall plowing. Until now the soil has been baked hard. It would also help pasture, but was said to be probably too late to "make" a corn crop.

Apple growers said it would impart new life to trees, long since weakened by hot dry weather, and stimulate fruit growth, while cool nights would make apples attain natural color.

The resolution was presented by County Treasurer George B. Keezell, who declared all indications pointed to great distress among laboring people in Rockingham County this coming winter, especially as there is no corn to cut and shuck and no fall harvest to stimulate farm employment. The central drought relief committee, of which G. F. Holsinger is chairman, named a number of subcommittees to work out plans to aid in relief measures.

County Agent S. M. Cox announced at the meeting that orders today left Rockingham County for alfalfa hay in Nebraska at $12.75 a ton. The freight rate will be around $12 a ton, making the total cost to the farmers approximately $25 a ton.

ARLINGTON COUNTY HOMES ARE ROBBED

Three Visitations Charged to Stranger Pursued by Police, Posse.

ONE WEEK-END ARREST

ARLINGTON COUNTY
BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 309. Clarendon, Va.

Arlington County police, assisted by a posse of citizens, are combing the woods of the county searching for a nonchalant burglar, who stated to Mrs. David N. Luttrell, of Leeway near Falls Church, when she surprised him ransacking her home yesterday morning, "I am in the wrong house." As Mrs. Luttrell started to go into another room where there was a gun the man calmly left through the front door. Once outside he showed a fast pair of heels, says William Ames, a neighbor, who was attracted by Mrs. Luttrell's screams, and gave chase, armed with a shotgun.

Entrance to the home was gained by cutting a hole in the screen. The man had ransacked the bedroom when Mrs. Luttrell, attracted from the rear of the house, where she was working, by a strange noise, entered the room. Ames chased the man through the woods along the back roads to Halls Hill and through Livingston Heights. There he was joined by the police, who trailed the man along Glebe road toward Chain Bridge, but the trail was lost in woods nearby.

Yesterday afternoon, after the excitement had died down in the neighborhood, Mrs. W. S. Frick, the next-door neighbor of the Luttrells, returned to her home from a shopping trip and discovered that her home had also been ransacked by an intruder. The only thing that was discovered missing was her daughter's savings bank.

The home of Dr. Howard Berger, who lives only a short distance away from the other homes, was entered while he and his wife were on a week-end trip, and approximately $150 in money and jewelry was missing. The loss was discovered when they returned yesterday morning. It is believed that all the burglaries were committed by the man discovered in the Luttrell home. The man was described as being white, about 22 years old, weighing about 165 pounds, with dark bushy hair and dressed in dark clothing.

Edward Gibson, 50, living near Simpson's Landing, on the Potomac River above Rosslyn, died in his home before medical aid could be summoned. He was alone at the time he was stricken, but his groans attracted attention of neighbors who came to his assistance. Coroner H. B. Swain was notified, and after an examination stated that death was the result of a hemorrhage caused by ulceration of the stomach.

The meeting of the Ballston Citizens Association that was to have been held tonight has been postponed until September.

Arlington Post, No. 139, of the American Legion will hold its meeting tomorrow evening in the Boy Scout Hall at Ballston. The legion's auxiliary is also scheduled to meet tomorrow evening.

Arlington County police report that last week-end was exceptional in that only one arrest was made and no automobile accidents were reported. Frank G. Hineman, of Washington, forfeited $15 on a charge of reckless driving yesterday morning in police court. Associate Police Court Judge Bryan Gordon presided in the absence of Judge Harry Thomas.

Fire departments of the county were kept busy yesterday answering calls to grass and woods fires. Fire chiefs of various companies urge caution, as the continued drought has made everything highly inflammable, and in remote sections of the county water is very scarce.

Mrs. Grace E. Thompson, 37, wife of Frank A. Thompson, died at her home yesterday afternoon at 20 Beech street, Clarendon. Death, which came suddenly, was a shock to her friends. She was stricken with paralysis yesterday morning.

She is survived by her husband, a daughter, Mrs. Mildred C. Miller, of Washington, and three sons, Richard Leonard, Francis Edward and Wilbur Bernard Thompson. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

POLLARD SETS DATE FOR YORKTOWN FETE

Annual Celebration of Fall of City Will Be Held on October 20.

1931 PLANS LAUNCHED

Richmond, Va., Aug. 25 (A.P.).—Since October 19, date of the Yorktown surrender, falls on Sunday this year, Gov. Pollard will designate the following day, Monday, October 20, as the date for the annual celebration.

The governor said he would act in response to a resolution passed by the Virginia Yorktown Sesquicentennial Commission at Yorktown, the resolution joining a request of the Comte de Grasse Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, to have the celebration fall on Monday, October 20.

Early preparations are being made by the sesquicentennial commission for the 1931 celebration of the delivery by Lord Cornwallis of his sword to Gen. Washington. Governors of the 13 original States are to be invited to attend.

At a meeting of the commission at Yorktown last week Ashton Dovell, of Williamsburg, was elected president of the commission and John W. Williams, of Richmond, clerk of the House of Delegates, was elected secretary. Mr. Dovell, a member of the House of Delegates, was author of legislation at the 1930 session of the General Assembly in support of the celebration next year.

Funds in the amount of $2,500 are to be given by the commission to aid in the survey of the Yorktown area now being conducted by the Federal Government. The survey, well under way, is expected to be completed within the next 30 to 60 days.

The survey was ordered by the Federal Government to insure accuracy in location of various historical markers in the area not only for the purposes of the sesquicentennial, but also for the Colonial National Monument which is to include Yorktown, Williamsburg and Jamestown. Data obtained in the survey will be used in providing sanitary arrangements, locating docks, piers and wharves, locating an auditorium and in laying out highways through the Colonial National Monument area.

At its meeting last week the commission agreed to assist the Yorktown Sesquicentennial Association, Inc., with an appropriation of $1,000. The association, headed by John Stewart Bryan, Richmond publisher, was formed for the purpose of arranging plans for the 1931 celebration.

The bill was introduced in the House of Representatives last April. The request for a report on Presidents' birthplaces in Virginia was made to Gov. Pollard by H. P. Caemmerer, secretary of the Commission of Fine Arts, at Washington, D. C.

The birthplaces inquired about in Mr. Caemmerer's letter were those of Thomas Jefferson, at Shadwell; James Madison, at Port Conway; James Monroe, in Westmoreland County; William Henry Harrison, at Berkeley; John Tyler, in Charles City County; Zachary Taylor, in Orange County, and Woodrow Wilson, at Staunton.

ELECTION PREJUDICE LAID TO IGNORANCE

CAPITAL MAN IS HEARD

Emmitsburg, Md., Aug. 25 (A.P.).—Blame for the religious prejudice she said was prevalent in the last national Presidential campaign was laid today to misinformation by Mrs. Mary Blake Finan, of Chicago, president of the International Federation of Catholic Alumnae.

In her report to the ninth biennial convention of the association, Mrs. Finan said prejudice was caused by incorrect information concerning Catholic doctrine and the misapprehension that Catholics were trying to get civic control.

"That fear," she said, "should be silenced now, for by the terms of the Lateran Treaty Pope Pius XI has made manifest to the world that the church does not covet secular rule."

Independence Only Aim.

"The Holy See has sovereign jurisdiction over about 160 acres. It is to the pride and glory of the Catholic Church that this territory was restricted by the expressed wish of the Pope. The object of the treaty was to safeguard the independence of the Holy See and not to seek political power or a ruler's glory."

She reported the addition of 55 associations of Catholic college and high school alumnae in the United States, England, Canada and Australia during the last two years.

At the convention, held in St. Joseph's College here, are approximately 1,000 delegates and visitors from the local associations, representing a membership said to total 80,000.

Clothing Crusade Discussed.

Plans for a campaign against immodest dress of women were under informal discussion today.

In 1916 the federation adopted a resolution calling attention to the tendency of women in keeping up with the styles to lighten their clothing burden, and the same or a similar resolution has been prepared for introduction at the present session.

Business sessions began today following an address by Mgr. Edward A. Pace, of the Catholic University at Washington. Carrying lighted tapers, delegates last night visited the tomb of Mother Seton, organizer of one of the branches of the Sisters of Charity. In the afternoon a wreath was placed on the National Monument in Gettysburg Cemetery by Mrs. Mary Blake Finan, of Chicago, international president.

Plenty of Real Ice

The ice compartment of your refrigerator—two-thirds filled with clear, sparkling ice—should be a great source of comfort these hot days when there are so many demands for big chunks of real ice. When ICE is needed "nothing else will do." A long, cold drink tastes twice as delicious when the tinkle of ice is added.

AMNESTY OFFERED TO CHINESE REBELS

National Government Also Tenders Rewards for Capitulation.

LEADERS NOT INCLUDED

Nanking, Aug. 25 (A.P.).—Amnesty, "cushma" (rewards) and propaganda, the three musketeers of every Chinese army were brought to play in the present civil strife today by the Nationalist government as an inducement to northern rebels to lay down their arms.

The amnesty, however, does not apply to Feng Yu-Hsiang and Yen Hsi-Shan, leaders of the revolt, who, it was indicated, will be treated as traitors, if caught.

The offer of amnesty was made through pamphlets dropped over rebel lines by Nationalist airplanes. The government offered to take men and minor officers back into its armies on a "no questions asked" basis but said Feng and Yen, the "arch rebels," could not be pardoned.

The "cushma," seaboard jargon for all manner of rewards from mere tips up to major graft, was offered by the government in the form of reward for capture of rebel-held northern cities. For the capture of Kungshien, a rebel arsenal town, $200,000 Mexican (about $68,000 gold) was offered. "Silver bullets" often are resorted to in China to restore lagging interest of soldiers. Inclement weather has damped the arder of many units recently. The propaganda was included in arguments accompanying the offers.

The only casualties reported today resulted from the explosion of an ammunition train of 29 cars near Kweiteh, Honan, on the Haichow-Tungkwan Railway. Heavy shells and aerial bombs twisted steel cars into a battered mass and tore up the right of way. An undetermined number of persons was killed.

The explosion slowed up Nationalist armies, already much hampered by flooded battle fields due to torrential rains. Meanwhile forces of Feng and Yen were reported holding positions west of Kweiteh and advancing to Pochow, Anhwei province, which city they besieged after occupying Suichow, 35 miles west of Kweiteh.

The only Red activities reported today was the gathering of 5,000 Communists near Changsha, Hunan province capital, recently looted and damaged by fire by Red forces. The populace feared another attack.

Air Trips Abroad To Be Facilitated

State Department Adopts New Procedure to Get Flight Permission.

(Associated Press.)

Centralization of facilities to secure permission for airplane flights by American citizens and airplanes in Europe and the Near East was announced yesterday by the State Department.

Under the new procedure, requests to American embassies and consular officers to secure permission from foreign governments to make flights over their territory will be cabled for approval to the Department of Commerce by the American mission abroad, to which the request is made. If approved by the department, the American embassy in Paris will act as the central point from which the necessary permissions will be obtained from the foreign governments whose territory would be touched or flown over.

Under the present system the State Department makes each request separately through American missions abroad, involving considerable expense.

$10,000 HOME BURNS NEAR FOUR CORNERS

ORIGIN NOT DETERMINED

Fire of undetermined origin last night destroyed a two-story frome house on Colesville road near Four Corners, Md., causing damage of approximately $10,000, and calling out fire departments of Silver Spring, Kensington and Takoma Park.

The fire was discovered by George Bean, a neighbor, who called the fire departments. Flames were leaping skyward from the wooden structure when the fire was noticed by Mr. Bean. Silver Spring Volunteer Fire Department made a fast run to the scene but was handicapped by the lack of water.

The nearest fire hydrant was nearly a mile away and it was not until the Kensington department arrived thtat enough hose and pumping power could be placed in operation.

Firemen of the three companies carried out furniture from the first floor and part of the second floor before the flames became too hot to bar further salvage efforts. A crowd of more than 1,000 persons, most of them passing motorists, was attracted to the fire. Montgomery County Policemen Joseph Nolte and George Windham had difficulty in maintaining fire lines and keeping traffic unsnarled.

Oliver Hamilton, resident of the house, and his family were away at a nearby summer resort, according to neighbors.

Exports of Corn Decline Sharply

Wheat Shipments, However, Show Large Gain, Says Report.

Exports of corn during the seven months ended with July were little more than one-sixth those during the same period of last year, either in quantity or in value, according to a statement on exports of principal grains, grain products and feed stuffs issued by the Department of Commerce yesterday. On the other hand, wheat exports showed a substantial increase.

For corn exports this year's figures were 5,410,000 bushels valued at $5,020,000, as compared with 30,239,000 bushels valued at $30,556,000 for the first seven months of 1929. For wheat the respective totals were 44,328,000 bushels valued at $48,943,000, as compared with 39,038,000 bushels valued at $44,967,000. Wheat flour did not follow the upward trend of the grain, but showed moderate declines.

For July alone in the two years the comparison reveals a proportionately less falling off of corn exports, 330,000 bushels as compared with 768,000 last year and about the same proportion of gain in wheat.

MILITARY SEIZES LIMA GOVERNMENT

CHANGE MADE QUIETLY

city had a restless air yesterday. This grew into excitement when the cabinet, of which Huaman de los Heros was premier, resigned in view of the southern movement. The ministers were reported to have become dissatisfid at a meeting Friday, when some of them suggested that Sanchez Cerro be given command of the army. Leguia refused.

Meanwhile students began demonstrations during the morning, shouting "Down with the dictator! Long live liberty!" They were not disturbed by the police until one group was dispersed at the door of the government house.

In the face of this, the president, who has a large racing stud, followed his usual Sunday custom of going to the St. Beatriz race track. There he received an ovation from a little group of friends in the official grand stand, the last for him on Peruvian soil.

He left the track about 6 p. m., and his motor car, escorted by police, was followed by students who shouted against the dictatorship. The cries were taken up by the great crowds, who by this time were being disgorged from the motion picture theaters. The party reached the Presidential Palace without incident, however.

Leguia then conferred for half an hour with his military staff and announced that the resigned cabinet would be replaced with a ministry under Gen. Pedro Pablo Martinez.

Army Disowns Martinez.

On hearing this news a group of officers informed the president they would not accept Martinez, so the president designated Gen. Fernando Sarmiento to head a new government. Others chosen for ministries were Julio Golcochea, Col. Roberto Lopez, Col. Montage, Col. German Yanez and Rear Admiral Cesar Bielich.

At midnight President Leguia went to the government building to swear in the new cabinet. When all had been sworn in a dramatic interruption came with a military committee, which said no cabinet headed by either Sarmiento or Martinez would be satisfactory to the military forces.

While Gen. Leonidas Gonzales told him this the president pale but determined attempted to continue the ceremony. Gonzales remonstrated and John, the president's son, placed himself before his father in fear he would be attacked. Leguia finally gave in and the group adjourned to the president's office for a further conference.

There Gen. Ponce declared that the junta would not accept Sarmiento.

"Mr. President, you should resign," said Lieut. Col. Bueno.

"I am ready," said Leguia.

Leguia Signs Resignation.

His son attempted to participate in the argument, but was curtly ordered to hush by an officer. Sarmiento then attempted to take control of the situation, saying he had been sworn in, but the military men would not recognize him and said they would go to any lengths to make their will prevail.

The president went to his private rooms without further argument and wrote a resignation which said:

"I hereby close another chapter in Peru's history."

He prepared immediately to start for the steamer.

The junta then drafted a communique stating that a new government had been formed, saying that Sanchez Cerro, who started the revolt, would be given the post of minister of war. Gen. Ponce was made president and minister without portfolio. The others are as follows:

Capt. Juli V. Giocochea, foreign affairs.

Col. Eulogio Castillo, government and police.

Lieut. Arturo Zapata, justice and public education.

Col. Ricardo Liona, finance and commerce.

Sergt. Maj. Eduardo Castro Rios, public works.

Population Is Joyous.

All of this made a great day for the populace of Lima. As early as 4 o'clock this morning the central thoroughfares were filled with excited crowds, shouting, "Long live liberty! Long live the army! Long live the navy!" No one slept, apparently.

Most of the demonstrators were joyous and good natured, but some groups attacked the buildings of El Tiempo and La Prensa, newspapers which were regarded as Leguia organs. La Prensa was stoned, some of the doors and windows being broken.

At the other extreme were the hero worshippers. Sanchez Cerro is the new national idol, and probably will receive a riotous welcome when he arrives here by airplane, having been summoned by the Junta to take his new post.

Gen. Ponce, too, was acclaimed wildly by the crowds. Students especially staged ovations for him, and in one instance his car was stopped while one youth jumped aboard it to deliver an impassioned speech.

Others appeared before the El Comercio with Col. Cesar Gonzales on their shoulders. He had been arrested by Leguia and imprisoned at Chorrilos Military Academy. His enthusiastic supporters demanded a speech, which ended in "Long live liberty."

Americans Thought Safe.

(Associated Press.)

The State Department is not unduly concerned about the safety of two American aviators reported in the hands of Peruvian revolutionists.

Officials, in touch with conditions in the country, expressed the opinion last night that the two men, Capt. H. B. Grow, of Greenville, Mich., and Elmer Faucett, of Savona, N. Y., soon would be released. It was felt that President Leguia's resignation had largely wiped out the cause for further disorders or armed uprisings.

Grow, a graduate of the Naval Academy and World War veteran, went to Peru in 1923 as a member of the naval mission to that country. He resigned in 1926, at President Leguia's request, to further Peruvian aviation. He accepted a commission as lieutenant commander in the U. S. Naval Reserve in February, 1927.

Faucett is an official of the Faucett Aviation Co. First reports were that revolutionists seized an airplane belonging to his concern, but from Buenos Aires came word that he also was held at Arequipa. Grow was captured Sunday morning at Camana.

Commerce Department officials also took an optimistic view of the situation as it affected American investments in Peru. Estimates of the American investments in Peru place the total at approximately $300,000,000. Dispatches to the State Department from Ferdinand L. Meyer, American charge de affairs in Lima, Peru, confirmed reports that President Leguia had resigned. The Peruvian Ambassador Manuel Freyre de Santander, however, said he had received no official communication regarding the situation.

The ambassador called on Acting Secretary of State Castle late in the day. He explained his call was merely a routine affair arranged for the purpose of presenting the new first secretary of the embassy.

BRITAIN ANSWERS PALESTINE CHARGES

Inadequate Police for Last Year's Bloody Riots Are Denied.

DELICATE POSITION TOLD

Geneva, Aug. 25 (A.P.).—The whole case for and against Great Britain's exercise of her mandate over Palestine under the League of Nations mandate commission was laid before the world today in an official report and a supplemental memorandum issued with it by the British foreign office.

Great Britain replies with asperity to the charges of the commission of negligence in having inadequately provided policing which would have averted last year's bloody wailing wall conflicts and their consequences to the development of the Arab executive's plan as well as the enlargement of the activities of the Jewish national home.

The commission report points out that the unprecedented phenomenon of the Zionist movement, with the intensive colonization which resulted in so vast a scale, was bound to cause a profound disturbance in the lives of that section of the population not concerned in the movement.

Arabs' Fears Natural.

The report adds that faced by a strongly organized Jewish body under a single control and with considerable capital at its disposal, the Arabs, with no organization and no financial resources, were bound before long to have legitimate apprehensions regarding their economic future.

Criticism on the part of the technical body which advises the council of the League of Nations regarding operations of the league's mandate system is not taken meekly by Ramsay MacDonald's government. Replying for the mandatory authority, Arthur Henderson, on whom responsibility for execution of the mandate rested, challenges the accuracy or justice of many of the league's findings and defends the British Palestine authorities against imputation of inaction and lack of foresight.

The general position taken by Secretary Henderson with regard to the complaints lodged by both Arabs and Jews was that Great Britain's pledge to safeguard the rights of all sections of the population without regard to race and religion was a fundamental law with which certain aspirations conflicted.

Delicate Position Recognized.

The extremely delicate position of Great Britain in Palestine was recognized by the mandates body when it said: "The Jews accused the mandatory power of having hindered rather than promoted Zionist immigration and has done little to encourage the close settlement of the Jews on the land. * * * The Arabs consider that Jewish immigrants are receiving unduly generous treatment, and that the number of immigrants authorized to enter the country is too great and that there has been no development of self-governing institutions."

The mandates body did not neglect to make some concrete suggestions. Urged that the government concern itself with the social and economic adaptation of the Arab population to the new conditions caused by Jewish immigration.

It also suggested extensive land development so as to increase possibility of absorbing immigrants and advocated an educational campaign among the Arabs to show them that the country can be developed in a way to accommodate Jews and Arabs together in great numbers and prosperously.

HOSTESS AT PARTY HELD IN NAGEL QUIZ

hotel there. She claimed she had made no effort to avoid arrest.

Officers say that they have established that Ruth Cross was in a taxicab with the decorator the last time he was seen alive, but the woman denies the charge and declares her innocence of any connection with the slaying.

The Nagel case first came to light in December, 1928, when his brother, at Washington, received a wire from Brunswick, Ga., advising him of the death and that the body was en route to Washington. The body never reached Washington, but was found January 8, 1930, more than a year after he disappeared.

Frank Nagel lived in Washington several months during 1924, at 808 Sixth street southwest. He worked as a painter here and was a member of the local painters' union. He visited friends here during 1928, shortly before he disappeared.

He was a native of St. Marys County, Md., where his brother is a farmer. It is said that the mother of the two boys, Frank and James, died shortly after they were born and that they were reared in an orphanage in the county. Frank Nagel, shortly before his fatal trip south, visited New York City in search of his father, who was said to have been seen in that city.

EDITOR SAYS JAPAN WILL PROTECT CHINA

Should U. S. or European Power Intervene, Claims Institute Speaker.

RED LEADERS PRAISED

Williamstown, Mass., Aug. 25 (A.P.).—George E. Sokolsky, of Shanghai, editor of the Far Eastern Review, said today at the Institute of Politics that Japan would protect China against any armed intervention by the United States or European powers.

He related that before coming to America he had talked with Baron Shidehara and others prominent in Japanese public and industrial life, and their general attitude was that of opposition to any foreign armed intervention in China.

Communist leaders in China, Sokolsky said, are men of character and ability and are an important factor in the future of Chin because they can unite hordes of hungry bandits into powerful fighting groups reinforced by Russian influence.

Dr. P. C. Chang, vice president of Nankai University, said: "If there is any capitalistic intervention in China by the powers there is the possibility of a united China and Russia. For intervention will hasten China's unity, indeed, and will also give to the world the largest fighting force.

Touching on extraterritoriality, Dr. Thomas F. Millard, political and diplomatic adviser to the Nanking government, said China might refuse to recognize extraterritorial rights of foreigners under the old treaties. He asked several public officials in Washington whether the United States would use force to regain those rights if China took that step, and the reply, he said, was that force would not be used because "the game is not worth the candle."

41 KILLED AS BRITISH BATTLE TRIBESMEN

Hand-to-Hand Fight Starts When India Warriors Slay Captain.

SOLDIERS CAPTURE 70

Simla, India, Aug. 25 (A.P.).—A sharp encounter, in which a British army officer and eight infantrymen were killed, was reported today to have taken place between British troops and Hathikhel warriors of Waziristan in the northwest frontier province.

With the Afridi attack on Peshawar, key city of the province, repulsed, Waziri tribesmen to the southwest have suddenly become active. The Afridis attacking Peshawar urged them to take the field against the British.

A force of Hathi Khels, led by a mullah named Fazal Quadar, suddenly advanced upon the remote city of Bannu, situated in the mountains 100 miles southwest of Peshawar and the Khyber Pass.

A British force under Capt. Ashcroft was sent out to parley with the tribesmen, who had announced they were rallying at a spot on the Bannu-Kohat road.

As the parleying began, Capt. Ashcroft entered into an argument with one of the tribal leaders. Suddenly another tribesman shot him from behind, killing him instantly.

Immediately a hand-to-hand fight began. The mullah was seriously wounded in the British onslaught and subsequently died. Eight British infantrymen were killed and ten injured. Thirty-two of the tribesmen were slain, 14 wounded and 70 taken prisoner.

The British force included regular infantry, frontier constabulary and native police. Its object was to forestall the tribal rally and to arrest the mullah.

The mullah had sent a message stating he was prepared to surrender if he were permitted to march to the meeting place and then to the Bannu Jail. At the jail he had promised that he and his followers would give themselves up without a fight.

DISTRICT MAY SCRAP PRESENT TRAFFIC ACT

tos as influential individuals and agencies have gone to the mat with officials to get permits restored. Against all arguments and appeals, from influence to personal friendship, the Traffic Office has adamantly turned a deaf ear.

Prospect of Removal.

The rich and the poor, motor club members and nonmembers, the official and unofficial, the meek and the mighty, all have been told—either through their attorneys or personally—that the Traffic Office will not restore a permit which the law has said must be taken away.

Friends of the Traffic Director insist that his determined refusal to be ruled has been destined for some time to reach a climax in an effort to remove him from the local traffic picture. His recent reappointment for another three-year term, which came as a surprise to them, did not allay their suspicions. It was regarded as merely symptomatic of a postponement of the eventual showdown.

That the solution of the dilemma of getting rid of Mr. Harland and Mr. Kidridge might take the form of a complete new traffic set-up with traffic control returned to the Police Department, has not been entirely unlooked for in certain quarters.

Coming on the heels of the revelations concerning another sub-committee's recommendation to abolish the famous rotary left turn, and the recommendation of another group for the elimination of all-night parking, the present disclosures are vastly more sweeping in what they portend for the local traffic situation. Even the basic law, the Traffic Act, is to be swept aside in the present program.

The recommendations of none of the subcommittees have been made public officially, nor are they destined to be until after all are ready for the full committee on October 1. However, after The Post's disclosures with regard to the left turn decision, it was admitted that the report, while "premature" in the words of Charles P. Clark, of the American Automobile Association, was accurate.

Mr. Clark is chairman of the subcommittee recommending abolition of the Traffic Office and the enactment of a new traffic act.

Hop's Goal Denied As Magnetic Pole

Canadian Flier Seeks to Solve Fate of Franklin Ship in Arctic.

Ottawa, Aug. 25 (A.P.).—Officials of the department of interior denied tonight that Maj. L. T. Burwash, Canadian Arctic explorer, is flying toward the magnetic North Pole. They gave King William's Land as his destination.

Burwash's purpose, they said, is to solve the fates of Sir John Franklin and 140 men who were lost there with two ships more than a century ago. They emphatically denied the report that he would continue north to Boothia Island, the estimated position of the Pole.

The explorer and his pilot, W. E. Gilbert, took off to the east toward Victoria Land Saturday and were expected to be at Cambridge Bay today. They will leave for King William's Land as soon as weather permits, authorities said.

Butcher in Suburb Of Chicago Shot Dead

Chicao, Aug. 25 (A.P.).—Joseph Terravecchia a butcher in suburban Cicero, was shot to death last night in an alley behind his home.

A number of shotgun slugs were found in his body, which was only partially clothed. The widow was too hysterical to be questioned but police advanced the theory of a gangland shooting. As far as could be learned, however, Terravecchia had no gang connections.

Escaped Prisoner Faces Death Chair

Life Termer, If Captured, Will Be Subject to Original Penalty.

Tallahassee, Fla., Aug. 25 (A.P.).—If Arthur "Bear" Davis, who escaped from the State Prison Camp near Defuniak Springs last week, while serving a life sentence for murder, is recaptured, he will face electrocution, prison bureau officials here said.

Davis was convicted in 1926 in Volusia County for the murder of J. E. Higginbotham, and sentenced to die in the electric chair. Then he was granted a commutation of sentence by the State pardon board on March 20, 1929, on condition that he did not participate in any mutiny or attempt to escape.

His escape from the prison road camp last Thursday was a violation of the conditions of the commutation and it is likely, prison officials said, that if he is captured he will be sent to the chair.

tated to exaggerate the real condition. He dwelt upon the work for world peace done by Mr. Hoover. He said that this included his good will trip to South America, adjustment of a long-standing dispute between Peru and Chili, and the London naval pact.

"The London naval pact," he said, "will stand out as a notable service toward the peace of the world. It was the consummation of a national impulse long entertained by peace-loving and war-fearing elements in all countries involved.

"In the face of this unparalleled accomplishment of legislative and administrative service," Senator Fess concluded, "our opponents have nothing to offer the American people beyond attack and flippant references to personality, employing a depression as the chief argument to get into power."

Crude rubber consumption by American manufacturers the first six months of 1929 was 219,881 long tons.

BANKERS TO CONFER ON DROUGHT TODAY

HYDE, BACK, IS HOPEFUL

(Associated Press.)

Greener pastures from recent rains are expected to be an optimistic background in the minds of bankers who meet at the White House today to work out means of aiding farmers whose funds have evaporated during the drought to get cash or credit.

Secretary Hyde, who returned to the Capital yesterday fro man inspection of dry sections in Virginia, West Virginia Kentucky Indiana and Ohio, said rains had helped.

"I feel much better about the situation," he said. "While the loss is there, pastures are not permanently injured."

Meet This Afternoon.

The banking members on the State drought relief committees will confer with President Hoover and members of the national drought relief committee today at 2:30 p. m. Twelve States have said they would send representatives, but others may have delegates present.

The meeting will study the proposal by the national committee for the creation of State or local credit corporations to make loans to farmers through intermediate credit banks.

Henry M. Robinson, Los Angeles banker, will coordinate financial relief efforts for the national committee.

Secretary Hyde, who is chairman of the national committee, said the historical Shenandoah Valley of Virginia was the worst affected of the areas he saw. He added that he was amazed at the adaptability of the people to meet the situation but suggested there was a possibility the loss in grain crops would be greater than was at first expected.

Demand Due in Fall.

He was unwilling to attempt to estimate the money necessary for drought loans. The original estimate of $20,000,000, he said, was hastily made, adding that ultimately that amount or "ten times that much" might be necessary.

The heaviest demand for loans is expected this fall rather than at present.

Secretary Hyde expressed the opinion the establishment of county committees to pass on loans would be "the only way the Government can get down to the ground" in bringing relief to small farmers who need it most.

Among States expected to be represented at the meeting tomorrow are West Virginia, Virginia, Ohio, Alabama, Arkansas, Mississippi, Indiana, Missouri, Illinois, Kentucky, Texas and Maryland.

AIR MAIL BIDS CAUSE RUMORS TO SPREAD

Plan to Test Regulations Is Denied in Proposals on Route to Coast.

THREE OFFERS RECEIVED

(Associated Press.)

Bids for two new transcontinental air mail routes yesterday showed two competitors for the New York to Los Angeles contracts, while the Atlanta to Los Angeles line had but one bid, that of the Robertson Aircraft Co., of St. Louis, combined with Southwest Air Fast Express.

For the New York route, Western Air Express, combined with Transcontinental Air Transport, submitted a bid of 97½ per cent of the maximum rates, while United Avigation Co., of Pittsburgh, submitted a low bid of 64 per cent of maximum. The Robertson bid was 100 per cent of the maximum rate of $1.25 a mile.

Postoffice Department officials said their information was that the United Avigation Co. could not meet a provision of the bid's specifications which required prveious operations on a regular night schedule for six months over a 250-mile route. This led to some confusion and a report that the company planned to make the bid a test of the night flying requirements. Avigation Co. officials later denied this, however.

Paul Wick, of Youngstown, Ohio, president of the concern, said no suit was planned against the department because of the bid's specifications and added he believed his concern was in accord with the Postmaster General's plans with reference to air mail contracts.

HURRICANE AT SEA SOUTH OF BERMUDA

Tropical Disturbance Moves Northwest; Ships Given Caution Warning.

DIRECTION NOT CERTAIN

The Weather Bureau said yesterday available reports would not permit forecasts as to the intensity of a tropical disturbance reported off Porto Rico or the direction in which the disturbance would travel.

A report from only one vessel in the vicinity of the disturbance was received, the bureau said, stating that there was a wind of about 30 miles an hour, considered not unusual at this time of year.

The first indication of the disturbance, the bureau added, was a diminution in trade winds near the Virgin and Windward Islands. The disturbance, as tentatively located, is about 400 miles north-northeast of Porto Rico and moving northwestward.

The night report of the Weather Bureau said:

"Tropical disturbance attended by hurricane winds central at noon latitude 27, longitude 63 apparently moving north-northwestward. Caution advised vessels in the region of and to the south and west of Bermuda next 24 hours. Vessels requested to send special observations."

HURLEY SET TO OPEN MISSISSIPPI SURVEY

TOUR MAY BEGIN MONDAY

(Associated Press.)

Secretary Hurley prepared last night for an immediate inspection of all Mississippi waterway, river and harbor and flood control works from Minneapolis to New Orleans, while Army engineers were gathering data with a view to speeding up river work to relieve unemployment.

Maj. Gen. Lytle Brown, chief of the Army Engineers, and Thomas Q. Ashburn, chairman of the Inland Waterways Corporation, have been selected by the Secretary to accompany him. The trip down the river will be made by boat and Mr. Hurley plans to survey projects away from the stream by airplane. The War Secretary will begin his tour about September 1.

The work of the engineers to determine which projects can be expedited to relieve unemployment is being done as a result of the conference over the week-end between President Hoover, Secretary Hurley and Army Engineers at the President's Rapidan camp.

Localities where unemployment is most serious will be given the benefit, as far as is possible, of the residue of the $35,000,000 available during the fiscal year for flood control work, the Secretary said.

In discussing the general subject of waterways projects yesterday, Mr. Hurley said it was the purpose of the President's so-called five-year program to place traffic from the Great Lakes to the sea by the Mississippi within a period of five years. It is very probable, however, he said, there would be continuous work on the Mississippi and its tributaries for a century, during which time new streams, now considered non-navigable would be opened to traffic.

With regard to a proposal to increase the annual appropriation for flood control from $35,000,000 to $70,000,000, the Secretary said it was necessary to rely on the engineers as to the amount of money which could be economically expended and that the War Department would not anticipate recommendations of the engineers.

Taxi Driver Accused Of Larceny of Cab

Eugene Winters, driver for a 35-cent taxicab company, was arrested last night and charged with larceny after trust. Winters, 40 years old, lives at Ballston, Va.

On August 18 officials of the cab company requested police to search for Winteres. They said he had mysteriously disappeared with the cab, and they intimated that foul play might be responsible for his absence. At that time he had been gone three days. Following investigation police discovered that Winters had the cab. The charge followed.

Communists to Go On Illinois Ballot

Only Courts Can Bar Party, State Secretary Is Informed.

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 25 (A.P.).—Communist candidates will be given a place on the November ballot unless Secretary of State William J. Stratton is ordered to exclude members of that party by the courts of the State.

Secretary Stratton was asked to exclude the Communist party ticket from the ballot by the American Vigilant Intelligence Federation, of Chicago, on the grounds that the party was directly controlled by the Communist International of Moscow.

On advice of Attorney General Oscar E. Carlstrom, the secretary said that if the party meets the provisions of the Australian ballot law it would be given a place on the ballot, as only a court has power to determine whether the Communist party is in violation of any law.

GERMAN FLIERS DUE FOR NEW YORK HOP

Trio in Halifax Following Successful Passage of North Atlantic.

FOG CAUSES FLIGHT HALT

Halifax, N. S., Aug. 25 (A.P.).—Capt. Wolfgang Von Gronau, German flying instructor, who took off from Germany a week ago on an unannounced flight to America, landed here today after having accomplished the westward airplane crossing of the North Atlantic.

In an old rebuilt flying boat, which already had known two great adventures, Capt. Von Gronau and his three companions will continue on tomorrow to New York, their destination.

A week ago today they hopped off from the Isle of Sylt, in the North Sea off the northernmost part of Germany. No one then knew that the unassuming quartet, in a winged boat that had flown the Arctic air lanes and had failed once to cross the Atlantic, were turning their eyes to North America.

Faroe Islands First Stop.

Their first stop was the Faroe Islands. From there they went to Reykjavik, Iceland, thence to Ivigtut in Greenland and then on to Labrador. Yesterday they flew to Queensport, N. S. The flight to Halifax was completed today after a stop enforced by fog at the little fishing village of Marie Joseph, 80 miles to the east.

Tomorrow Capt. Von Gronau plans to push on to New York and to alight in the harbor or in one of the rivers bounding the island metropolis.

The flying boat, a Dornier Wahl, bearing the insignia D-1422, is old as planes go, for back in 1925 it was one of two vessels used by the late Roald Amundsen on an Arctic expedition. The next year it passed to Capt. Frank Courtney, of England, who tried to fly it to America but came down in the region of the Azores and was rescued after floating about the ocean for eight days.

Few Westward Crossings.

There have been few westward crossings of the North Atlantic by plane. United States Army fliers, the German Bremen, and the British Southern Cross expedition accomplished the feat.

With Capt. Von Gronau in the Whale are Edward Zimmer, an aviation student; Franz Hack, a mechanic, and a wireless man named Albrecht.

It is customary at the Von Gronau School to sponsor one long flight each year, to gather scientific data which may help in the progress of aviation. Once before a flight was made to Iceland, but there the schoolship turned around and went back home.

No announcement has been made whether the Germans will fly back to their own country after reaching New York or, if they do, whether they will follow their northern course or another route.

New York Landing Plans.

New York, Aug. 25 (A.P.).—Capt. Wolfgang von Gronau, transatlantic flier, tonight advised a representative here that he and his companions intend to take off from Halifax about 7 a. m. (3 S. T.) tomorrow if weather conditions were favorable and land off the Statue of Liberty in New York Harbor about 3 p. m.

Von Gronau, speaking by telephone to an agent of the Dornier Co. of America, said that if conditions were favorable he would then taxi to the Battery, thus becoming the first transatlantic flier to land at Manhattan Island. The police department has been asked to clear a 1,200-foot lane into the wind to enable the aircraft to approach land.

If conditions are not favorable for this procedure, the fliers will be taken from their plane in a police launch and after being welcomed in New York will return to the plane and fly it to North Beach Airport.

Auto Production Shows Big Drop

(Associated Press.)

The number of automobiles manufactured in the United States for the first seven months this year was more than 1,000,000 below the output for the same period last year.

This was announced yesterday by the Commerce Department, which said the comparative figures were 2,481,911, and 3,726,283.

Production last month was placed at 262,363 cars, compared with 335,477 for June and 500,840 for July, 1929. It was the lowest figure since last December, when the output was 120,007.

The total for last month included 222,459 passenger cars, 39,663 trucks and 241 taxicabs.

Two Women Injured When Car Hits Pole

Two persons were slightly injured last night when an automobile in which they were riding struck a pole on Georgia avenue near Walter Reed Hospital. They were Barbara Folger, 23 years old, of Carroll avenue, Takoma Park, Md., the driver of the car, and Stella H. Ellis, 50 years old, of the same address.

After being treated at the Washington Sanitarium they were permitted to go home.

ITALIAN FLIER WINS FIRST LAP OF DERBY

116 Miles Hourly Average of Leader in Race Around Country's Frontiers.

SWISS AIRMAN CRASHES

Rimini, Italy, Aug. 25 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Col. Sacchi, flying a Breda plane with newly designed engines, won the first lap of the around-Italy air race today, maintaining an average speed of 187 kilometers (116.127 miles) per hour.

He made a pretty landing here at 12:32 p. m. (6:32 a. m. E. S. T.) and was greeted by Gen. Italo Balbo, air minister, and a large crowd of cheering spectators.

Donati, another Italian, flying a Fiat plane was second, finishing 23 minutes behind Sacchi. Yet another Italian, Deangeli, was third, completing the lap one minute behind Donati.

After closely following Sacchi during the opening stage of the race, Miss Spooner, English entrant, was forced by engine trouble to land at Pano and then lost her way flying through fog over the Alps to Rimini. She finished ninth, one hour and four minutes behind the winner. She smilingly told reporters that she means to make up for lost time on the three laps of the race yet to be flown.

Egidia Fumagalli, only other woman pilot in the race, was third to reach Naples earlier in the day, beating Miss Spooner to that city and thereby winning the cup offered by Naples for the first woman to reach the city in the race. She had trouble with her Fiat plane later and was unplaced at Rimini.

The Swiss flier Dufaux narrowly escaped death near Naples when his Fiat plane crashed into a tree in landing there and was smashed to bits. He and his Italian mechanic received only slight injuries in the only accident of the day.

Tomorrow's lap is to Venice by way of Florence, Bologna, Forli, Trieste and Udine, over difficult mountain country. The race ends September 1, with the final lap being flown from Turin to Rome by way of Lucca, and thence to Leghorn, on the coast.

Sixty-nine planes from seven countries started in the race.

Upward of 300 ministers will participate and reassignment of charges for the ensuing year will be made. Bishop G. D. Batdorf, of Harrisburg, Pa., will preside.

pylons. In the event for planes of 275 cubic inch displacement he made an average speed of 112.29 miles per hour, and in the event for planes equipped with OX-5 motors, two seats or more, his average speed was 102.10 miles per hour.

One Winner Disqualified.

Ben O. Howard, of St. Louis, took first place in a speedy free-for-all civilian race. He was declared the winner several hours after the event when Charles "Speed" Holman, of Minneapolis, was disqualified, for "cutting" the second pylon of the course. Howard's average speed was 162.85 miles per hour.

Errett Williams, of New Orleans, and George L. Harte, of Wichita, Kans., took second and third places.

Capt. Frank Hawks, holder of the records for both East to West and West to East transcontinental flights, was an entrant in the free for all but he arrived from Wichita too late to start. He will race in several future events.

Dead Stick Contest Scratched.

The women's dead stick landing contest was scratched from the program when several of the entrants complained they were "too tired."

John Livingston, of Aurora, Ill., winner of yesterday's dead stick landing event for men, repeated his skill again today in company with Freddie Lund, of Troy, Ohio. They landed 21 feet, 10½ inches from the goal to wrest the honors from a field of eight entrants. The victory was Livingston's fourth of one kind or another since the races opened Saturday.

Kenneth Carr, of Detroit, who was injured during the gliding contests early in the day, was reported tonight to be out of danger in an Evanston hospital. Carr's glider nosedived when his tow line failed to release.

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 25 (A.P.).—Mrs. George Omlie, of Memphis, flew the 89 air miles from St. Louis in 42 minutes today to hold her lead in the Women's Dixie Derby, from Washington, D. C., to Chicago, as part of the Tenth National Air Races.

Mrs. Omlie's elapsed time after the latest leg was 10:07:54, putting her more than 2 hours and 51 minutes ahead of her nearest rival, Mrs. Martie Bowman, of Hempsted, ong ILsland, who flew in second with time for the lap of 53 minutes 6 seconds. Mrs. Bowman's elapsed time is 12:59:48. Miss Laura Ingalls, of St. Louis, took 1 hour 8 minutes 29 seconds for the jump from St. Louis and stayed in third place with elapsed time of 15:08:54.

Miss Nancy Hopkins, of Washington, made the St. Louis-Springfield leg in 1:01:02, and Mrs. Charity Langdon, of Norfolk, Va., made it in 1:13:32.

The women will make the last hop to Chicago tomorrow morning. They started at Washington and stopped at principal cities in the South.

$300 Lap Prize Refused.

Memphis, Tenn., Aug. 25 (A.P.).—The refusal of Mrs. Phoebe Omlie, of Memphis, and Mrs. Martie Bowman, of Hempstead, Long Island, leading entrants in the Dixie air derby, to accept $300 in prize money for the lap ended here yesterday, left race officials puzzled today as to disposal of the prize.

Mrs. Bowman led by several minutes in the Birmingham-to-Memphis lap and was offered the money—she insisted it should go to Mrs. Omlie because the Memphis aviatrix made the fastest total time from Atlanta to Memphis via Birmingham. Mrs. Omlie insisted Mrs. Bowman should receive it.

The tangle was referred to derby officials, who said they would find somebody for the $300 when the race ends tomorrow at Chicago.

Mrs. Nicholson Will Not Be Governor Candidate

Mrs. Jesse W. Nicholson, of Chevy Chase, Md., yesterday announced that she will not be a candidate for Governor of Maryland this fall. Declaring that she believed no citizen should run for public office who is not willing to take the responsibility, she added:

"I contend a governor should give his or her whole time to the people's business. If that policy had been adhered to in the past, Maryland today would not be hanging her head in shame because of scandals."

The first business session of the sixty-fourth encampment is scheduled for Wednesday, election of officers Thursday and a pilgrimage up the Ohio River to the birthplace of President Ulysses S. Grant, at Point Pleasant, Ohio, as the closing event Friday morning.

Willett's Address Quoted.

Quoting from Mr. Willett's address before the Federated Patriotic Societies at Cincinnati that "there are still those who believe the Stars and Bars stood for something pure and noble," Mr. Boisseau said:

"I do not know what action the United Daughters of the Confederacy will take, or any other Confederate organization, but being the historian of R. E. Lee Camp, No. 1, Sons of Confederate Veterans, Richmond, Va., I will say that the Stars and Bars not only stood for something pure and noble, but also for the right, and that the Confederate organizations will continue to teach true history until the hostility and prejudice of the invaders from the North shall have passed away.

"The United States were founded on secession and self-government, Washington being our leader. The United States acknowledged this principle to be right when Cuba seceded from Spain; when Panama seceded from Colombia and in the World War, when several countries seceded for self-government."

Controversy Called Unfortunate.

Troy, Ala., Aug. 25 (A.P.).—Mrs. L. M. Bashinsky, president-general of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, declined to comment today on criticism of the organization made at the annual convention of the Grand Army of the Republic yesterday.

"I do not think it wise to be drawn into any controversy," Mrs. Bashinsky said, "Of course it is unfortunate."

J. W. Willett, of Iowa, a past commander, told the G. A. R. they "must guard against" the "baleful influence of the Southern organization, and John R. King, of Maryland, another past commander, said they must "protect this country from what I warn you is its worst enemy—the Daughters of the Confederacy."

U. S. Paris Attache Resigns.

Paris, Aug. 25 (A.P.).—F. W. Allport, commercial attache at the American Embassy here, resigned today to represent American motion picture interests in Paris. He probably will conclude the negotiations with German companies begun some time ago to settle patent differences.

Criticism of Southern Unit Called Attempt to Engender Hatred.

LOYALTY IS POINTED OUT

A leader of the United Daughters of the Confederacy arose in defense of the organization yesterday and sent a bristling reply to the Grand Army of the Republic officials who Sunday spoke of the women's group as "a baleful influence" in this country.

Mrs. Dolly Peyton Shepperson, president of the Mary Custis Lee-Seventeenth Virginia Regiment Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, addressed her reply to J. W. Willett, of Iowa, judge advocate and past commander in chief, and John R. King, of Maryland, past commander in chief, who addressed the G. A. R. convention in Cincinnati.

Declaring that she had "read with amazement" accounts of their speeches, Mrs. Shepperson said she had not believed that "two men who attained the positions in the Grand Army of the Republic could display such ignorance, bigotry, and smallness."

"All thinking people know that the Daughters of the Southern Confederacy are a group of women banded together for service to the country as loyal as any patriotic organization in these United States, and as loyal to the Stars and Stripes as their men were not only to the Stars and Bars but to the Stars and Stripes," she continued.

"The object of the Daughters of the Southern Confederacy is not to foster hatred and malice, but to honor and revere the men who had the courage to fight for a cause they thought right, while you are endeavoring after all of these years to engender hatre and malice, and while I know nothing of you gentlemen, my guess is that you we.e in the very rear ranks during the conflict, if in any combat at all.

"The men of the Union Army who really fought against the Southern soldiers, had the greatest respect for their opponents, and for the women of the South also. Thinking people know that the women of the Southern Confederacy, while still revering those of that great army, the Southern Confederacy, sent their sons under the Stars and Stripes into the World War, and there were none more loyal."

Marshal's Ministry Including Many Colonels Sworn in at Warsaw.

STERN MEASURES SEEN

Warsaw, Poland, Aug. 25 (A.P.).—Marshal Joseph Pilsudski, former dictator and sometimes called "the uncrowned king" of Poland, today again took over the work of governing his country.

The marshal formed a new cabinet, succeeding that of Col. Walery Slawek, in which he had been minister of war. This evening, with the members of his cabinet, he took the oath of office and was approved as prime minister by a decree from President Moscicki. The marshal will again be minister of war.

The marshal is expected to achieve rapidly his objective of creating a powerful ministry, especially as many of his personal followers in the Diet opposition will be inclined now to swing over to his antiparliamentary campaign.

That the energetic soldier-statesman is taking no chances, however, is shown by the number of the so-called "colonels' group" in the list of his cabinet. The group amounts almost to a military bodyguard for the marshal, and with the traditions of his World War Legion is blindly prepared to do his bidding.

The list of the cabinet follows:

Premier and minister of war, Marshal Joseph Pilsudski; vice premier and minister without portfolio, Col. Joseph Beck; foreign affairs, August Zaleski; interior, Gen. Felician Skladkowski; justice, Dr. Car; education and public worship, Slawomir Czerwinski; labor, Col. Alexander Prystor; commerce, Eugene Kwiatkowski; agriculture, M. Janta-Polczynski; agricultural reform, Withold Staniewics; finance, Col. Ignacy Matuszewski; posts, Col. Ignacy Boerner; public works, M. Matakiewicz.

With Col. Joseph Beck, the cabinet includes five military ministers of the "colonels' group." The appointment of Col. Beck caused wide comment and was interpreted as meaning that stern measures would be used with the opposition and that new elections might soon be forced.

GOOD-BY FERGUSONISM.

The upset of the Ferguson team in Texas was not much of a surprise. "Ma" Ferguson, who, as everybody understood, was only batting for "Pa" because he is barred from holding public office in Texas, made an excellent showing in the primary election, leading the list of eleven candidates and piling up a much larger vote than her nearest opponent, Ross S. Sterling. But apparently Fergusonism attained almost its full blossom in the primaries. Most of the votes that were divided between Mrs. Ferguson's ten opponents in the primary went over to Mr. Sterling in the run-off, and he won by nearly 100,000 votes.

The Ferguson family has a large following, but Texas seems to have definitely shaken itself free from the grip of its former dual executive. The electorate indicated that it had had enough of Fergusonism when it chose Dan Moody over "Ma" four years ago. Sterling, who was chairman of Gov. Moody's highway commission, and who represents the business interests and constructive element of the State, has put an end to that novel experiment in adulterated politics.

Texas is one of the two States that have elected woman governors, but it is the only State that has had, as "Pa" Ferguson naively boasted, "two governors for the price of one." While Mrs. Ferguson was in the executive mansion her husband was the power behind the throne, in spite of his previous impeachment. It is this arrangement that the Fergusons asked Texas to endure a second time. "Pa" was not allowed to enter the primaries. Thereupon he made a martyr of himself and launched a vigorous campaign in favor of "Ma." He unblushingly made Fergusonism and dual control of the governorship the chief issues in the campaign.

Election of Sterling is now virtually assured. Texas is tired of amusing the country with political nonsense. It has highways to build, agricultural and industrial problems to solve. The political comedians have had their day, and it is useless for them to attempt a come-back.

BETTY NUTHALL.

Betty Nuthall's victory in the national women's tennis championship is popular, despite the fact that it means that the cup will leave the United States for the first time in 43 years. Her victory, however, is not so impressive as it would have been had America's two leading women players entered the competition. Helen Wills finished tournament play for the year when she returned from the British championships a few weeks ago, and Helen Jacobs, who ranks second to Miss Wills, was taken ill abroad this summer and withdrew from competition by direction of her physician. With these two formidable players absent it was almost a foregone conclusion that Miss Nuthall would emerge victorious.

The English girl plays a smashing, intelligent game, but it may be doubted that she has yet developed to a point where she can hope to conquer either of the California Helens. However, she has earned the title of American champion and is the most dangerous opponent of the two American stars who has yet appeared.

MAKING A MESS OF PALESTINE.

The British government is sharply criticized by the League of Nations Mandate Commission for the manner in which it has administered the mandate over Palestine. The British were taken by surprise by the outbreak of August, 1929. The commission is convinced that "the insufficient number of British troops and inadequacy of the police force was the main cause of the large area over which the disturbances took place and the gravity of their consequences."

Beyond this point of criticism the commission merely advertises the absurdity of the policy pursued by Great Britain and the League of Nations in Palestine. Political disappointment on the part of the Arabs, the commission has found, provoked resentment against the mandatory power. The Arabs have attempted to assert what they believe to be their political rights as the majority element. They have ambitions to establish their own government in Palestine. In spite of the fact that their demands are incompatible with the provisions of the mandate, the commission criticizes Britain for disappointing them.

On the other hand the British government is criticized for the way in which it has sought to advance the cause of the Jewish national home. The absurdity of trying to satisfy the conflicting aspirations of the Arabs and the Jews is plainly apparent. Plans for a "national home" for one race and political autonomy for another, plus "preservation of the rights of all inhabitants regardless of race and religion," would be recognized as impracticable anywhere. The powers are pretending to give Palestine to both of two antagonistic races. The political aspects of one claim and the sentimental and economic aspects of the other, which are carefully maintained in theory, do not mitigate the struggle that is going on in the Holy Land. The policy that has been followed up to the present time is one of duplicity, and has resulted in nothing but confusion and racial hatred. The full blame can not be placed upon the British government, because it must abide by the provisions of the mandate given by the League of Nations.

The Arabs and Jews will never live peaceably together in Palestine under the present arrangement. Their mutual hatred is nourished and stimulated by the conflicting promises made by Great Britain and the League of Nations, and by the vacillation of the mandatory authority.

PERU'S COUP D'ETAT.

The coup d'etat that has overthrown President Leguia of Peru, seems to be engineered by army officers. Its first stroke was the seizure of the garrison and city of Arequipa. Army officers in other part of the country instantly cooperated, showing that the revolution was not a mere local gesture. President Leguia took steps to check the movement, but apparently he was helpless because of the disaffection of the army. The completeness of the overturn was disclosed when the deposed president fled on a naval vessel, supposedly bound for Panama. Details of the coup are not yet disclosed, but it is probable that President Leguia was threatened with death and was possessed of information showing that the threat would be executed if he should remain in Lima.

The republic of Peru can hardly be the gainer by this rupture of its government. However unpopular President Leguia may have become with the military element, his administration of the government was enlightened and progressive. He was energetic in developing the country, by building highways and encouraging foreign capital to open up oil fields, forested areas and mines. Shipping lines were increased during the Leguia regime. He displayed statesmanship in settling the Tacna-Arica dispute with Chile, thereby restoring profitable commercial relations with Peru's southern neighbor.

Although the political features of the revolt have not been revealed, it is quite possible that President Leguia's willingness to make peace with Chile turned the military element against him. If this should prove to be true, the present disturbance may be followed by a quarrel with Chile. Peru has nothing to gain by reopening the old sore. The settlement was generally regarded as just to Peru, in all the circumstances, and it is certain that Chile would not reopen the case under a threat from Peru. A clash between them would be a setback to all South America, and in view of Chile's stronger army it might mean a terrible disaster to Peru.

A SCREEN FOR ALIENS.

Immigration is a problem of special interest at present because of the labor surplus and the prominence of aliens in criminal gangs. Assistant Secretary of Labor Husband gave attention to both angles of the problem in his radio address, and suggested a remedy for both. His recommendations are worthy of being included in the next message of the President to Congress.

The number of immigrants entering the United States annually has been drastically reduced since the quota system was established, following the World War. Approximately 1,000,000 foreigners were entering the country annually in the early 1920's in spite of widespread unemployment. The number has now been reduced to about 280,000 per year. The wisdom of allowing this many aliens to come to America during the period of depression may be questioned. Foreign workmen who are accustomed to low wages can easily displace native Americans. So long as there is a surplus of labor in the country it would do well to suspend immigration until newcomers are needed.

This can be accomplished, as Mr. Husband suggests, through a plan of selective immigration. American immigration stations abroad could be authorized to accept only those candidates whose special skill or talent might be needed by American industry. Laborers who would only add to the ranks of the unemployed would be refused admittance until such time as America had need for them. Failure to adjust the influx of aliens to domestic requirements is one of the most serious defects in the immigration law.

At present the deportation law does not reach all criminal aliens, yet 2,456 persons in the criminal and immoral classes were deported last year. The total number deported reached a new high mark at 16,631. A large percentage of these were expelled because of illegal entry. The most pressing need for revision of the deportation law is its extension to criminal classes not now included. Aliens who have no respect for American laws and institutions should not be allowed to remain here. Propagandists of violence and persistent criminals, even though their crimes do not involve moral turpitude, should be sent back to their respective countries. The immigration laws are for the protection of labor and society in general. Wherever protection is inadequate, the law should be strengthened.

PRINT MORE MONEY!

August is the month set apart for settling international affairs and resolving world problems through the medium of conferences held under the auspices of American universities. Up at Williamstown and down at Charlottsville there has been no restriction as to subject, but to the halls of Cornell in Ithaca only agricultural economists were bade welcome, and because only a single problem was to be dissected there was high hope that the result would be a definite recommendation that would provide a means for curing the farmers' ills. The agricultural economists made no secret of their knowledge as to what is responsible for the farm problem. It is the hoarding of gold by the central banks of the larger powers.

E. M. H. Lloyd, assistant secretary of the empire marketing board of England, and R. R. Enfield, of the British ministry of agriculture, supported by Prof. G. F. Warren, of Cornell, noted agricultural expert and consultant to the Federal Farm Board, asserted that the primary cause of the agricultural crisis lies in the high price of gold, with its accompanying dislocation of credit and market conditions. If the farm problem is to be settled, say these experts, there must be concerted action on the part of the leading central banks to bring the price of gold in harmony with the requirements of the modern world, in order that there may again be an expansion of credit sufficient to counteract the fall in prices. It is to the Bank for International Settlements that these gentlemen look to take the lead in the movement for monetary reform.

In other words, if there is enough money and credit to go around, no one need worry about the old law of supply and demand. If for every bushel of wheat the consumer needs a bushel and a peck are produced, the consumer, if he has plenty of money, will buy the extra peck and find some way to dispose of it. One wonders why the Farm Board hasn't discovered this easy way out of the farm problem long since. Apparently all that is needed to put the farmer back on prosperity street is an order speeding up the money presses in the Bureau of Engraving and Printing.

KOREA TODAY

From the Christian Science Monitor.

The twenty-ninth of August will mark the twentieth anniversary of the annexation by Japan of the ancient "Hermit Kingdom" of Korea. As evidence of one kind of progress made there during the two decades, it is interesting to observe that bank deposits have grown from $9,000,000 in 1910 to more than $100,000,000 today; that the total trade before the annexation amounted to about $25,000,000 annually, while the latest figures total nearly $400,000,000; that five times as much agricultural produce is cultivated now as in 1910, and that railroad mileage has tripled during that time. Still another kind of progress is indicated in the fact that six pupils are now going to school for every one who went before.

Twenty years is not a long time in the life of an Oriental nation, particularly a country like Korea, whose authentic history goes back 3,000 years; but in these last twenty years a new and different generation has grown up in a new and different world.

It still is not an entirely satisfactory world to these young Koreans of today, who never knew their country as it was under the old rule, and it is not in itself a bad sign that Korean students are prone to stage protest strikes every now and then. Foreigners who lived in the peninsula twenty years ago declare that there was not a student in the land then who would have had enough mettle to stand up for his own rights, and the vigor of the young men of today is exactly what Korea needs most.

It is not altogether unnatural, either, that Japan should be held to blame for all grievances, real and fancied, which Koreans now feel, or that they should still resent the loss of their independence.

Twenty years, as before remarked, is not a long time in the life of Korea, as may be seen today by any one who visits the town of Sungdo. There, 100 years before Columbus crossed to America, the great Korai dynasty came to an end, and with it came an end to the glory of Sungdo. For the Yi kings, who succeeded those of Korai, moved their capital away from Sungdo to Seoul. That happened 550 years ago, but the residents of Sungdo still resent the victory of the Yi dynasty and the women of Sungdo still wear different costumes from their sisters 45 miles away in Seoul.

Considering this, it is no wonder that after only twenty years the Koreans should still not altogether be won over to Japanese rule, notwithstanding the many benefits which have accrued from it. It is remarkable, rather, that Japan has made the progress which obviously has occurred. The student strikes of last year, for example, differed greatly from the independence movement of 1919, in that this time no adults participated in the campaigns, showing that the mature men of Korea are more engrossed in progress now than in politics.

What the future holds for Korea—assimilation, autonomy, or independence—only the future can tell. It is enough on this anniversary to know that if the next twenty years bring as much improvement as the last twenty, Korea will be a most happy country whatever its form of government.

The reported suggestion of Senator Fletcher, of Florida, that the Government send destroyers into the Caribbean to seek out and bomb incipient hurricanes might seem superficially to furnish occasion for humorous comment if the proposal did not reflect the tragedies that have visited the southern peninsula during recent years. Apparently, scientific doubt of the efficacy of such a plan is so complete that officials at Washington immediately dismissed it, and Senator Fletcher himself indicated the direction Florida must go in dealing with her storm problem when he remarked the eventual diking of Lake Okeechobee will raise a safeguard higher than the highest wind-tide the storms have ever developed.

It is to be hoped Florida will not this year again be wracked as in 1926 and 1928 by cyclones such as then caused great loss of life and damage to property. In any event, her people will sooner or later have to work out their defenses against storm-driven floods along lines that will take longer but be more certain of producing permanent results.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

COUNTLESS WORLDS.

How many worlds about us are!
My dog discovers things I miss,
Can scent strange miracles afar
And hear queer creatures move and hiss,
An insect in his tiny way
Sees marvelous things in sand and clay.

The robin nesting in a tree
Lives in a world that's all its own,
Sees charms our eyes shall never see,
Knows majesties to us unknown.
An ant within its world may face
Problems of honor and disgrace.

We see the beauty of the flowers,
But bees, I fancy, see much more.
Having a subtler strength than ours
The hearts of roses they explore.
And they may try to puzzle out
What human creatures are about.

We have the wisdom of our kind,
Our world wherein we live and die,
Yet many worlds are here designed
And into them no man can spy.
Perhaps a spider thinks that he
Lucky a spider is to be.

If He Thinks Himself a Prince, He Will Stand Before Kings.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

If you would keep a boy decent, give him reason to be proud.

The boy who doesn't care how he looks or what people think of him is a boy whipped by shame.

If he can stoop to vice or trickery or petty crime without shame, it is because he has sullenly resigned himself to the level of his background.

Because his father is a worthless ne'er-do-well despised by the community—because his parents quarrel and berate one another like the commonest of trash—because of dirt or ill manners or dishonor—because of a background that offends his ideals and shames him when he compares it with other homes, he thinks himself a scrub by birth, denied the possibility of becoming a fine gentleman, and shame and resentment combine to make him a comrade and partisan of the worthless.

The normal boy's soul is clean and fine. He longs to be a Galahad. His highest ambition is to be without fear and without reproach. He pictures himself as a knight defender and preserving things that are fine.

He wants to believe his mother the most beautiful and the most gracious in the world; he wants to believe his father the bravest and strongest and wisest of men; he wants to believe his home, however humble it may be, a shrine worthy of a nobleman.

Say, if you will, that he lives in a dream world; but his dreams are fine and to shatter them is to leave everlasting scars on his soul.

Give him something to be proud of.

Let him be proud that his father looks the world in the eye while other men turn away; let him be proud that his mother speaks gently while others snap or scream; let him be proud, if need be, that his father takes a daily shower while other men are sour with old sweat.

Play-act if you must—pretend to be finer than you are, if that is necessary—but in some way and at any cost give the boy a background to foster the decent pride on which his manhood and his future must depend.

THE ONCE-OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

WHAT EVERY MOTORIST KNOWS.

I.

I'm a man of poise and balance
And my patience runs to par,
Though I get my share of troubles
As a driver of a car.
I don't mind the one-way street signs,
Nor the markers, "Do Not Park;"
I can stand for blinding headlights
When it isn't even dark.
But there is a certain something
That makes all my poise a toss—
It's the red light at the crossing
Which is hardly ever crossed!

II.

I am cool and quite collected
In most any sort of plight;
When I run against frustrations
My annoyance is but slight;
Detour signs don't often peeve me—
I am fond of traffic cops;
I can take a summons calmly
And just grin at sudden stops;
But there is one thing that makes me
Mentally, I fear, unsound—
It's a red light at a crossing
When there's no one else around!

III.

My composure is amazing
In a crisis, people say;
Coolness comes by second nature
And my mood is rather gay;
I can smile at traffic tie-ups
And you never see me frown
When I'm in a frightful hurry—
And the railroad gates come down!
But there is a moment when I
Fume and sputter, shout and groan—
When I'm held up by the red light
At a crossing all alone!

IV.

It is hard to aggravate me,
I'm not easily upset;
I have never been excited
In a major matter yet;
I just shake off each annoyance
When I take a motor ride—
Even when the drawbridge opens
My composure is my pride.
But I'm here to tell you frankly
That I'm driven raving mad
By a red light at a crossing
When there's no one there, egad!

V.

Once, caught in a burning building,
I made no appeal for aid;
I was just so unexcited
That I didn't feel afraid.
I can stand for any nuisance
Like a roadside quarantine;
When they search my car for beetles
I will never make a scene;
But I lose my head completely,
And I'm moved to maim and bruise
By the red light at the crossing
That nobody seems to use!

VI.

Test me any time you want to—
Try my patience as you wish,
My composure will surprise you,
For I'm cool as any fish:
Halt me in the crowded city,
Pinch me driving by a school,
Make me take a muddy detour—
I will still be calm and cool;
But you'd better flee discreetly,
For I'm murderous for fair
When the "red" shows at the crossing
When there is no traffic there!

AND THIS IS NOT THE OPPORTUNE TIME.

A Berlin professor says that Herbert Hoover is of Swiss origin. Most people will refuse to credit this until they hear him yodel.

Colonel Lindbergh has been given a medal by President Hoover. For distinguished floor-walking?

Now is the time when that new flagpole, dedicated recently in New York's Union Square, could conviently be used by some Tammany flagpole sitters.

An advertisement of a thriving saloon business for sale in New Jersey surprised the police and enforcement agents. They couldn't understand why anybody should want to get rid of a saloon these days.

Ima Dodo is glad Sir Thomas has arrived with his polo team for the international matches and she predicts he will win unless Tilden shows a startling form reversal.

Summer is nearly gone and these are the days when the life guard is preoccupied with thoughts of whether the moths have got into his blue suit.

People who say the Hoover administration has been a failure forget that it has given the country the Tom Thumb golf craze and the best tree-sitting epidemic in history.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

"Lonesome Hickory" Looks at the Vicissitudes of Republican Politics.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I feel this morning as if I were in a dream. To begin with, I find on the first page of The Post the report of a vigorous plea for States' rights by Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes, ablest mouthpiece of Republicanism. On an inside page I sadly blink at a headline which reads, "G. O. P. In Alabama Gives Aid to Heflin."

Right here I lift my Democratic hat to the Grand Old Party as a smooth-working organization. It really ought to be called the Grand Opportunist Party.

For more than half a century the Democratic machine has back-fired through the failure of scared-cat politicians to fearlessly take advantage of the basic strength of Jeffersonian doctrine. In the meantime, Republican propagandists have, while advocating all sorts of paternalistic schemes, turned artful periods of patriotic praise for Jefferson.

There was a time when "Fire-Alarm" Foraker and other wavers of the bloody shirt insisted that this is a Nation with a big N, and now we are edified by the Republican idea that States' rights should be rehabilitated. This is a broad jump from the days of Tilden and Hayes, when the States' rights question was butchered to make a Republican inauguration day.

So that, taking one thing with another, I shouldn't wonder if I yet live to see a Republican President elected under the now-trailing standards of free trade.

LONESOME HICKORY.

Forests and Fields Are Inflammable Now, and Campers and Motorists Should Be on Guard Against Fire.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The lack of rain in many States has caused the fields and forests to develop into tinder for fires. When autumn comes the dead leaves will provide more tinder for fires. A cigarette stub, a lighted match or camp embers can start a fire which will consume hundreds of acres of valuable timber. Campers, hikers and people out on picnics should be careful not to start fires. Motorists should not throw lighted matches or cigarettes out of automobiles.

It will take a lot of rain to bring the forests back to their normal fire-resisting condition. Every one should exercise special care now, when the fields and forests are inflammable.

Michigan gives a striking example of fire loss since August 1. It has been estimated that 1,500 fires have occurred in the forets areas of Michigan during this year, causing damage to 46,000 acres of timber and game cover. It is impossible to calculate the exact loss, as it will run into future generations. The forests of the future are destroyed, and all because of the careless smoker, camper or tourist.

Apple Growers Wisely Decide to Advertise Their Glorious Product.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: "It Pays to Advertise." These four words explain the origin of many fortunes. The apple growers throughout the United States have wisely decided to advertise their products on a scale similar to the campaigns conducted by the citrus fruit growers of California and Florida. Advertising has proved profitable to fruit growers who have launched large campaigns. The apple growers will probably invest $4,000,000 in advertising. The money will be well spent. Every one should realize the healthful effects obtained from eating apples, as well as the solid satisfaction experienced in devouring this delicious fruit.

What has caused the cigarette industry to prosper so in recent years? The large advertising campaigns. It was not until gigantic advertising drives were begun in the newspapers that the big advance in sales took place. The apple growers should realize that it will pay them to advertise their products, provided the campaigns are handled properly.

Fire Department Should Water Trees in Business Section.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The suggestion that citizens help the thirsty trees by playing water on the roots by means of the garden hose is very timely and beautiful. But there are times when this is not practical on the part of citizens, as for instance in the business streets where there are no gardens and therefore no hose. The trees in the business sections are seen as especially suffering from the drouth. Leaves are shriveling up, a bad sign.

In this emergency the District government by its fire department can be very helpful and should rise to the occasion. Why not have the firemen or other city workers play water on the trees from the nearby and idle hydrants? Nothing could be more to the point in the situation and more easily applied. The trees are worth a great deal of money and are priceless for shade and beauty. It is a wonder to me that the city forester or whoever it is that is in charge of trees, has not thought of the idea and applied it. Somebody wake him up.

Chinatown Soon to Be Abolished and Tourists Should Be Told About It.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In last Friday's Post Rudolph Parsons had a complaint about the impression which Washington's Chinatown makes upon the strangers. Instead of trying to explain to the visitor about the "intricate cellars and mysterious passageways hidden away from the gaze of the outer world where many plots are hatched from time to time over the dope pipe by lamblike Orientals," why didn't Mr. Parsons say something like this: "Yes, it's true that there are some unsightly places on the Avenue, but you just come back in a few years and we'll show you a sight that will be good for the eyes. You won't see any of these dinky little shops. Instead, you'll see a beautiful municipal center between Third and Sixth streets on the north, and a group of magnificent Government buildings on the south of the Avenue."

EVENTS OF INTEREST IN SOCIETY CIRCLES OF CAPITAL

Capital Folks Are Returning From Abroad

Gen. Pershing Lands in New York; Stones to Go to Maine.

By JEAN ELIOT.

THE tide of travel seems now to be setting westward, each liner which lands in New York bringing some well known personage who has been abroad for a summer holiday. Gen. John J. Pershing landed yesterday from the Ile de France, expecting to return shortly to the Capital; and the same ship brought Brig. Gen. John H. Russell, sometime United States High Commissioner in Haiti, and Mrs. Russell, who have been traveling in Europe.

From Italy, on the Conte Biancamamo, came Mr. and Mrs. Fred Morris Dearing. Appointed United States Ambassador to Peru last January, Mr. Dearing went to Lima in the spring, presented his credentials to the President of Peru and shortly thereafter set sail for Europe, bound for Portugal, where he had previously been serving as minister. He had to wind up his affairs in Lisbon and to pick up Mrs. Dearing, who had been waiting as hostage for his return. Now the Dearings are headed for Peru, but they will probably come to Washington before starting on the long journey to their new post.

Although they have been long out of Washington, Mr. and Mrs. Dearing are well remembered here from the time when he served as Assistant Secretary of State and both have many friends in the official group.

Mrs. Harry B. Hawes, wife of Senator Hawes, of Missouri, also arrived yesterday, a passenger on the Pennland. She will be at the Hotel Weylin for a short stay and expects to visit Washington briefly before going to Missouri.

Justice and Mrs. Harlan Fiske Stone, who arrived in New York on Sunday from Europe, will go to their summer home in Maine to remain until the Supreme Court reconvenes in October. While abroad Justice and Mrs. Stone made a motor trip through Germany, Holland, Austria and Italy.

M. Alain Gerbault, young French sportsman, who sailed around the world alone in his sloop "Firecrest," arrived yesterday on the Ile de France on his first visit to the United States since completing his circumnavigation of the globe in the small sailboat. His greeting was in striking contrast to his last arrival, when he steered the "Firecrest" into New York Bay and casually reported that he hailed from France, a story which was frankly disbelieved until checking-up confirmed it. He was met by a reception committee of the Cruising Club of America, of which he is one of the few honorary members, and will be given a luncheon by the club today.

M. Jean Borotra, the "Bounding Basque" of tennis, member of the French lawn tennis team which succeeded in retaining the Davis Cup for France in the recent international matches, was also aboard the Ile de France. M. Borotra is a close friend of Alain Gerbault and, like him, one of the outstanding figures in French sport.

Costa Rica Envoy to Arrive This Week.

The Minister of Costa Rica, Senor Don Manuel Castro Quesada, who has been at his home for several months, is expected to arrive in Washington early this week. He took off from San Jose, Costa Rica, on Sunday for Miami, Fla.

Mr. John Pelenyi, retiring Counselor of the Hungarian Legation, and Mme. Pelenyi expect to come to Washington before starting for their new post. They have been spending the summer at Newport, where the legation was established by the Hungarian Minister, Count Laszlo Szechenyi, before he sailed to spend a vacation in Europe, Mr. Pelenyi serving as charge d'affaires in the minister's absence. Mr. Vegt, who will succeed Mr. Pelenyi as charge d'affaires, has arrived in Newport.

The United States Minister to Canada and Mrs. Hanford MacNider will leave Washington tomorrow by airplane for Ottawa. They have been guests of Mr. F. Trubee Davison, Assistant Secretary of War for Aviation, for the last week.

Maj. and Mrs. C. A. Ross and their daughters, Miss Marion Ross and Miss Marjorie Ross, have returned to Washington from their cottage at Grand Haven Beach, Lake Michigan.

Capt. Eugene A. Regnier, aid to the Secretary of State, has returned to his apartment at the Wardman Park Hotel after a trip in the North, which included a visit with Secretary and Mrs. Stimson at their home at Huntington, Long Island.

Mrs. Evelyn Warwick, of Hyde Park, London, England, is passing some time at the Carlton, accompanied by her two sons, Mr. Francis D. Warwick and Mr. James C. Warwick.

Maj. Raymond McQuillan Guest of Mrs. Mesta.

Maj. Raymond McQuillin spent the week-end in Newport as the guest of Mrs. George Mesta and attended the musicale which Mrs. Mesta gave on Sunday at the Rocks, with Mme. Louise Homer and Mr. Albert Spaulding as the artists.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter R. Tuckerman, who are spending part of August at the New Cliffs, Newport, were the guests for whom Mrs. Robert Ogden Bacon entertained at luncheon on Sunday at White Lodge.

Among those who are entertaining at Saratoga Springs, N. Y., in the racing season are Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Fellowes Gordon, of Tuxedo Park. Mrs. Fellowes Gordon is remembered in Washington as Miss Sara Price Collier, having spent a season or two here with her mother, Mrs. Price Collier, before her marriage. She is a half-sister of Mr Warren Delano Robbins, United States Minister to El Salvador. Mr. Fellowes Gordon was formerly in the British Navy.

Mrs. J. Temple Gwathmey entertained at dinner on Sunday evening at her home in Warrentotn, Va., in compliment to Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Fairfax, of Roanoke, Va., who have been staying in Washington since their recent return from Europe. Among those who motored to Warrenton for the dinner were Mr. John Baldwin Cochran and Mr. William Bowie Clarke.

Miss Elizabeth Hume is at the Cavalier Hotel, Virginia Beach, Va., for a short stay. Others from Washington who were at the Cavalier over the week-end were Mrs. Stanley Harris, Mrs. C. M. Wilkins, Dr. and Mrs. Norman Draper, Lieut. and Mrs. R. S. Riggs and Dr. and Mrs. Robert E. Wiltberger.

Will Go to Newport

MRS. ARTHUR WALLACE DUNN,

the guest of her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Blaine Mallan, for a few days before going to Newport to joint Lieut. Comdr. Dunn.

Hoxie House Acquired for Y.W.C.A. Use

Mansion Downtown in Its Day Has Been Art Salon.

Although Mrs. Hoxie, widow of Brig. Gen. Richard L. Hoxie, is still camping out in the old Hoxie house at Seventeenth and K streets, the mansion, which was once the gathering place for Washington's literary and artistic groups, is soon to pass from the social picture. It has been leased to the Y. W. C. A. to house the overflow from its headquarters across the street, and Mrs. Hoxie has bought a pleasant house on Macomb street, near the Cathedral, of which she proposes to take possession as soon as certain alterations are completed.

For several years before his death, Gen. Hoxie was in frail health, so he and Mrs. Hoxie did very little entertaining. However, it was their custom to spend a month or two at their Washington residence each spring and autumn, going to Miami, Fla., for the winter months and making an annual visit to his old family home in Indianapolis, a fine old-fashioned country house now in the heart of a flourishing city. As Miss Ruth Norcross, Mrs. Hoxie was well known as a journalist and club woman in Philadelphia and Washington.

Old-timers in the Capital remember the Hoxie house in its heyday, when Vinnie Ream Hoxie, Gen. Hoxie's first wife, had her studio there and maintained something of a salon. She was famous as a sculptress at a time when women who had achieved distinction in the arts were few and far between. As a young girl but newly come to Washington, Vinnie Ream modeled Lincoln from life; and her statue of Lincoln, which stands in front of the Court House, is one of the finest examples of her handiwork extant. This has recently been placed upon a new pedestal, somewhat lower than the original one, which, authorities say, gives it a much more artistic setting.

Gen. Hoxie owned the house next door to his K street residence, which abuts on Mrs. Stephen B. Elkins' big house and which has been rented a good many years. It is understood that the two houses will be sold when the Hoxie estate is settled, probably making way for some sort of business property; and thus will pass another of Washington's interesting landmarks.

Dr. Otto C. Kepp, Counselor of the German Embassy, entertained at luncheon in the garden restaurant of the Carlton yesterday.

The Secretary of Labor, Mr. James J. Davis, was also among those lunching at the Carlton.

"Bring a box, bring a friend, bring a question" reads the slogan on the invitations to the picnic arranged by the District of Columbia Democratic Women's Educational Council for this evening at 6 o'clock at the Pierce Mill Inn, Rock Creek Park. The questions will be answered authoritatively and there will be a talk by Mr. Richard Linthicum, of the research department, Democratic national committee. The hostesses will be Mrs. R. K. Noble and Mrs. M. L. Streeter.

In case of rain the meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Florence Jackson Stoddard, 725 Twentieth street.

The Charge d'Affaires of Colombia, Senor Don Jose M. Coronado, passed the week-end at the Wardman Park Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Woodbury Blair have as guests at Beachholme, their Newport villa, Mrs. Blair's sisters, Mrs. Edward A. Mitchell and Mrs. Rose Wallach Merriam.

Miss Daisy Reed, daughter of Col. and Mrs. Walter L. Reed, and granddaughter of Mrs. Walter Reed and the late Col. Walter Reed, will come from Fort Benning, Ga., the end of the week to attend the marriage on Monday of Mrs. Ashford Robert, daughter of MRS. HANFORD MacNIDER, wife of the newly appointed United States Minister to Canada, will start today for Ottawa, Canada, accompanying Mr. MacNider. They will make the trip by airplane.

Mrs. Snowden Ashford, and Lieut. Edward Conrad Metcalfe, U. S. N. Miss Kathleen Dwyer, daughter of the former United States Military Attache to Chile and Mrs. Francis Dwyer will come from her home in Newport, R. I., for the wedding.

Mrs. Robert will be unattended and Lieut. Metcalfe will have a his best man, Lieut. Vaughan Michaux, U. S. N.

Mr. and Mrs. Aitchison To Enter University.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Aitchison, the latter formerly Miss Dorothy Douglas, are visiting her parents, Capt. and Mrs. J. M. Douglas, at Fort Leavenworth, Kans. Later they will go to Lawrence, Kans., where both will attend the University of Kansas. Mr. Aitchison is the son of Interstate Commerce Commissioner and Mrs. Clyde B. Aitchison. Commissioner and Mrs. Aitchison's daughter, Miss Beatrice Aitchison, is now the guest of friends on Long Island.

Mrs. Arthur Wallace Dunn, now the guest of her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Blaine Mallan, in Washington, will go shortly to Newport, where Lieut. Comdr. Dunn has reported for temporary duty. In October Commander and Mrs. Dunn will come to Washington for a three-year period of duty.

Mrs. J. Wilmer Biddle has arrived in Paris after visiting her daughter, Mrs. Keppel-Palmer, at Henley-on-Thames.

Mrs. Edward Everett Gann is honorary chairman and Mrs. William P. McCracken, jr., chairman of the committee in charge.

DEAREST GENEVIEVE: This is to be a very short note, as I have other things on my mind today. There is so little to tell you, anyway, that there is not much use in manufacturing a long rambling tale about nothing.

For Some Time I Have Intended

—to ask you how long it is since you have had a picture taken. You should not delay any longer, but go in to Underwood and Underwood's and have a picture made right away. The 25 per cent discount is still in effect this week, and if you plan to give pictures for Christmas presents, as you probably do, this saving is not to be ignored. You might think it very previous to mention this now, but when Christmas comes and you have your pictures all ready at 25 per cent less that you would pay then, you will be so glad you made the effort. Call Underwood and Underwood now for an appointment, Dec. 4100.

CALIFORNIA PRIMARY WILL BE HELD TODAY

GOVERNORS' RACE CLOSE

San Francisco, Aug. 25 (A.P.).—A three-cornered contest for the Republican nomination for governor, in which personalities figured rather than issues, featured California's primary campaign which closed tonight. Tomorrow some 300 candidates for Federal and State offices will receive the verdict of most of the State's 2,000,000 registered voters.

The fight for governor centered around C. C. Young, incumbent; James Rolph, jr., Mayor of San Francisco, and Buron Fitts, district attorney at Los Angeles. Others who seek the Republican gubernatorial nomination are Mrs. Clara Shortridge Foltz, of Los Angeles, sister of United States Senator Samuel Shortridge, and Milton K. Young, sole aspirant for the Democratic nomination.

In California candidates may seek nomination from more than one party. Adherents of Gov. Young charged Milton K. Young's name was placed on the Republican ballot to confuse those who sought to vote for the governor. At the last hour Milton K. Young sought to withdraw his name from the Republican column but was too late.

All of California's representatives seek renomination. Clarence F. Lea, Santa Rosa, is the only Democrat, although some Republicans seek the Democratic nomination. Richard J. Welch, Fifth District (San Francisco), and Joseph Crail, Tenth (Los Angeles), face serious contests.

In districts where Orientals or Mexicans are a problem, exclusion or quota regulation are issues.

Tallant Tubbs, who seeks the Republican nomination for lieutenant governor against H. L. Carnahan, incumbent, announced opposition to the dry law.

Approximately three-fourths of the registered voters are Republicans.

Police Find Woman, 72, Dead; Relatives Sought

Ada Quill, 72 years old, of 906 Fifth street southeast, was found dead in her home last night when neighbors told police of the Fifth Precinct that they had not seen her for several days and the latter broke in to make an investigation.

From the condition of the body, police believe that the woman had been dead for four or five days. An attempt is being made to locate relatives. Death was apparently due to natural causes.

with two bridesmaids, Miss Marian Reedon, of Fredericksburg, Va., and Miss Hazel Coppage, of Culpeper, Va. Both Mrs. Medford and Miss Bailey are of Washington.

Mr. Ketterling will have his brother, Mr. James Ketterling, of Pittsburgh, as best man. The ushers will be Mr. Henry Lagestee, of Holland, Mich.; Mr. Cecil Coppage, of Culpeper, and Mr. Charles Medford, of this city.

Miss Clews to Be Wed In French Chateau.

The marriage of Miss Louise Clews and the Hon. Andrew N. A. Vanneck, whose engagement was announced yesterday, will take place on September 1 at the Chateau de la Napoule, near Cannes, France.

Miss Clews is the daughter of Mr. Henry Clews, of New York, and of Mrs. Louise Hollingsworth Morris Clews, of Baltimore and Biarritz. Mr. Vanneck is a brother of Lord Huntingfield.

Dr. Norman T. Scala has returned to Washington, after spending three months studying in the clinics of Vienna, Austria.

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Gans have returned from a motor trip to Richmond to visit their brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Gans.

A prettily arranged wedding took place yesterday morning when Miss Bertha Schaffner became the bride of Mr. James R. Riordan. The ceremony was performed at 9 o'clock in St. Paul's Church, by the Rev. Cornelius J. Dacy, the bride having Miss Dorothy Friend as her attendant, and the bridegroom having his brother, Mr. John Riordan, as best man.

The bride was gowned in gray chiffon made on long, flowing lines, with matching accessories. Miss Friend wore a pencil blue ensemble, also of chiffon. After the ceremony a wedding breakfast followed at the Dodge Hotel for immediate members of the family. Mr. and Mrs. Riordan will be at home at Devonshire Court after September 15, following a motor tour through the Northeastern States to Canada.

Visitors in Capital From South Africa.

Mrs. Allan Hay and her daughter, Miss Dorothy Allan Hay, of Pietermaritzburg, capital of the Province of Natal, in South Africa, are now in Washington at the Mayflower.

Mrs. Allan Hay is the wife of a former chairman of the stock exchange in Pietermaritzburg, and her daughter is well known as a journalist, many interesting accounts of her travels around the world being carried by the newspapers in her country. She and her mother have traveled almost continuously the past few years and they are not planning to return home until 1932.

They were received yesterday morning by the Minister of South Africa, Mr. Eric Louw, and were served the usual 11 o'clock morning tea in keeping with the custom of their country.

Miss Eunice Lee Evans has returned to Rehoboth Beach after passing a few days with Mrs. John Floyd Brawner in Washington.

Col. and Mrs. Mark Brooke arrived in Washington yesterday from their cottage at Jamestown, R. I., and are at the Mayflower for a few days. Col. and Mrs. Brooke came to Washington for the services for Mrs. Brooke's mother, Mrs. Francis M. Gunnell, widow of the late surgeon general United States Navy, who died Friday in Jamestown, where she was spending the summer with Col. and Mrs. Brooke.

Mr. and Mrs. Bennett Treloar, of Chicago, are at the Willard. They will start Wednesday for New York, sailing Saturday for St. George and Hamilton, Bermuda.

Mr. Seymour McConnell has returned to Washington after an absence of six weeks spent in Canada, the Green Mountains of Vermont, and at the summer home of his mother, Mrs. Samuel Burleigh Milton, on the Chesapeake Bay.

Behind the Screens

With NELSON B. BELL

THIS fellow Jack McBride, who is in the second week of a fortnight's clowning in the Panchon and Marco "Trees" idea at the Fox, did not come by his eminence as a comedian by any short cut or magic process that put him up there over night. He has been trouping for the last fourteen years. During that time he has had a taste of every diverse form of activity known to show business—medicine shows, tabs, tent shows, minstrels, vaudeville, musical comedy, &c., &c.

During the course of a pleasant visit a few afternoons ago, when he dropped in for a chat with Tom Olsen, the Fox's comparatively new stentor, it came out that the last time Mr. McBride played Washington he was working blackface with the Nell O'Brien Minstrels. That led back to memories of Lew Dockstader, Jean Havez and other old friends for me, and to a long line of amusing reminiscences for him.

He related one story that hit me where I live, possibly by reason of the fact that its principal nut character was at one time a newspaper sports cartoonist in this city.

Bugs Baer, it seems, was once toastmaster at a banquet attended by virtually all the notables of the stage and allied arts—including the newspaper. As he called upon one gifted raconteur after another, he noted that all the boys were making notes on the table cloth. Finally, it came the turn of Ripley, the cartoonist of "Believe It Or Not" fame. Mr. Ripley, whose brilliance is all in his pen, devoted most of his time to apologizing for not being able to make a witty speech.

After he had concluded, Mr. Baer explained that Mr. Ripley's predicament was easily accounted for. "Just a moment or two ago," he announced, "somebody gave the tablecloth a yank and upset quite a few plans. If you check back, you will find that the speech Mr. Ripley had jotted down was just delivered by Ring Lardner!"

That's what I call going down the line for a friend.

By the way, one of the clever comedienes assisting Mr. McBride in the act is Mrs. McBride. Not the little blonde, the other one.

And by the way again, Jack McBride and Jack Pepper are old pals and both natives of the same town in Texas—Dallas. I happen to know this because last Saturday afternoon I ran head-on into the former Earle master of ceremonies, who recently was featured in Loew's "Get Happy" revue at the Palace, hanging around the stage entrance of that Loew house, like the motorman who goes street car riding on his day off.

The musical situation being what it is in Baltimore, Jack has had a couple of weeks loafing time and has been spending it in Washington, cluttering up the Palace backstage and exchanging home town newspapers with the McBrides, up the block at the Fox. It makes it nice for both of them—except that they both take the same paper!

Speaking of the Fox, there is more than meets the eye in the bill announced to begin on Friday.

In addition to John McCormack's first picture, "Song o' My Heart," for which he was paid $500,000 and in which he sings enough to earn it, Bob West, the new guest organist whose advent was heralded in this column some weeks ago, will make his debut at the console, and a casual visitor of many months back will return with a new Fanchon and Marco unit as master of ceremonies instead of featured player. I refer to none other than that diminutive and dynamic West Coast favorite, Eddy Peabody.

Professor, a chord in G!

It is hard to keep score and tell who is ahead these days. With so many of the screen notables going in for stage productions and so many of the stage producers going in for picture, it is all just a little bewildering from the sidelines.

Now comes Lee Shubert, another of the big shots, who announces that he is about to undertake the production of talking pictures. His first essay in the new field will be "Ladies All," adapted by Elmer Harris, from the successful play now current at the Morosco Theater, New York, with Violet Heming, former Washington stock favorite; Walter Woolf, Germaine Garoux and May Collins the featured members of the cast. This group of artists also will comprise the cast of principals of the picture, although the personnel of the comedy will be expanded from 6 on the stage to 22 and a considerable number of extras for the cinema. Local interest in "Ladies All" will be especially keen since it was written by Prince Antoine Bibesco, whose adventures in the theater are not wholly unknown to the local boards.

The second picture to be made by Mr. Shubert will be "Stay Overnight," an original story by Naomi Royde-Smith, the noted English novelist, who is the wife of Ernest Milton, seen last in "Rope's End."

Two other pictures will be made by Mr. Shubert to complete a production schedule of four for the current season. A studio near New York has been leased to serve this convenient purpose.

It just goes to show that you can't pick 'em in a cold projection room.

For a week, Mike Cullen has been giving us the Loewdown that for the current seven-day period the Palace had the worst picture of the summer, only to find that when he got it out there on that screen in front of that public it is the best audience picture he has ever had in the house. And is his face red!

Well, the boys are talking to each other again, anyhow—that's something.

Fifth Avenue Fashion

The wrapped arrangement of the low flounced skirt is decidedly slimming. It is a comfortable sleeveless fashion. The capelet collar falls so softly over the arms.

It is a splendid dress for town that is equally smart for resort.

Style No. 115 comes in sizes 16, 18 and 20 years; 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measure. It is made with 3½ yards of 39-inch material with ⅝ yard of 27-inch contrasting and 2 yards of ribbon in the medium size.

Dragging Feet

If your VITALITY is slipping away from you try S.S.S.

JUST one complaint—those dragging feet—yet they tell a big story. Back at the fountain-head the red-blood-cells are not up to standard. When your red-blood-cells are only 80% you are NOT yourself—60% is dangerous. You haven't the vitality to fight infection and disease.

S.S.S.—the great blood Tonic—stimulates the blood-building organs to supply the necessary red-cells. Your appetite picks up. Your body is strengthened, invigorated—you feel like yourself again! And DRAGGING FEET become STEPPING FEET.

Take S.S.S. before each meal. Millions of people have found it the easiest and surest way to keep themselves "fit." Its successful record of over 100 years in building red-cells in the blood is a guarantee of satisfaction. Get the large size bottle. At all drug stores. © S.S.S. Co.

BLEASE FACES TEST IN TODAY'S PRIMARY

South Carolina Democrats Expected to Cast Over 300,000 Votes.

HOT GOVERNORSHIP FIGH

Columbia, S. C., Aug. 25 (A.P.).—South Carolina's office seekers tonight prepared to rest their case with the Democrats of the State who will render their verdict in the primary tomorrow.

A final barrage of appeals, embracing personal appearance, radio addresses and political advertisements brought to a close the summer's campaign. Upward of 300,000 members of the party are expected to cast their ballots. Nomination is equivalent to election.

General interest predominated in two major races, the tricornered battle between Senator Cole L. Blease and two opponents for the former's toga, and the battle for the governorship among eight contestants.

Besides these contests, nominations are to be made for seven seats in Congress, all State offices, and many county positions.

Senator Blease's fight for renomination climaxes a political activity of 42 years. Asking reelection on the basis of his record, he is opposed by former Representative James F. Byrnes, who ran him a close second in his campaign six years ago. Solicitor Leon W. Harris, of Anderson, who has severely criticised Blease's record throughout the campaign, is the third party.

For thhe first time in years a candidate for the governorship is running on an out-and-out antiprohibition platform. He is Ashton H. Williams, young Florence attorney. Vigorous indorsement of the dry laws has come from another candidate, W. W. Smoak, Colleton legislator for the last ten years.

The six other candidates for the gubernatorial nomination are I. C. Blackwood, Columbia; R. Beverly Herbert, Columbia; W. H. Keith, Greenville; Olin B. Johnston, Spartanburg; A. Frank Lever, Lexington, and John J. McMahan, Columbia.

Alleged Partners In Crime Are Held

Youths and Boy Said to Admit They Planned to Rob C Street House.

An alleged partnership in crime was broken up yesterday when police of the First Precinct charged a young white man and a colored boy with housebreaking and attempted housebreaking. The pair were arrested Saturday night by Private A. S. Douglas, who observed them loitering near 930 C street northwest, in which house a window had been broken.

Douglas took the couple to the precinct, and after questioning they are said to have admitted that they had broken the window in an attempt to enter the house. They gave their names as Joseph Hall, 21 years old, of Sixth street southeast near E street, and William D. Riggs, jr., colored, 9 years old, of Second street southwest near E street.

At the time of their arrest, they were charged with investigation only, while police checked into their records. Samuel Russell, of the C street address, was the complainant in both cases.

Commander of German Reichswehr Resigns

Berlin, Aug. 25 (A.P.).—Gen. Wilhelm Heye, commander-in-chief of the German Reichswehr, resigned today, the resignation to be effective November 1. A successor has not yet been appointed.

Gen. Heye, who visited the United States in 1927, succeeded Gen. Von Seeckt as commander of the Reichswehr in October, 1926. The latter resigned at that time because of criticism growing out of his permitting one of the former kaiser's sons to participate in military maneuvers.

"I Feel Like a New Person"

"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound when I was tired, nervous and rundown. I saw the advertisement and decided to try it because I was hardly able to do my housework. It has helped me in every way. My nerves are better, I have a good appetite, I sleep well and I do not tire so easily. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to other women for it gives me so much strength and makes me feel like a new person."—Mrs. Lena Young, R. # 1, Ellsworth, Maine.

TWO AMERICAS AIR PROGRAMS PLANNED

U. S. and Southern Hispanic Companies Say Idea Is Feasible One.

TESTS PROVE WORKABLE

New York, Aug. 25 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Preliminary negotiations for the establishment of intercontinental broadcasting of speeches and commercial programs between North America and Latin America are under way between the American Telephone & Telegraph Co., th International Telephone & Telegraph Co., the National Broadcasting Co. and several other South American broadcasting companies, it was learned today from high officials of the companies involved.

Experimental programs already have been sent and the satisfactory results have convinced the men in charge that it is feasible to go ahead. Recently the Uruguayan Minister to the United States addressed his own people from Washington on the occasion of the aniversary of his country's independence, and two broadcasts of fight of Juto Suarez, the Argentine prize fighter, were well received in Bueno Aires.

As a result of the negotiations, a corporation may be formed to handle the business. Is would be largely owned by companies concerned.

Several American business firms have expressed a desire to broadcast programs to popularize their products in South America, and this is expected to be a leading source of revenue.

Although the broadcast programs would go over the radio telephone circuits already operated by American Telephone & Telegraph and International Telephone & Telegraph, the operation would be entirely different.

An American firm wishing to broadcast to South America would send its programs in Spanish and Portuguese from the studios of the National Broadcasting Co. or the Columbia Broadcasting Co. They would be picked up on the circuits of the two telephone companies and delivered to a South American station for rebroadcasting. The some process, in the reverse order, would apply to any South American programs to be broadcast in the United States.

An official who has made a study of the subject declared today that radio conditions made broadcasting between North America and South America much more feasible than broadcasting between America and Europe. Considerable difficulty has been encountered in the latter process due to the difference in time which made day conditions on one side of the ocean and night conditions on the other. North and South America are on practically the same time and the "dusk" trouble has not troubled programs sent so far.

American companies selling radio sets also are understood to be backing the new broadcasting arrangement.

HIDE IN THE DARK

By FRANCES NOYES HART
Author of "The Bellamy Trial"

ANOTHER CONFESSION.

Lindy raised once more the velvet eyes, dark and inscrutable.

"I'm just a little displeased with you. I evidently overdid it a bit this evening. I didn't mean you to get the idea that I was the particular type of blackguard that would dangle a noose around a lady's neck to save his own. Did you honestly think that I was going to play this little game?"

She said in a voice that was no more than a breath: "Kit, you're gone mad."

"Mad, have I?" He yielded briefly and noiselessly to mirth. "I'll swear you're magnificent. Stand right here like a good child, will you, until I get through with this. I like you around . . . Well, Gavin, what's the next move? Handcuffs for me?"

"Baird, I may be totally wrong, but I should say it would be difficult for any human being to invent on the spur of the moment the wealth of circumstantial detail that Lindy has produced for us here."

"My dear fellow, she hasn't produced one atom of circumstantial detail. You handed her this murder on a silver platter and she handed it back to you. You told her where she was to stand to overhear the sofa business, where she was to find the knife, what she was to do with it, where she was to put it when she was through. You even gave her the cards—under the phonograph record, as well as a shrewd analysis of how they got there, and I myself was obliging enough to present her with the blood on the violets. That leaves as Lindy's sole contribution a blood-soaked but undiscoverable handkerchief, which I'm willing to wager is neatly tucked away in some corner, in as immaculate a state as when it emerged this evening. Still, I'll grant that was a masterly touch, Lindy. For a good three minutes you almost managed to persuade even me that by some miracle you'd managed to plant one there, blood-stains and all."

Kit Turns the Table.

She cried passionately: "Oh, and you said that you never lied! You can't do this to me—you can't—I won't let you * * * Give me back that handkerchief."

He asked, half laughing, half compassionate: "Lindy, don't you know when the game's up? You know as well as I do that I haven't touched the handkerchief."

"I know as well as you do that you have it this minute—you took it when you were bending over that chair. You can do anything with your hands—look at the things you could do with those cards, and it was just a flimsy rag of chiffon."

The red-headed young man abruptly paled, but with the smile slightly deepened, said agreeably, "Ah, yes—the cards, to be sure. A very palatable hit, my dear! Well, Dart, I'll appeal to you as an unprejudiced bystander and a police court habitue. As you can see, the talented young magician has nothing up his sleeves. Now if you'll complete the search, in order to convince this doubting little Thomas?"

Dart, running his hands expertly through the coat pockets, said expressionlessly, "There's blood on that right shirt sleeve, Kit."

"Oh, I don't doubt it. Anything else?"

"Yes; there's a revolver in this right hip pocket."

He extended it flat on his palm, glittering and ominous, and Kit flashed it a smile of recognition.

"And a revolver, of course. Go easy with it, will you? It's loaded; I ought to have warned you."

"Are you in the habit of carrying a revolver?"

"My dear fellow, it's practically the only habit I've got. You never can tell when you're going to run into one of those earnest lads nowadays whose sole avocation is to shoot not wisely—but too well. It's a pleasure to be right there to greet them. I brought it down here because I thought it might be handy for target practice. Would you like to take charge of it?"

The Missing Cards.

"Thanks," commented Gavin drily. "I'm not your custodian yet, you know. To be quite candid, I'm not entirely clear that I ever will be. Your comments on Lindy's dramatic abilities don't entirely clear up her part in the murder, as far as I'm concerned. Here's the revolver."

"Stout fellow! Oh, I'll give you more than dramatic criticism before I'm through, I promise," he pocketed the revolver carelessly, and inquired, still smiling: "All through? You didn't come across the handkerchief by any chance, did you?"

"No." Gavin sat down slowly, his eyes still on the pearls twisted tight about Lindy's slim hands. "Is it your contention that Lindy's conversation with King about the cards was invented out of whole cloth, too?"

"Oh, Lord, no. I think that it was probably fairly accurate reporting. You see, I'd had one myself with him about five minutes before on precisely the same lines. It was quite animated about the time that young Ray over there tried to barge in." He flashed her reassurance of his smile.

"You see, when I went up from the card table I wasn't really particularly keen about ministering to Doug out of the iodine bottle. I'd missed those cards, you understand. When I told Lindy to look up, because there wasn't any blood, I suddenly remembered that Doug had shaken some from his finger on to the upper one, and I reached over to slip it in my pocket, because I knew that Lindy was upset already, and that even that much blood would upset her more * * * And then I saw that it wasn't there—that none of that hand of mine was there, and it didn't take me the proverbial split second to realize exactly what had happened.

"All of a sudden I felt a burning desire to know just what particular type of hell he was raising up there * * * and I'm afraid I didn't stop on the way to get any iodine. I didn't stop to knock, either. The only thing I did stop to do was to turn the key in the lock and put it in my pocket. I had a dim suspicion that Doug mightn't be as anxious for an uninterrupted conversation as I was."

The fire leaped suddenly into a fountain of flame, and Kit's hair flamed back; his eyes flamed, too.

In Doug's Bedroom.

"Doug was standing over by the dressing table, with the cards face down in front of him; he was busy as a bee with that black pearl stickpin of his, picking out nice little designs on the center of each of 'em. He didn't even bother to stop when he saw who was invading his privacy!"

"The dirty swine!" Joel's expressive countenance was transfixed in outraged comprehension. "You mean he fixed those damn things up himself?"

"Did you think they were my handiwork, old boy? I'm flattered. No, Mr. King was entirely responsible for the decorations; and very neat they were, too * * * I was all wrong about his not wanting to talk; he wanted to talk quite a lot. He had any amount to say about the past, the present and the future; and he wasn't encouraging about my part in any of them. He told me precisely what he was going to do with me, and the cards, and the newspapers—and about the time that he got around to the papers I was fed up to the eyebrows and I didn't want to hear anything more from Mr. King for a long, long time. I stopped listening and made a grab for the cards, and Doug stopped talking and made a grab for me; and by the time Ray rattled the doorknob we'd managed to upset the room no end; and I was having a first rate time kneeling on Mr. King's chest and kneading nine-tenths of the breath out of him.

"It wasn't until I heard Ray at the door that I realized that I was making an everlasting fool of myself. Getting the cards wouldn't do me any good; he'd simply tell you all that I'd stolen them from him, and then I'd be rather worse off than if I let them alone * * * So I left him to get his breath, while I borrowed his brushes and straightened out a bit and came on down to this room to decide what the next move should be * * * I saw the knife lying over there on the table as I came in—and the tub of water off beyond it—and there was my solution, ready made—nothing more to bother about. I slipped it in my pocket, while I was talking to Joel, and came over to the fire * * * The real start of Lindy's fairy tale was when she said she found it there fifteen minutes later."

Lindy whispered, with a soft violence that shook her from head to foot:

"Gavin, don't believe him, Gavin, I swear to you—I swear—he's lying. Don't believe him."

Blood-Stained Cuff.

"Lindy, weren't you ever taught that good children don't interrupt? After that, Dart, I followed out pretty much the procedure that you evolved and Lindy plagiarized except that I used the priest's stairs; Hanna saw me at the foot and dashed back because she realized that it wasn't Gavin and she still thought that she might have time to stop him. In the meantime, I'd got the door open and crossed the chapel into this room. I only stopped to roll up my sleeves because I remembered what you said about the blood if you tried the jugular, and how you said to do it. I came up behind him and put one hand over his mouth and turned his head away * * * It didn't take as long as it takes me to tell you. I washed my hands off in the tub before I threw the knife in, and rolled my sleeves down again—that's when I got those blood stains on my cuff. I was just starting out for the hall when——"

"It was from the violets. You got it from my violets * * *"

"Gavin, what are we going to do with her? That poor little mind going around like a mouse in a trap—don't you know that even the cleverest little mouse of all never gets out, Lindy? It just wears itself out; and you look so tired already, poor mouse. I'll cut it short; every one of you children ought to have been in bed hours ago * * * Some one came into the room just as I was getting out of it—Joel, I imagine. I waited a bit, and then slid across the hall into the library. Jill's scream didn't upset me as much as it did some of the rest of you; I knew what she was screaming about, you see."

"And the cards under, the record?"

"Oh, the same process, reversed. It was a God-sent opportunity to get rid of them. I crossed the hall while Lindy was counting—if I hadn't caught my cuff in that infernal thing, it would have worked beautifully. Even as it was, I beat you to the door by a good second, didn't I?" The smile flashed shamelessly. "I'm moderately light on my feet—Nature's favored me that way and I've helped the old girl out by making cork soles part of my standard equipment. In my rather animated career, I've found that it's an excellent idea to walk just a little softer than the other fellow."

Lindy, her dark eyes fixed on the red head blazing far above her like a beacon, said, slowly and clearly: "Gavin, he came back to save me. He came back because he was afraid that I'd get caught with the cards."

The red-headed young man took a step toward her and dropped two hands lightly on her shoulders. She did not flinch beneath that imperious touch, but suddenly the small pale face looked smaller and paler, and the deep, fringed eyes were immense.

Bargain or Blackmail.

"Lindy, get this straight, will you? It's fairly important. I've stood here listening to this preposterous lunacy of yours for a long, long time—for too long a time, by far. I've tried to laugh it off, because that seemed the easiest thing to do, but I haven't felt much like laughing. You're such a little thing to be so brave—standing up there in your pearls and ruffles, swearing to blood and murder and revenge as cheerfully as any gunman * * *

"You've had your turn, this is mine. I've only got one thing more to say. If you tell this fairy tale once more as long as you live, I'll take this revolver here and blow my brains out. And if you keep perfectly quiet from now on, I'll put up the best fight that I can for my life. I'll do my level best to hire lawyers, bribe juries and kidnap judges—because, for some unfanthomable reason, my life seems valuable to you. Is it a bargain?"

"It's—blackmail, isn't it?" she cried.

"I believe you've put your finger on it again. Blackmail it is; we understand each other perfectly. So there's nothing left to do but to say good night, is there? Because it's long past bed time and from now on, Lindy, I have an idea that we're not going to be allowed to see a great deal of each other. I don't believe that confessed murderers can be left to rove about at will, even by amateur custodians."

She moved and suddenly his arms were about her, his cheek against the dark sweetness of her hair.

"Darling, I wish I had a prettier place to give you to say good night than this room full of people and bad dreams * * * I wish I had that silver beach with a star to wish on for you—or a garden with violets under the leaves * * * violets with no blood on them at all. But since this is the best that I can do, may I kiss you good night, Lindy?"

She said: "Yes," and lifted to him a face swept clear of everything but a submission.

He said: "Good night, little Lindy * * * Sweet dreams," and turned away, leaving her standing unstirring with that lifted face, as though already she had found those dreams.

"SAY ANN HERE'S THAT OIL I WANT YOU TO START USING!"

CONOCO GERM PROCESSED PARAFFIN BASE MOTOR OIL

Women who know the fine points of mayonnaise, facial creams, and mechanical refrigerators, are not apt to overlook such a radical improvement in motor oils as Conoco Germ-Processed . . . The family car is a big item in every woman's budget, and an oil that lessened motor wear 76.4% over other oils used in the Pike's Peak Tests, protects the investment and cuts down operating costs. Racing motors at Indianapolis and Altoona at speeds of from 92 to 120 miles per hour demonstrated stamina and heat resistance of Conoco Germ-Processed oil—something to remember during summer months.

Some say it is idle to discuss technical things with you women. Yet all of you know how a good cold cream penetrates the skin, and seeks the very bottom of the pores.

Well, that is what we mean by the unique metal-penetrating quality of Germ-Processed oil. This splendid motor lubricant penetrates the very "pores" of the metal, and stays there!

So, really, with the other products you buy, you women are better equipped to realize the urgent reasons for changing to Germ-Processed oil, than are the males who will probably read this too.

Now that you know the story, when may we expect you . . . at the Sign of the Conoco Red Triangle?

Following the Pike's Peak Tests, where Conoco Germ-Processed Motor Oil was tested side by side with three other popular, nationally known oils, the Contest Board of the American Automobile Association issued Certificate of Performance number 2268, comprising 14 points, of which the point below is one.

Point No. 7

"That less oil consumption as shown by the records of these tests occurred with the use of the subject oil."

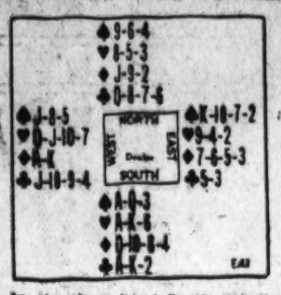
WORK ON BRIDGE

COULD YOU HAVE DONE BETTER?



In the above hand South was the Declarer playing No Trumps and whether he was playing one No Trump at Auction or three at Contract he would be anxious to make game. At Contract South would bid three because he has a count of 22 with all suits stopped; if he bid only two, North would not have sufficient strength to jump to three.

In the play West led a Heart which South won. It then looked to the Declarer as if the easiest plan of developing the hand would be to establish dummy's Clubs; so the Ace, King and another Club were led, but the thirteener in dummy was not established. While in dummy the Spade finesse was tried and succeeded, and then a Diamond was led. West won and led the best Club, followed by a second Heart, clearing that suit. A second Diamond established the Diamonds, while South had the Ace of Spades as an entry, but West ran two Hearts which, in addition to the two Diamonds and the one Club, netted him five tricks and saved game.

Could you have done better?

THE CORRECT PLAY.

South should not have touched the Clubs until he made up his Diamonds; if the Clubs were good at first they would be equally good later. Without a Diamond trick game could not be secured, so to trick 2 a Diamond should have been led. When it was won by West and the Heart led, there should have been one hold-up and then a second lead of Diamonds. The Declarer need not have hesitated about establishing the Diamonds because the adversaries had only one more Heart. With the Diamonds established, Declarer would have no difficulty in making game even if West leads Clubs at trick 7 and keeps all his Clubs to prevent dummy's making a long Club; Declarer has game secured by winning three Clubs, two Diamonds, two Hearts and two Spades. The Spade finesse will be tried if the fourth Club does not become good in dummy.

Dare Interprets the Mode

Paris, Aug. 25.

TO the Spanish woman, whether her birthplace be Spain or the Andes, Mexico or the Sierra, the shawl is a social badge.

The original Spanish shawls were brought to Spain from—where do you think?—China! And traveling much further than that, both literally and actually, we find that the word shawl is of Persian inspiration, and was originally "shal."

The spelling may change, the pronunciation may change, the Spanish shawl may come from China, and the first shawl probably appeared on Eve—but in effect the shawl will ever be a social badge.

Because it takes true grace and loveliness to manipulate a shawl! You can not deny that some women wrap a shawl around their torsos and hug it to them for dear life—others fold it sanctimoniously around their shoulders in the way one knows one would handle sackcloth were one to indulge in repentance in sackcloth and ashes.

And then there is a cavalier way to wear a shawl, and the defiant way to wear one, and the way of wearing one as though it were the shell of an armored tank. In short, there are ways and ways to wear a shawl other than the lovely, gracious and graceful way. And only a graceful woman that can wear one correctly.

• • • •

And if you ever saw Raquel Meller handle a shawl, you could readily understand how the shawl might be a social badge in Spain!

• • • •

Do you know how to make a slick circular skirt? How much material it takes to make a wrap around one? How many kinds of pleats there are, and how to make them fashion a skirt? Well, it wouldn't be the worst idea in the world to go to your writing desk and make out a stamped, self-addressed envelope to send to the Dare Department of The Washington Post so that you might get the illustrated leaflet telling you once and for all how to make skirts, now would it?

• • • •

Evening coats, ho hum! Just to prove to you that evening coats don't have to be either short or very long to be smart, I sketched two three-quarter ones for you today, one in lovely black velvet, pink velvet lined and extravagantly trimmed with two black foxes, a Heim model; and the other of gold lame (lah-may) also black fox trimmed, but showing one sleeve and an odd cape effect covering the other arm, from Jane Regny. Which one would you choose?

• • • •

Personally, I would choose both—("You would," says La Chic) because velvet is going to be so smart for fall, and it is so flattering. And because lame is always elegant.

• • • •

You know, sleeves are really important this fall. Not gobby, ornamental ones that start out to be a perfectly good plain sleeve, and then look as though some one stood off and threw trimming at them, but really well made and interesting sleeves. Those on coats, for instance, have the ornamental effect cut right into the cloth as the sleeve is cut, or while it is being cut, if you wish. Often these cuffs are flat fur, but ornamentally achieved. Other times they are of the cloth of the dress or coat, and the fur trimming of the garment is used only at the neck and hem.

And another thing! The weekly Dare fashion letter in the Sunday Washington Post is always worth looking for.

Au Revoir!

What Today Means to You

"VIRGO."

IF August 26 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 a. m. to 11 a. m., from 4 p. m. to 5:30 p. m., and from 10:30 p. m. to midnight. The danger periods are from 8:30 a. m. to 9:30 a. m. and from 1 p. m. to 2:30 p. m.

Dynamic astrological influences will play on your life this date, stimulating activitites, arousing emotions, and crowding events one upon another. Concentration will be difficult—postpone important business transactions.

Children born on this August 26 will be temperamental and will have poor self-control. They will be excessively gay, affectionate, or attentive to work, and then suddenly, for no apparent reason, they will become miserable, unfriendly, lazy or angry. They will be nervous and high strung.

Your modesty is the most pronounced characteristic which you possess. You profit from all the virtues of this trait, but you are also handicapped by its defects. It makes you a shy, gentle, lovable being, but not a forceful one. It has given you refinement, in tastes and manners, and has made your ambitions simple. On the other hand, it has made you draw into your shell too much to give the world a chance to properly judge your merits. You loathe publicity, notoriety or being made conspicuous. Flattery embarrasses you greatly, although you are not ungrateful for honest praise.

You are a deep thinker, a thorough student, and a keen worker. You are not boastful of your knowledge, and you do not seek it for display. If you have access to books, you are happy and not lonely. You have to be put at your ease with people before you enjoy them, or are like yourself. You never under any conditions feel yourself a superior being, although you are superior in so many respects. You are capable of admiring and loving people very much, but the subjects of your esteem are often unaware of its existence. You should not suppress your finer emotions as much as you do. You would be happier, if you could be freer and more spontaneous with those who are near and dear to you. You have a good ear for music and languages.

Successful people born August 26:

4—James Couzens—former director Ford Motor Co.

5—August Hechsaher—capitalist.

Monument Marks Church Site.

Weston, W. Va., Aug. 25 (Special). To mark the site of the first Methodist Protestant Church in West Virginia, the old Harmony Church, near Janelew, the Trans-Allegheny Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution of Weston has erected and dedicated a monument on the spot, suitably inscribed. The original church, in which the denomination was founded in the State, was erected more than 100 years ago.

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

HOW often should dahlias be fed? I am told to begin fertilizing them when the plants are six weeks old. Is this correct? Also, is a mulch of peat moss beneficial for these plants? Should all buds that form while the plants are small be removed?

A REAL AMATEUR.

Feed dahlias once each week and begin to apply fertilizer after they have been in the ground seven weeks. Peat moss used as a mulch will be beneficial because it will help in the conservation of moisture. Remove all early buds.

Please tell me the name of the inclosed rock garden plant.

HERMINE D.

Pelemonium.

Please tell me if the inclosed leaves are from a plant named "snow-on-the-mountains" or from a weed.

IDA E. M.

They were from a weed.

Please tell me the best way to make cuttings from shrubbery for spring planting. There is, I understand, a way that this can be easily done in the house in the winter, so that the cuttings will be rooted by early spring.

MABEL H. Y.

In winter cut the bare branches up into lengths of six or eight inches and bury them in a box of sand in the cellar. In the spring you will find them with well developed roots. You can take the cuttings at any time during the winter.

Please tell me why my phlox so often turns brown and apparently dries up.

MARTHA E. R.

There are many reasons why this happens. The condition may be due to poor soil, or because the plants are infested with red spider. Dust affected plants with powdered sulphur and spray frequently with water. As a rule frequent spraying will keep down the red spider. Phlox should always be planted in soil which has been enriched and deeply dug. Vigorously growing plants are never very susceptible to either red spider or mildew. Crowded plants are always more likely to be covered with mildew.

Please tell me the names of three vines to plant in a schoolroom hanging basket.

A TEACHER.

This year the root aphis is ruining my asters. What do you suggest?

MRS. WILLIAM T. H.

The root aphis on China asters is rather difficult to control. If you have only a few plants you will find it beneficial to use tobacco stems about the base of the plants. Late spading or plowing of the soil in the fall is wise, because the heavy frosts will in a measure kill the aphis. It is safest, however, to plant your asters in another location next season.

Does nitrate of soda or sulphate of ammonia help sweet peas? A. B. T.

Bonemeal is the best fertilizer for sweet peas. Scatter this along the sides of the rows. I am always loath to recommend the use of chemicals in this column, because in the hands of the amateur they are dangerous. However, if you understand about the use of these products you might give the plants either ammonia sulphate or nitrate of soda, which are supposed to increase the size of the flowers. The secret of success with sweet peas is to keep them growing and to keep the blossoms cut off, which prevents their going to seed.

(Copyright, 1930.)

All readers' questions on growing and care of indoor and outdoor flowers and floral decorations for social functions will be answered by Miss Kift, directly in this column, if addressed in care of The Washington Post, or directly to readers if a self-addressed, stamped envelope is supplied.

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

RAIN SUITS FOR CHILDREN.

(Bureau of Home Economics.)

There is little or no danger to health from playing outdoors on a rainy day if the body is kept warm. Rain suits of waterproof material should furnish the body adequate protection from rain and be equally desirable for playing in the snow. Many a child has yearned for a rain suit just like a playmate's and then been bitterly disappointed to find that it was not comfortable.

On rainy days in spring, days the hood on the little girl's rain cape is much too warm, but it is not detachable. Moreover, often it is so short from the crown of the head to the neckline that it pulls the cape up until it is too tight in the neck. Consequently the hood is thrown back most of the time. The long circular cape also flaps in the wind, the slits for the arms are easily torn and, all in all, this is far from an ideal rain outfit. The small boy's raincoat is little better. The big sleeves dip in the mud or scoop up snow, the long coat tails wreck his sand houses or stone bridges, and his belt is always lost.

These garments serve only as protection against water and do not add materially to the child's warmth. Extra outdoor clothing has to be worn under them and the child is so bundled up that he can not play freely. A new, more practical design for rain suits is made from a showerproofed woolen material, which will keep the child warm as well as dry. The upper part of the back laps down so that moisture is turned off and does not run down inside the suit.

Rhodes Draws Tourists.

Rhodes, Aug. 25 (A.P.).—This Aegean island, belonging to Italy, had 20,000 foreign visitors in the last fiscal year, according to Gov. Lago's report. A new bathing establishment has been erected at the mineral spring called Calitea.

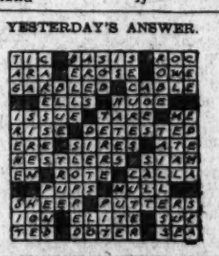
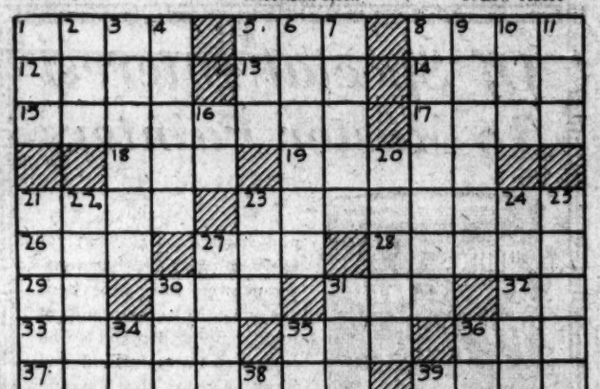
YESTERDAY'S ANSWER.



(Copyright, 1930.)



Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

For Sale.

DEAR Miss McDonald—Would you be kind enough to give me your advice on the following problem?

I have just completed my college education and have had the misfortune of falling in love with a young man without even the advantage of a high school education. His future is very uncertain as he has no great ability. I am undecided between him and another young man who is highly educated and has a wonderful future in front of him. My friends advise me to marry the latter, but although I would have everything a woman could desire, I could not love him.

PUZZLED.

One of the things they fail to teach in college is a faith in life—and in one's self. What earthly good is the sort of "education" your college has given you? Here you are, all set, diploma in hand, all the years before you, and you are all ready to sell out. The slave on the auction block had no voice in his plight. He was property and, as such, was disposed of at the will of his master. But you are captain of your soul, and your soul dictates the auction block, and you obey.

Girl, did any one at college in all the four years happen to tell you that life was an adventure or an ordeal, according to the way in which the individual viewed it? You and a few million more deliberately set out to make it a grind—a thing of torture.

You say you have had the "misfortune" to fall in love. Why misfortune? It is an experience, and a priceless one. It is part of being a woman, part of life. What use is education, what use is breath itself, or life itself, if all you are to feel in life is fear?

The man you say you love is less important than the fact you believe you love him. What is your idea of love? What do you feel toward this man? Impatience and disgust that his education is insufficient to warrant your showing him off as a capture, or presenting him to your college friends who probably got as little out of college as you have. You present-day samples of mass production in the field of education are a spectacle to make the gods weep.

Stop thinking of crawling into some safe hole away from life. That is not the purpose of womanhood. You can always sell yourself. Delay the sacrifice. Live first. Give life a chance. If you are only merchandise, and life proves that to you beyond a doubt, then sell. But not without even a decent fight. Not through craven fear, through the wish to be safe from life. Life is magnificent to the strong. It is only the weak that are crushed, that must seek the shelter of safe holes in the ground. Live, woman, live.

NATS CUT MACKS' LEAD TO 6 1-2 GAMES BY 3-2 WIN

Westbrook Pegler Says

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—The more prosperous prize fighters probably would treat the proposition with disdain, but it seems a wonder that the promoters and common investors interested in idle amphitheaters such as the Chicago Stadium never have tried to organize teams of fighters for intercity house competitions on a plan somewhat like that of the baseball leagues.

The success of the Golden Gloves tournaments between the amateurs of New York and Chicago indicates that such a plan would operate well in the professional department of the industry and the idea would be certain to appeal to a large number of pretty good prize fighters in the beginning. There are a great many pugilists, including some excellent journeymen, who would be much better off under employment contracts, assuring them from $10,000 to $25,000 a year for themselves alone, subject to no managers' cuts, than they are likely ever to be under the present system, which subjects them to all manner of political and professional discrimination and some graft.

Although Jack Sharkey is rich enough to evince an honest indifference to an offer of $100,000 flat to fight some friend for not more than half an hour, there are dozens of young men of considerable experience and skill training constantly in the public gymnasiums of the big cities who do not receive $300 a week, on an average, the year round, and probably never will earn as much as $15,000 in one year free lancing.

Managers Would Be Ruled Out.

Of course, it would be necessary for such purposes to engage only unattached prize fighters, because it would be impossible to maintain any team spirit in a squad of athletes, each of whom was represented by his own chiseler, and this consideration is quite aside from the fact that managers must be maintained in a state which I have heard described as sybaritic luxury. In baseball, Babe Ruth is the only player who ever has had a manager, and even his manager has to do only with the sale of the Babe's by-products, such as the Babe Ruth bats, balls and hats, the Babe Ruth auspenders and the Babe Ruth letters on right living and fixity of purpose for young men.

To fight a season's schedule of, say, two shows a week, each team would require at least two, and perhaps three regulars of each class, a total strength of 16 or 24 regulars, and a few reserves of various weights for gymnasium or bench duty. Their rates of pay would be gauged according to their weights as well as their proficiency, I suppose, because it is a curious fact that a third-rate heavyweight, such as Fainting Phil Scott, or a robust chronic invalid, such as William Stribling, commands much more prestige at the ticket office than a great featherweight, such as Kid Chocolate of Cuba.

The Garden in New York, naturally, would decline to enter such a league because the heavyweight championship of the world, such as it is, belongs to the firm under a monopoly that has exated for the last ten years and the directors doubtless would consider that their house had nothing to gain. However, I should think a New York team might operate successfully from one of the armories in winter and one of the minor open air clubs in summer, and teams probably could be made to yield dividends in Chicago, Detroit, Boston, Milwaukee and Cleveland.

League Would Start In January.

Being no organizer, but merely a genius with a very remarkable idea, I would not undertake to say whether the league prize fighting season should begin in the fall and end in the spring, or vice versa. My own suggestion would be that the season should start along toward the first of the year and continued indoors until June, when the clubs could move to any ball yards not previously bespoken by the Garden monopoly or other exclusive leasors operating in restraint of trade, to conduct their summer business al fresco.

The scoring system, also, would have to be left to some practical mind, but the team scoring method used for the Golden Gloves Tournament could be extended so as to embrace a season's competition between a number of clubs, and the individual champions of the league would be unmistakably identified by their averages.

I realize, of course, that by the end of a successful season the individual leaders would be likely to grow restless with a desire to strike out as independents and challenge the so-called world's champions for the various titles. But my league would pacify them by running off a series of post-season bouts for the championships of the world, ignoring such noncombatant world's champions as Max Schmeling, Maxie Rosenbloom, Mickey Walker and the welterweight

Veteran Pair Ousts Local Youths

Considine - Mitchell Beaten by Tilden and Hunter.

Lose, 6-1, 6-3, 6-4, After Leading, 4-1, in Final Tilt.

Special to The Washington Post.

BOSTON, Aug. 25.—William T. Tilden and Francis T. Hunter advanced to the second round of the national doubles championship today at the expense of Dooly Mitchell and Bob Considine, of Washington, D. C., who represent the Middle Atlantic section. The scores were 6—1, 6—3, 6—4.

From the start the Washington pair appeared not overconscious of the worth of their opposition. However, they showed a great tendency to miss their shots at important stages of each game in the first set.

The second set saw Tilden and Hunter run to 5—1, but the Capital youths broke Tilden's delivery, held Considine's and were twice within a point of copping Hunter's before yielding.

Gallery Takes Notice in Final Set.

The large gallery which reviewed this center court match was made to sit up and stare when Mitchell and Considine, playing superior tennis, broke away with a 4—1 lead in the final set. Mitchell's serving and Considine's overhead were responsible for the partial rout of the internationalists.

Tilden's service was again broken during the melee to the huge delight of the gallery. At 3—1 Mitchell served a love game, acing Hunter once and forcing Tilden to lob weakly.

But here the veterans braced and Hunter's service prevailed. Considine's was broken while Tilden bore down to win his. The seeded No. 3 pair cracked Mitchell's delivery and remained errorless on Hunter's for the final game.

All Seeded Pairs Advance.

There was nothing resembling an upset that developed during the first round in which nine of the ten seeded teams came through. The other team did not play because Sydney Wood, New York youngster paired with Frank X. Shields, arrived too late to take the courts against Richard Lusch and Keith Werner, of Los Angeles. They will play tomorrow.

The defending champions, George Lott and Johnny Doeg, seeded No. 1, defeated Albert and Robert Turner, of Newton, Mass., 6—4, 6—3, 7—5. John Van Ryn and Wilmer Allison, seeded second, drew another pair of brothers, Leo and Charles Lejeck, of Chicago, the Western titleholders, and made even shorter work of them, 6—3, 6—0, 6—2.

Gregory Mangin, Georgetown University star, and Berkeley Bell, the Davis Cup alternates, had a terrific battle on their hands with G. Lyttleton Rogers, of Ireland, and Watson Washburn, veteran New Yorker. The first named finally won by 14—12, 7—5, 8—6.

Coen-Coggeshall Near Defeat.

Wilbur Coen, jr., Kansas City, and Harrison Coggeshall, Des Moines, the Newport finalists, seeded sixth, were the only favorites to face grave danger in an opening match. They had to travel five sets to eliminate Marcel Rainville, of Montreal, and Fred Baggs, of New York, 0—6, 6—8, 6—4, 7—5, 6—4.

J. S. Olliff and F. J. Perry, top-ranked Englishmen, defeated two of their countrymen, Jimmy Nuthall and E. R. Avery, 7—5, 7—5, 5—7, 6—3. Nuthall is a brother of Betty Nuthall, who won the U. S. women's championship last Saturday. L. A. Godfree and H. G. N. Lee, another English pair, disposed of Fred and

Titular Flyweight Bout Set for Oct. 17

New York, Aug. 25 (A.P.).—Officials at Madison Square Garden announced today that articles have been signed for a 15-round bout between Midget Wolgast, of Philadelphia, and Frankie Genaro, of New York, for the world's flyweight championship. The bout will be staged in the Garden October 17.

The battle should provide an undisputed titleholder in the flyweight division for the first time since Fidel La Barba retired as undefeated champion in September, 1927. Wolgast is recognized in New York and Pennsylvania as world's titleholder now, while Genaro is recognized by the National Boxing Association.

Mack Sends Out Call For New Outfielder

Philadelphia, Aug. 25 (A.P.).—Just a little bit panicky perhaps at the way the second-place Nats persist in trimming the first-place Athletics, Manager Connie Mack has sent out a hurry call for reinforcements.

While Washington was cutting down the A's lead at Shibe Park today, Mack told newspapermen that Jim Moore, a big outfielder with the Dallas Club, in the Texas League, would be on hand Thursday to give the champions a helping hand. Moore is an outfielder recently acquired by Mack. He goes on the active list at once, Mack said.

Hass' injury and erratic playing of Summa in Washington yesterday are believed to have caused Manager Mack to send a rush order for another fielder.

Ruth Not Ahead Of Homer Mark For First Time

NEW YORK, Aug. 25 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—That Yankee pair of games on Sunday with the Cleveland Indians were really quite momentous ones in the 1930 career of George Herman Ruth.

By failing to hit a home run off either Clint Brown or Wesley Ferrell, the Yanks' battering Babe fell back for the first time this year on even terms with his record run of homers in 1927. In that year his 44th homer was made in the 104th game of the season, and Sunday's games were the 124th and 125th of this year's Yankee schedule.

Ordinarily it might be thought that the mere matter of falling a game behind wouldn't be serious in the case of a clouter like the Babe, who might be depended on to tear the cover off the ball on some big rampage. But truth of the matter is the Babe hasn't been hitting at all as he ought ever since July 1. The finger nail he smashed then was blamed for the July alump, but that isn't bothering him now. And he hasn't hit at all in the last home stay of the club.

September in 1927 Brilliant Month.

Further working against the possibility of any breaking of records this year is the fact that his September campaign in 1927 was one of the most brilliant he ever put over. In order to keep up with it now the Babe has only got to crash five homers in the next five days—three at Washington and two at the stadium next Monday in the holiday double-header with the Athletics.

Five in five days! That's better than he has done this year at any time. But back in 1927 he crashed two off Tony Welzer, of the Boston Red Sox, in the first game of a double-header for his 45th and 46th of that year, and in the second game made his 47th off Jack Russell.

Hoisted Two More on Next Day.

Not alone that, but on the next day, September 7, he hoisted two more over the fences. These were hit off Danny MacFayden and Bryan Harriss, also of the Red Sox, so that his record on that foray was five homers in three games.

Little hope of a run like that in the next three games, for the right field fence at the Griffith Stadium is high and a long way from the plate as the ball flies; and the Washington pitchers have been very effective in curbing the Babe this summer. Only Pippo Marberry has suffered to any extent.

Fog Causes Cup Trials Delay; Boats in Tow

Newport, R. I., Aug. 25 (A.P.).—A thick fog and an almost entire absence of wind caused today's scheduled races between the yachts Yankee, Enterprise, Whirlwind and Weetamoe to determine a defender for the America's Cup to be called off. While various contenders remained under tow and made no attempt to sail, many small craft, including the press boat, were lost for a time in the fog.

Miss Nuthall Turns Table on Net Body

London, Aug. 24 (A.P.).—Betty Nuthall, who as a child in her teens was the darling of British lawn tennis and its despair as she grew older without fulfilling her early promise, has joined Great Britain's 1930 crop of conquering flappers. Her victory today in the American women's championship assures her of one of those welcomes home that are the lot of champion athletes.

Betty's victory at Forest Hills justifies the opinion of some of the best critics of English tennis regarding the potential strength of her game. There was much comment over the British selection committee's decision to leave her off the Wightman Cup Team and the young star suffered another blow when she was not included among the seeded eight at Wimbledon this year. It was even said she was unfairly discriminated against and the situation which existed during the Wimbledon tournament probably was a contributing reason for her going off to America to show what she could do.

Indian Wins Decathlon Title

Wins in 1,500 Meters, Last Event, to Beat Out Stewart.

By TED VOSBURGH.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Aug. 25 (A.P.).—Loping along with the free and tireless stride of his Indian forebears, Wilson Charles, steel-muscled Oneida from Haskell Institute, won the national decathlon championship this afternoon by running big Jim Stewart, of the Los Angeles Athletic Club into the ground in the final event, the grueling 1,500-meter run.

Trailing Stewart with nine of the ten events completed as the sun sank over the rim of the big Pitt Stadium, the lithe, 180-pound Indian athlete sped along like a brave on the warpath to cover the distance in 4 minutes and 55 seconds, and beat the giant Texan by more than an eighth of a mile.

Turning in the best performance of the day in the running broad jump and 1,500-meter run, the latest of an illustrious line of Indian athletes that included such names as Jim Thorpe and Fait Stewart, was the winner, while a sturdy newcomer from the University of Florida, Joe Hall, nosed out Harlow Rothert, of Stanford University football fame for third place.

13 Athletes Start Long Test.

Fifth also went to an unheralded representative of the Florida institution, Forest Munger, the lightest man in the entire starting field of 13, as he weighed but 140 pounds.

Thirteen athletes drawn from all parts of the country began the exhausting ten-event test at 10 o'clock this morning and 11 of them stuck to the finish more than eight hours later.

Here is how they stood in points at the end of the program, which consisted of the 100-meter run, broad jump, shot put, high jump, 400-meter run, 110-meter hurdle, discus throw, pole vault, javelin throw and 1,500-meter run, in that order:

Charles, first, 7313.343; Stewart, second, 7119.605; Hall, third, 7075.071; Rothert, fourth, 7073.13; Munger, fifth, 6480.005; Howard Hones, New York A. C., sixth, 5917.755; Ivan Dyckman, Denver A. C., seventh, 5813.09; Walter Huthison, Ithaca, N. Y., School of Physical Education, eighth, 5706.867; Edward Wlodyka, Boston A. A., ninth, 5645.57; Fred Pusch, Grove City College, tenth, 5600.463; Louis Peresenyi, Union A. C., Pittsburgh, eleventh, 5258.30, and Jim Deering, Yale, twelfth, 4594.005.

Utterback, of Pitt, Drops Out.

Everett Utterback, former University of Pittsburgh athlete, dropped out when in second place at the end of the first two events, and Dyckman was forced to give up after he had finished nine of the ten. His nine event point total gave Dyckman a place in the final standing, however.

Charles' winning mark, although a creditable performance, was some 471 points short of the American record established by Ken Doherty, of Detroit, last year at Denver before he

Tiger Rookie Walks 12 But Beats Browns, 7-5

Detroit Aug. 25 (A.P.).—Tom Bridges rookie right hander, making his first major league start today, held the St. Louis Browns in check for eight and two-thirds innings to give the Detroit Tigers a 7-to-5 victory, although Waite Hoyt had to come to the rescue of the former Three-I League ace. Hoyt pitched to the last batter after the Browns had rallied to score four runs in the ninth.

Bridges was in trouble most of the time because of twelve bases on balls, but tightened in the pinches, holding the Browns to seven hits. Hoyt went to the mound after Ferrell had cleaned the loaded sacks with a triple.

The Detroit sluggers found Coffman, Holshauser and Collins for eleven hits, including a homer by Bill Akers. The Tiger infield backed Bridges' hurling with four double plays.

Nats Must Win 21 of 29 If A's Get Even Break

Now leading by 6½ games, after having dropped two full games to the Nats in the last two days, the Mackmen still retain a tremendous advantage with only 26 more contests remaining of their 154-game schedule.

Should the Athletics break even in their 26 remaining games, losing 13 and winning 13, the Nats, who face 29 more games, would be forced to win 21 while losing 8 to gain a tie at the finish of the schedule.

The present standing:

	Won.	Lost.	Pct.
Philadelphia	85	43	.664
Washington	77	48	.616

Should Philadelphia break even in its remaining games and Washington win 21 of its remaining 29, the standing would be:

	Won.	Lost.	Pct.
Philadelphia	98	56	.636
Washington	98	56	.636

Washington meets Philadelphia in three more games before the end of the season, and is also favored by the remaining schedule, which calls for the Athletics to meet New York in five more games. Should the race resolve itself into a close finish, the closing date of the season, September 28, when Washington meets Philadelphia here, may have an all-important bearing on the outcome.

Jockey J. Berry Dies Of Automobile Injuries

Evansville, Ind., Aug. 25 (A.P.).—Jack Berry, 24, jockey, died here yesterday of injuries received in an automobile accident a week ago. Berry, who had been riding for seven years, was employed by C. W. Moore, whose horses are quartered at Dade Park. His home was at Lexington, Ky.

District Police Beaten By Occoquan Officers

The District Police Nine traveled to Occoquan yesterday and suffered a 9-8 defeat at the hands of the officers of the District Workhouse there. It is reported that Pitcher Johnson, of the home team, might have set a world strikeout record had not the Police demanded the dismissal of a prisoner who was doing the umpiring early in the game. Johnson fanned fourteen and allowed eight hits.

The Workhouse Team scored six runs in the fourth inning when errors by Redding, Campbell and Spiess put Pitcher Humphries in a hole. Finney Kelly finished the game for the Police.

Ruby Goldstein Stops Trabon in 3 Rounds

New York, Aug. 25 (A.P.).—Ruby Goldstein, of New York, one time lightweight contender, stopped Joe Trabon, of Kansas City, in the third round of a ten-round bout at Dexter Park tonight. Goldstein weighed 147, Trabon 140.

The New Yorker dropped Trabon for a count of eight in the first round, but the Middle Westerner carried the fight to his rival in the second round and earned an edge. Shortly after the third round opened, however, Goldstein uncorked a terrific right to the jaw that dropped Trabon in a heap. At nine Trabon was up on his feet but in no condition to continue and the referee stopped the fight.

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 25.—Two Washington golfers figured in the money winning in the East Falls open championship over the Bala course of the Philadelphia Country Club here today, when George Griffin, Green Valley, won the title with a 36-hole total of 140.

Bob Barnett, of Chevy Chase, a former Philadelphian, shot 74—72 for a 146 total to tie for fifth place with Bill Neilan, North Hills.

Two professionals cracked 70, Clarence Ehresman, of the home club, equaling the course record with 67 in the morning, while Johnny Schuebel had 69 in the afternoon. Harry Turner, Barnett's assistant, finished second in class B with a pair of 80s for 160.

Nats jumping into a two-run lead, only to lose it in the home half.

Myer led off with a single and reached second in safety when Bishop dropped Simmons' return peg. Rice could help none and it looked as if the opportunity would be passed up when Myer was trapped and run down between third and second on Manush's roller to Boley. Cronin, however, picked out this spot to insert his home-run blow against the base of the upper stands in left.

Hardly had the Nats finished patting Cronin on the back when the Elephants tied the score. One run was gotten back by the first two Mackmen up, Bishop and Summa doubling in order. After Cochrane's out had advanced Summa to third and Simmons had coaxed a pass, the tying run scored on Foxx's long sacrifice fly to West.

Clubs Fill Bases in the Fifth.

After the first olive is pried out of the bottle, the rest come easier, and so it was with hits, for both teams threatened in the fifth, each having the sacks filled when retired. Walks to Bluege and Myer, with Spencer's scratch single separating them, put three Nat runners on with two out, but Rice failed at the tee. Two passes and Grove's single then packed the aisles with Elephants, with only one gone. Jones pulled out of this hole by forcing Summa to foul to Bluege and Cochrane to line to West.

The Nats went out in order in their sixth, but not so the aliens, who saw perfectly good singles by Simmons and Miller wasted. Bingles by West, opening the seventh and by Grove in the lower half were not put to any good use and then the Nationals broke the deadlock.

Error Figures in Winning Run.

Myer started the eighth with a single, but was a force-play victim on Rice's roller to Bishop. Boley tried for a double-killing on the play and pegged past Foxx, letting Rice carry on to second. He took third after Summa's catch of Manush's fly and scored on Cronin's line-single to right. Jones retired the Macks in order in their half.

It looked as though the Nats would score again in their ninth, for Bluege tripled to right with only one

Hadley Faces Macks Today, Seeking Nats' Third in Row

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 25.—Manager Walter Johnson's hopefuls will have another hard battle on their hands here tomorrow afternoon when their final 1930 game at Shibe Park will find them facing George Earnshaw. Connie Mack of late has been depending upon his "big three"—Lefty Grove, Rube Walberg and George Earnshaw—to cary the Philadelphia pitching burden and is expected to give Earnshaw the call tomorrow. The former Swarthmore flinger will be seeking his twenty-first victory of the season.

Irving Hadley, due to do the flinging for the Washingtonians, has a record of but twelve victories against fourteen losses at which to point, but he is a better pitcher than this winning percentage would indicate and, if he is at his best, he should turn in the Nats' third straight victory over the A's. Hadley looked like the best pitcher in the world for eight innings against the Browns his last time out, allowing but two scattered hits, but he lost his bearings and the St. Louis Team tied the score with a three-run rally in the ninth and then won out in the tenth.

Hadley's Downfall Result of Walks.

Bases on balls have caused Hadley's downfall in game after game this season; not that he gives so many, but it just seems to happen that those he does give invariably figure in alien run scoring. It is to be hoped that the Lynn big boy will not be too generous with his passes tomorrow.

While the Nats' pennant hopes are not bright, there still is a possibility that they will win out, but, if they are to do so, it is absolutely necessary that they take practically all of their remaining games with the Mackmen, which number but two more besides tomorrow's both being Sunday battles, listed for decision in Griffith Stadium on September 7 and September 28. This latter game will end the season and fans can conjecture what a turnout it would draw if it so happened that the pennant hinged on the result.

Three Nats Left in Capital.

President Clark Griffith accompanied the Nationals on the trip here this morning, while three of the Washington players were left behind. The stay-at-homes were Pitchers Al Crowder, who beat the Mackmen Sunday; Fred Marberry, who can not be used for ten days or more, and Joe Kuhel, who still is slightly stiffened up from a shin injury.

Connie Mack has bought another outfielder. Jim Moore, obtained from the Dallas Club, has been instructed to join the Athletics in Boston Thursday.

Today's game had all the trimmings of a world's series battle as far as umpires were concerned, arbiters being scattered all over the field. Hildebrand was behind the plate, Moriarty at first, Guthrie at second and Nallin at third.

In the Wake of the Game

SHIBE PARK, Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 25.—Philadelphia fans, like those in Washington Sunday, take their baseball mighty seriously. Having read accounts of Joe Cronin having the audacity to protest the great Simmons' action in breaking up a double play by interfering with the Nat shortstop in the eighth inning in the Sabbath contest, the San Francisco keed was hooted and jeered throughout today's game.

Grove fanned the first man up in the first three innings—Myer, Cronin and Bluege, respectively.

Bishop made a good stop of Rice's grounder over second in the opening canto, but the veteran had enough speed afoot to beat the ball to first to register the first hit of the game.

Cronin made a nice stop of Miller's hard grass cutter to start a Washington double play in the second. Myer and Judge finished it.

Miller raced back and well over toward right to haul down Spencer's liner, which was labeled "extra bases," in the third. It was a real catch.

Opening the home third, Dykes shot a liner at Bluege which almost knocked him down. He took it on first bounce, however, and rifled the ball to first in plenty of time for the killing.

Cronin's homer in the fourth was a clout which probably would have gone in the stands in left in Griffith Stadium. It shot on a line to the base of the upper deck of the Shibe Park pavilion.

A most unusual play was made by the Nats in ending the home fourth. Jones getting an assist and Myer a putout on Miller's liner. The drive caromed off the pitcher's glove directly into the second sacker's hands. It was a terrific clout and Jones was fortunate that one of his digits wasn't broken.

Each pitcher granted a hit and walked two in the fifth, having the bases loaded when the third out was turned in. Jones pulled out of the bigger hole, as the Macks packed the aisles on him with only one gone.

The element of time figured in a near-run for the Mackmen in the sixth. With two gone and Foxx on third and Dykes on second, the double steal was flashed. Foxx held third to make sure that Spencer threw the ball and could not get over the plate before Myer ran down Dykes, who had stopped his advance and started a return hike to first.

Ad Liska, who had been warming up at intervales since the fourth, was exceptionally busy in the sixth, but Jones finally wiggled out of the hole.

Bishop went over back of Foxx to rob West of a second hit opening Washington's ninth.

Had Jones swung his bat as effectively as did Grove, the result of the game would not have been close. The Mack flinger hit safely twice, while Jones fanned as many times and on each occasion a hit would have meant one or more Washington runs.

TEXANS FAIL TO WIN PLACES ON U. S. POLO TEAM

Hopping Goes Back to Old Position

Williams and Smith Unexperienced in Forward Play.

Pedley, Winston and Hitchcock Others on "Big Four."

NEW YORK, Aug. 25—(A.P.)—The two hard-riding Texans, Rube Williams and Cecil Smith, having been tried and apparently found somewhat wanting, youthful Earle A. S. Hopping will return this week to the much discussed No. 2 position on the American polo "Big Four," undergoing final tests for the international cup matches with England, starting September 6.

Hopping, after a week's absence, is slated to return to Capt. Tommy Hitchcock's varsity "Whites" this Wednesday at the Piping Rock Club in the eleventh test match. He will ride No. 2, with Eric Pedley, Capt. Hitchcock and Winston Guest retaining their usual positions at No. 1, No. 3 and back.

Williams was given a tryout at No. 2 last Wednesday and Smith tested, for the second time, in this position yesterday, when the varsity side was held to a tie score by the "Reds." Neither Texan appeared to satisfy the exacting demands of the team leader, Hitchcock, who has had Hopping as a playing companion since youth.

Williams and Smith Out of Position.

Both Smith and Williams, however, have had little chance to adapt themselves to playing up forward. On the red-jersied reserves they have done defensive duty, at No. 3 or back, for the most part.

Their previous competitive experience also has been confined largely to the backfield, where Hitchcock and Guest have the positions on the "Big Four" apparently clinched.

The "Reds" this Wednesday will line up with Pete Bostwick and Laddie Sanford dividing No. 1, Smith at No. 2, Williams at No. 3, and Elmer Boeseke at back.

British Poloists Triumph In Practice Match, 12-8

Glencove, N. Y., Aug. 25 (A.P.).—The British Polo Team played its second practice match at the Piping Rock Club today, defeating Roslyn, 12 to 8. The British failed to defeat Roslyn by a margin equal to the five-goal difference in the official handicaps.

The English side introduced a new reserve player in today's game in J. B. Balding, a younger brother of Gerlad Balding and a five-goal player. With the loss of Aidan Roark the English team is short of reserve strength. The younger Balding replaced Capt. Richard George in the sixth period. George was missing his shots frequently.

Potomac Rowing Titles At Stake on Sept. 20

The annual renewal of the William C. McKinney Memorial regatta to decide the Potomac River rowing championships will be held September 20 under auspices of the Potomac Boat Club. Four championship events will be conducted and there will be numerous novelty events, including diving exhibitions and swimming races.

The McKinney perpetual trophy, which is annually awarded the winner of the single shell race, is now held by Granville Gude, of the Potomac Boat Club. Gude is out of the city at present and may not be able to defend the trophy this year. It is expected that the Old Dominion Boat Club will enter several men in hopes of taking the trophy back to Alexandria.

Championship events will be single shell, quad shell, four-oared gig and novice shell. On the novelty program will be married men's-single men's eight-oared shell race, canoe tilt, Washington Canoe Club vs. Potomac Boat Club; duck chase for Potomac Boat Club members and their guests; diving exhibition for members of the Washington Swimming Club and swimming races.

(Reg. U. S. Patent Office.)

—Saratoga Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 25.—The Delaware Handicap features the card here tomorrow and has six starters listed at a mile. FLYING HEELS, while taking off weight over previous starts, yet has top impost, which he should carry to easy victory. le concedes six pounds to FINITE and nine to PETO, which appear chief contenders.

FLYING HEELS has not shown himself under colors at this meeting, having sidestepped MR. SPONGE and JUDGE SCHILLING, but this is a more favorable opportunity for the Flying Ebony colt, and he should make PETO very tired in following his early pace, and withstand the speed of FINITE in the stretch. LATIVICH, COMSTOCKERY and CONCLAVE make up the field. COMSTOCKERY is a bad post actor, and LATIVICH is outclassed. CONCLAVE has much early speed.

FIRST RACE—Twenty-three 2-year-olds comprise the field of the opening race, with three others on the eligible list. This makes an uncertain and top-heavy field, with the result entirely in doubt. ALL HAIL, which ran second to PANETIAN last week, showed a smart performance, and as this is only five and a half furlongs, her early speed should carry her through. HARLEM has been knocking at the door and on form is the contender. JOLLY KING can do better than in his last race, and should get the third money. There are a lot more in this field having a chance, among the more prominent being MORHEART, BONNIE BARD and BLACK FEATHER. BURGOO may be better than his last race indicates.

SECOND RACE—The steeplechase looks like a duel between BROWN STOUT and BOLD KNIGHT, with the first named holding the edge. THE WORKER has little racing experience over the jumps, but has a chance for show money. The field is limited to six, and it is a selling race.

THIRD RACE—KEEP ON is selected to whip FLOSSINE, with a big weight concession, in the third, a purse for 3-year-old fillies. IRISH POLLY, a fast filly in Maryland, should hold the others safe. KEEP ON has been running with stake horses and has much early speed. NICOTINE has a chance, but the distance appears too short. SHADY LADY will have to improve over any previous race to have a real chance. FLOSSINE has won two good races here, but has the worst of the weights of all except SPELL BOUND, which has shown nothing at this meeting.

FIFTH RACE—Another large field goes in the fifth race, for 3-year-olds and up at seven furlongs. HORNPIPE is well placed and seems to have the best chance. The two races of ZEAL were impressive victories and a warning for future efforts. MUCKER is dangerous, and in the mud would have a better chance of winning. Both HORNPIPE and ZEAL are on the eligible list but appear first and second, but probably will get in, for there are 23 in the field above them. COIN COLLECTOR is another danger looming from the ranks of also eligibles. FRUMPER may figure in the race.

SIXTH RACE—G. D. Widener's CONDESCEND is selected in the sixth race, a condition affair for 2-year-olds. MATE may be favorite, but is required to concede much weight. LADDER seems next best and his last race was good, finishing a nose in front of CONDESCEND. As the race was run, CONDESCEND looked best, having much ground to make up by being on the outside.

KENSINGTON, going in much better form, closed with a rush in the stretch. CHENE suffered early interference, saved ground on stretch turn and finished gamely. MORRISON had plenty of early speed, opened wide early but quits to walk in the stretch. JOANNE broke fast, but dropped back. EPINAX showed a flash of speed.

FOURTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,200; claiming. Burgomaster Handicap. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, easily. Went to post at 4:31½. Off at 4:31½. ALDERSHOT was well ridden. He was rated close to the pace, made his move at head of stretch and, wearing down CHARON in a drive, won going away. CHARON saved ground and held on well, but was not good enough. DANGEROUS closed steadily on the inside and just got up to beat FLYING MAX. NAYLOR was outrun.

FIFTH RACE—One and one-quarter miles. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:00½. Off at 5:04½. Winner, Geneseo Stable's b. c. THAIS, away a bit slow, was rushed up on the outside and, closing with a great rush, was up to win going away. YELLOW FLAG opened a wide early lead, but tired badly in stretch. FOLLOW THROUGH, a fine-looking colt, showed speed and should improve over this effort. ROLLIN' IN suffered early interference, but ran a good race, as did BACKGAMMON. BANAL GIRL closed a big gap.

DUNROCK was lucky at start. He broke fast, but was outrun to the stretch, where he closed fast to win going away. DON PEDRO showed good speed, but weakened in last sixteenth. BROWN ERIN closed a big gap. THE WHIP had no mishaps. ODDS was left.

SECOND RACE—Wilson mile. Purse, $1,000; conditions. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, same. Went to post at 3:32½. Off at 3:32½. Winner, Arden Farm's b. h. SUN EDWIN ran if much the best. He broke well, was rushed to the front, raced FARMER into submission, drew away in stretch and won nicely in hand. BUD BROOM was in close quarters going into back stretch, worked his way up and finished gamely. SUN MISSION moved up very fast on outside, made a determined bid at stretch, but was weakened in last sixteenth. BROWN ADMIRAL ran a much improved race. FARMER had plenty of speed for six furlongs, then dropped back as if short. He is worth remembering in cheaper company.

THIRD RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Purse, $1,500 added. The Kentucky. For 2-year-old fillies. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:02½. Off at 4:04½. Winner, H. P. ALDERSHOT was well ridden. He was rated close to the pace, made his move at head of stretch and, wearing down CHARON in a drive, won going away. CHARON saved ground and held on well, but was not good enough. DANGEROUS closed steadily on the inside and just got up to beat FLYING MAX. NAYLOR was outrun.

FIFTH RACE—One and one-quarter miles. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:00½. Off at 5:04½. Winner, Geneseo Stable's b. c. BOSKY, away fast, was taken to the front and, nicely rated, saved ground and held on gamely in final drive. GENIAL HOST, away slow and trailing far back in early part, moved up fast in last half mile and was wearing the winner down. PUNISHMENT was kept close up, but stopped to a walk in the final furlong. The other two were outrun.

SIXTH RACE—Five furlongs. Purse, $1,000; conditions. For maiden 2-year-olds. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:35. Off at 5:37½. Winner, H. P. Whitney's c. f. THAIS, away a bit slow, was rushed up on the outside and, closing with a great rush, was up to win going away. YELLOW FLAG opened a wide early lead, but tired badly in stretch. FOLLOW THROUGH, a fine-looking colt, showed speed and should improve over this effort. ROLLIN' IN suffered early interference, but ran a good race, as did BACKGAMMON. BANAL GIRL closed a big gap.

Thursday—Naval Hospital vs. Tile Setters.

THE District Repair Shop Team, winner of the Department League championship, joined the Pullman and Tile Setter Nines at the top of the first round in the week-day league titular series yesterday when it defeated the formidable Naval Hospital Club, Government League champion, by a margin of 5 to 3 on the Terminal diamond.

Guethler and Ingram staged a rather tight pitching duel with honors about even. The Repair Shop hurler gave one less hit than his rival but Ingram had the better of the strike-out, 13 to 8.

Wesley Leads Attack With 3 Hits.

Wesley, Repair Shop second baseman, who is placed at the bottom of the line-up, provided a big portion of the winning punch for his team with two singles and a double in four trips to the plate.

Naval Hospital opened like a house afire, scoring two runs in the first. Walks to Daire and Tate, followed by Robert's single and Payne's sacrifice fly, turned the trick.

The Repairmen tied the count in their half of the third. Wesley singled and scored ahead of Werle, who slammed the ball over the fence for a home run.

Sailors Regain Lead in Third.

The Sailors came back in their half to take a one-run lead on Much's error, Davis' sacrifice and Tate's single. Both teams threatened, but no scores were made until the eighth, when the Repairmen counted twice for what proved a winning margin.

McClellan singled and Hoffman walked. Wesley then put the ball over the fence for a double scoring McClellan. Hoffman went to third, from where he counted when Piler messed up Werle's grounder.

Noone's double and a single by Clark produced the final tally in the ninth. Clark was thrown out trying to stretch the hit to a double.

Washington Printers Win, 21-2, in Tournament Debut

Special to The Washington Post.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Aug. 25.—In a poorly played game, Washington's champion Union Printers Baseball Team snowed under St. Louis by the overwhelming score of 21 to 2 in six innings at Magee Field. The champions had the Western entry in the Printers' Baseball Tournament outclassed in every department of the game. From the time the umpire called "Play ball!" until rain put a stop to the fracas base hits rattled off fences and over walls.

In other games, New York advanced by defeating Pittsburgh, 9 to 1; St. Paul eliminated Boston, 11 to 3; Chicago defeated Cincinnati, 16 to 5, and Detroit beat Indianapolis, 14 to 7.

The wrecking crew of the Washington outfit had their batting eyes keyed up and no fewer than five home runs were made in the six innings. Raney, Washington's mound ace, had the St. Louis boys pounding the air. He pitched a good heady game and allowed them but three safe bingles.

The game today gave the other printers an idea of what they are up against in attempting to dislodge the boys from the Capital City from the baseball throne. Every player on the team played a good game and had his head up from the first inning to the end of the sixth. Haney, Simons, Schneider, Edwards and Hohman were the Babe Ruths in today's game. All hit for homers of the Bambino variety. Every one of the round trippers were hard hit.

ON THE SIDELINES by BRIAN BELL

A SMALL boy was responsible for one of the few hearty laughs Walter Hagen enjoyed in the qualifying test of the metropolitan district for the PGA championship, when the Old Master failed to qualify for the championship he has won five times.

The little fellow, with his brother slightly younger, joined Hagen as an escort, walking from tee to green with him on several holes. After Walter had taken two fives at par four holes, the little fellow, in all innocence, asked:

"Mr. Hagen, have you ever seen Bobby Jones play?"

The Haig looked at the questioner, saw that he was not being "kidded," and broke into a laugh that could be heard two fairways off.

"Yes, son; I have seen him play," he said.

FAILURE of Walter Hagen to qualify for the professional golfers championship was a shock to the great golfer, his fellow pros and the golf public at large.

With Hagen missing, the championship at Fresh Meadow the week of September 8 will lack much of its attraction.

The bronzed, confident Hagen has been a feature of all the twelve PGA tournaments. He won in 1921, was runner-up to Gene Sarazen in 1923, and then stepped out to capture the prized title four years in succession from 1924 through 1927.

Hagen played brilliant and ragged golf in the 36-hole qualifying test at the Cherry Valley Club when other pros from the Metropolitan District filled the meager quota of ten allotted, with Walter three strokes out.

THE three strokes he needed to tie for tenth place and give him at least a chance to squeeze in he tossed away on the eighteenth hole of the morning round, when he took six on a par three hole. He went over par on other holes, of course, or he would not have used up 149 strokes, but this hole marked his worst failure.

He sent his iron from the tee into a trap, failed to get out on his first effort, and placed his third in another trap. Barely on in four, he left himself a stiff putt and had to call on his putter for all its wizardry to get down in six.

The PGA championship can hardly be called a true test of the supremacy of the pros when such players as Hagen, Tommy Armour, Long Jim Barnes, twice champion and once runner-up; Joe Turnesa, runner-up in 1927; Bobby Cruickshank, Willie MacFarlane, and other well known stars, are not permitted to compete.

Macdonald Smith will not be there, but his absence is from choice. The great Scotch shot-maker is strictly a medal player and cares little for the match play under which the PGA is decided, after the first day's play on a medal basis cuts the field from 64 to 32.

Mac, too, has grown golf weary as a result of his efforts at home and abroad during the spring and summer.

THe Professional Golfers Association needs no advice from outsiders, but it seems a poor system which permits only ten men to qualify from a district including scores of great professionals. If only 64 pros can win the right to report on the field of battle, it would seem that more than ten should come from such a golfing region as New York, New Jersey and Connecticut.

No player in the field this year will have a chance to equal Hagen's record of winning the title five times, but Leo Diegel, champion in 1928 and 1929, and Gene Sarazen, the champion in 1922 ad 1923, will be gunning for their third.

Slow Kelly Joins Cubs Where Uncle Ran Wild

CHICAGO, Aug. 23 (A.P.).—Long George Lange Kelly was released this season by the Cincinnati Reds because he had become too slow.

Now the big first baseman is a member of a club on which his uncle, William A. Lange, displayed some of the greatest speed ever seen in the history of baseball.

In 1896 Lange stole 100 bases, back in the days when that art was an important adjunct of baseball. Lange ranks eighth for all time as a base thief.

Kelly, who was obtained by the Cubs from Minneapolis after the regular first baseman, Charlie Grimm, was put out of the game from spike injuries, never was a fast man.

He carries around 198 pounds on a large 6 foot 3½ inch frame. He will be 35 September 10.

Neither has Kelly ever rolled up a large batting average in the big Leagues. His best percentage was in 1922, when, as a member of the Giants, he hit .328.

AMERICAN U. GRID DRILLS WEEK OFF

Squad of 15 or 20 to Report to Coach Young.

AMERICAN UNIVERSITY'S football campaign will get under way a week from today, when Coach Walter Young sends a squad of between fifteen and twenty players through a practice session on the Massachusetts Avenue Heights gridiron. From then until the opening of the university, on September 15, the Eagle candidates will hold a morning field session and an afternoon blackboard drill every day.

Although several veterans will not be present, owing to the fact that their summer employment will keep them away until the 15th, Coach Young will have enough experienced players at the early drills to form a team to which he can impart the plays to be used in games.

George ("Reds") Olesen, peppery half back; Edward Parke, rangy end; Russell Lambert, 200-pound tackle; Forest Diehl, full back, and Fred Johnson, center, all of whom played more or less regularly last season, are expected to appear next week.

Others looked for at that time are Chester Bowers, Carl Levine and George Borsari, backs, and Sigmund Sluszka and Harlan Hendrick, line men.

Targee's Appearance Delayed.

Orville Targee, half back, the most valuable member of the Eagle Eleven last fall, will not report until school opens.

Coach Young is seeking a field in the central section of the city on which the American team can play its first two games, those scheduled with Shenandoah, the opener, on September 27, and Shepherd, October 4.

Other games on the Eagle 1930 list are, Gallaudet, at Kendall Green, October 11; High Point, at High Point, N. C., October 18; St. John's, at Annapolis, November 1, and Catholic University, at Brookland, November 8.

STAUBLY AND SHORE WIN IN UPSET

Pair Defeat Yeomans Brothers in Capital City Tourney.

FRANK SHORE, District junior champion, and Alan Staubly, of George Washington University, scored a surprise victory yesterday in the doubles of the Capital City Tennis League tournament at Henry Park courts when they defeated the team of Eddie and Clyde Yeomans in a particularly hard-fought match, 7—5, 10—8, 7—5.

The defeated pair entered the match favorites, due to the fact that Eddie Yeomans during the past month gained the Washington Public Parks doubles championship and reached the finals of the National Parks tournament. Clyde, his brother, was a member of the strong Georgetown University racquet squad last spring.

Silva Eliminates Roberts.

In the singles division yesterday, Felix Silva, stellar Filipino entrant, advanced another notch by eliminating Roberts, 6—0, 2—6, 6—0. Silva roused himself from a second-set slump to run away with the match in the third and closing set. Other singles winners were Deck, who defeated Allman, 6—1, 7—5; Zamora, who conquered Lawrence, 7—5, 2—6, 6—0, and Grant, who disposed of Krause, 6—4, 6—0.

The tournament will be continued today on the Henry Park courts at 5 p. m. with the following matches listed: Smith vs. Ritzenberg; Grant vs. Robins; Seidell vs. Allman; Eugenio vs. Erana, and York vs. Roberts.

Col. Heights Protests Army Medico Victory

Charging that the Army Medico Team used an ineligible player in last Sunday's game, the Columbia Heights Nine, leading the Capital City League, has protested the game which the Soldiers won by a 7-6 margin.

The Columbia Heights Team has called a special meeting to be held in the ballroom of the New Amsterdam Hotel, 2701 Fourteenth street northwest, Thursday night at 9 o'clock. Julius Rosenfeld will serve refreshments. Players unable to attend are requested to phone Manager Pratt at North 10437.

Playground Track Honors At Stake on Plaza Today

At left is the Washington Post Cup, perpetual trophy awarded to the team scoring the most points in the city playground championship meet. At right is a photographic replica of the Washington Post medal which will be presented in gold, silver and bronze for permanent possession to the youths winning first, second or third places in the events in today's meet.

City's Young Athletes Compete for The Post's Trophy and Medals; Records Expected to Fall.

AFTER nearly two months of preparation, the Municipal Playground boys are ready for the big test today when the annual field and track championships will be held on the Plaza Playground, starting at 10 o'clock. The Washington Post will award gold, silver and bronze medals to boys placing first, second and third, respectively, in each event, and the winning team will receive The Washington Post Cup for a period of one year. John D. O'Reilly, famed Georgetown University coach, will act as honorary referee.

Even the most optimistic of the directors refuse to make a definite claim as to their chances of winning the coveted championship. Seldom are the first three teams separated by more than a few points. Last year Iowa Avenue won, but led the second-place Columbia Road Team by but a point and a half. In 1928 Iowa Avenue led the second-place Rosedale Team by 1 point, and in 1927 Plaza Playground won The Post Cup, but by the small margin of one-fourth of a point over the second-place Garfield Team.

Iowa Has Won Twice.

Despite the fact that Iowa Avenue has won two consecutive years, a victory today will not give it permanent possession of The Post Cup, as is the custom in some competitions. Mrs. Susie Root Rhodes, supervisor of playgrounds, when arranging with The Post for its annual gifts to the playground children, requested that the cups for boys and girls be perpetual.

It is Mrs. Rhodes' opinion that the cups have more of a sentimental value after years of competition when the newest winners can look on the cup and see who captured it in years gone by. It also serves as a record.

The names engraved on the cup that will be in competition today are as follows: Cooke 1924; Corcoran, 1925; Georgetown, 1926; Plaza, 1927; Iowa Avenue, 1928; Iowa Avenue, 1929. As can be seen from the above, Iowa Avenue was the first playground to win the trophy more than one year.

Five Records Shattered Last Year.

Each year the playground officials think that the records already established will stand but to date there has not been a meet in which a few old records have not fallen. Last year five went by the boards.

Judging from marks made in the conference and preliminary meets old records may fall. The high jump marks are in danger. Several 100 pounders appear to have a chance of dropping the 5 feet 1 record established in 1928 by J. Clark, of Weightman. There is a slim possibility that the 70-pound broad jump mark will be shattered.

Special to The Washington Post.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Aug. 25.—Golfers of the Belle Haven Golf and Country Club will tee off September 6 in the annual contest for the President's Cup, to be donated this year by Judge William S. Snow, president of the club. Play will be continued through September 7, when the final eighteen holes will be played.

Thirty-six holes of medal play, with the club handicaps applying to all players, will decide the winner. In case of a tie, those having the lowest score will hold a play-off to decide the victor.

All members must have five eighteen-hole scores posted, from which their handicap will be decided, before they will be allowed to participate in the match, it is announced. Last year the cup, donated by C. C. Carlin, sr., president of the club at that time, was won by T. Briley Clem.

The play for the President's Cup has always brought forth great interest at the club, and because it is contested for on a handicap basis, every player has an equal chance to win. Quite a large gallery has viewed the play in past years and many friends of the players are expected to be on hand for the contest this season.

The St. Marys Celtics Baseball Team, who have won their last eight starts, have listed two out-of-town games for this coming Saturday and Sunday. Friday they journey to Covington, Va., where, on the following day, they play the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company Team. Immediately after this game the squad will leave for White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., where they will encounter the Westvaco Country Club, Sunday August 31.

The Saint Marys Celtics Basket Ball Squad and officials will hold an important meting Tuesday, September 2, at 8 o'clock in H. Hurshman's store. Matters of importance will be discussed at this meeting and a general survey made of the coming basket ball campaign. All members are requested to attend.

STOCK RISE HALTED BY LATE REACTION

GOODYEAR AT NEW LOW

New York, Aug. 25 (A.P.).—The stock market began the new week with indications of climbing out of the narrow trading area of the past week, but soon began to falter and developed a reactionary trend before the close.

The market maintained a fairly good undertone, and losses in pivotal shares were mostly restricted to a point or so. Sharp breaks in Vanadium and Goodyear and steady liquidation in the oil shares appeared to be the chief influences toward unsettlement.

Trading still was dominated by personal transactions between floor traders, but much of the selling of the oils was reported in brokerage circles to represent real liquidation rather than professional trading maneuvers. Commission houses reported good investment buying in favored industrials and rails, but only on declines. The day's sales barely exceeded 1,800,000 shares.

The rails maintained a better tone than other groups, and the index of twenty leading carrier issues held steady, although that of 50 industrials sagged 2.4 and that of twenty utilities, 1.6. The improved tone in this group was believed to represent short covering and investment buying of the prime dividend payers, attracted by high yields. The first twenty roads to report July net operating income show little improvement in comparison with last year, but compared to the previous month, net was almost 18 per cent higher.

Liquidation of the oils resulted from unfavorable earnings and dividend actions of the previous week, and publication of a survey of the gasoline and crude situation by "the lamp official organ of Standard of New Jersey, which indicated that gasoline stocks were still unwieldy, and took refiners and producers to task for failing to gauge their activity by consumption prospects. E. B. Reeser, president of the American Petroleum Institute, however, issued a reassuring statement after the close of the market, reviewing the progress already made at control of output. "The industry intends to reduce its tremendous stocks of petroleum products above ground at an orderly rate," he explained.

Among the outstanding weak spots elsewhere, Goodyear dropped about 6 points to a new low reflecting reports of slackening output and failure of a mail order house's efforts to raise the prices. Vanadium lost about as much, in response to an analysis predicting lower profits during the current half year, and reports that the company ran in the red during July. Vanadium is extremely sensitive to pool operations, and normally an erratic performer.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, Aug. 25 (A.P.).—Some early selling on relatively easy Liverpool cables and reports of showers or rains in the Southwest over Sunday appeared to be quite readily absorbed in cotton here today and prices later were firmer on covering and trade buying. The new October contract after selling off to 10.80 at the start advanced to 11.19 in the late trading, or 23 points net higher, and closed at 11.18 with the general market closing very steady at net advances of 13 to 20 points.

The opening was steady at a decline of 9 to 11 points in response to the lower Liverpool cables and the Southwestern rain reports. The new December sold off to 11.06 and March to 11.30 at the start, but the offerings were not particularly heavy and seemed to be quite readily absorbed by a continuation of the covering movement which had developed in the market here toward the close of the last week. It seamd to be stimulated by an absence of any active Southern selling in the way of hedging receipts over the week-end and reiterated reports that Southern brewers were showing an increased disposition to hold their early cotton off the market.

Offerings continued light but there was enough realizing to cause slight reactions during the middle of the day, after which the market again firmed up on a renewal of the buying movement, which was said to include some buying of March and May contracts here to replace sales of spot cotton or for trade account. The highest price was reached late in the afternoon, with new December at 11.20 and March at 11.37. The close was within 2 to 4 points of the best on most positions.

Private reports that about 50 per cent of present receipts were being held off the market in some sections of the Southwest and that the basis was about 29 points higher on Saturday, were regarded as contributing to the advance. While some buying was also reported on a report that the cooperatives have arranged to advance farmers 90 per cent of the market value of their cotton. Some traders were inclined to question whether the rains reported in the Southwest would materially benefit the crop and there were private reports that Texas crop prospects had deteriorated the past week.

Liverpool cables said there had been hedging and liquidation in that market.

Port receipts today, 40,436 bales. United States port stocks, 1,769,604. Exports today, 13,876, making 206,008 so far this season.

BONDS ARE MIXED WHILE SALES DROP

Better Investment Issues Steady; Second Grade List Works Lower.

DOZEN RAILS HIT HIGHS

New York, Aug. 25 (A.P.).—High grade investment issues held a firm trend in the bond market today, but second grade and semispeculative obligations, more sensitive to general news developments, worked lower.

The market was highly irregular in a quiet trading session in which the volume of business slumped to $6,711,000.

There were no developments in the money market, with call money remaining at 2 per cent. The only offering was a municipal issue. It was learned in bond circles that among the new financing which is expected to be offered shortly are several large issues, including $10,000,000 first 5s to be offered by the Iowa-Nebraska Co. at around 96½; $5,000,000 Western Pacific 5 per cent bonds priced about par. The State Line Generating Co. contemplates offering $17,000,000 4½s, and $8,000,000 debenture 5½s. A large piece of financing is in prospect for the Pennsylvania-Ohio-Detroit Railroad, subsidiary of the Pennsylvania.

The strength shown by the bond market during the quiet summer period is attracting attention from business circles where a rise in bond prices is regarded as a forerunner of business recovery. A well known statistical service said today in an analysis of the situation that "institutions and high grade investors will make their purchases in the bond market until the average level reaches a higher point than it has since 1910 and 1911."

About a dozen carrier issues climbed to new 1930 highs. The 1½-point advance of New York Central 3½s B on a large turnover, and a similar gain by Big Four general 4s, were among the best gains in this group. Pennsylvania 3½s B, Atchison general 4s, Union Pacific 4s, Chicago & Northwestern refunding 4½s, Northern Pacific lien 4s, Southern Pacific 4½s (Oregon Line), Baltimore & Ohio gold 4s, Chesapeake & Ohio first 4s (Richmond & Alleghany), Missouri, Kansas & Texas first 4s, were others to register new peaks for the year.

The firmness of Brooklyn Edison 5s, Cincinnati Gas & Electric 4s, General Public Service 5½s, New Orleans Public Service 5s B stood out in the irregular movement of utilities.

Western Union Hits High.

Western Union 4½s established a new year's high. Brooklyn City Railway 5s, Public Service Electric & Gas 4½s and Northern Ohio Traction & Light 6s worked lower.

Industrial bonds showed a mixed trend. Oil bonds were very active, with selling dominating the trend, to carry Humble 5s, Skelly Oil 5½s, Texas Corporation 5s, and Transcontinental 6½s downward. Bethlehem Steel 5s were weak. Pacific Coast 5s, Lorillard 5s, and National Dairy 5¼s were in demand.

Weakness of Peruvian bonds reflecting the uncertainty over political conditions featured foreign bond dealings. Peru 7s and 6s sagged 5 and 4 points to new lows. European bonds were steady. U. S. Governments were more active and firm.

Offering will be made tomorrow of $1,781,000 4¼ per cent Essex County (N. J.) gold bonds.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

MAKE-UP OF THE BLOOD.

THE first request this morning is for an article on the blood. The important formed elements in the blood are the red and white corpuscles. The unformed constituent is the plasma. In each cubic millimeter of blood, a quantity too small to measure with any instrument in common use, there are 5,000,000 red cells. These cells are masses of protoplasm without nuclei.

They are nothing more than vessels for carrying such gases as oxygen and carbonic oxide. The chemical which combines with these gases is hemoglobin. When the red corpuscles contain the normal load of this coloring matter we say the blood contains 100 per cent hemoglobin.

If the amount of hemoglobin is low, the blood does not carry oxygen and other gases up to its full capacity. Used-up hemoglobin goes partly to form the coloring matter of bile and urine. The white blood corpuscles, also called leucocytes, are only about 7,000 in number in each cubic millimeter of blood. The leucocyte is really a group of cells having somewhat different appearances, coming from different sources and having different work to do.

Among them are the polynuclears, the large mononuclears, the small mononuclears, and some others. The one which multiplies to resist pus infection is the polynuclear. These masses of nucleated protoplasm have unusual powers of wandering into and out of the blood stream and of traveling to different parts of the bodies.

Even more important than the blood cells is the blood plasma. This is a watery solution of different substances. Some of these substances are easily thrown out of solution, and, in doing so, convert liquid blood into a solid. The chemical substance which does that is known as fibrin. The plasma is alkaline in reaction. In fact, whatever else happens, this reaction remains always just the same, or else life promptly comes to an end. Acidity of the blood in a live man is not conceivable. Death would occur long before the blood became acid.

In addition to the plasma the fluid contains minerals and the red and white corpuscles, the blood contains a varying amount of varying ingredients. It always contains sugar, sometimes more and sometimes less; perhaps some bile or some bilelike pigment capable of causing jaundice sometimes more, usually less; some urea and some uric acid; and, at times, something of almost every chemical that needs to be carried from one part of the body to another. The blood is the great waterway of the body. It is the open transportation route. The lymph route is merely a feeder for the blood route, the one and only great trunkline.

I think so.

REPLY.

Good medical treatment of tabes dorsalis in the first stages is helpful. Beyond that, I prefer not to say.

TUESDAY MORNING — The Washington Post. — AUGUST 26, 1930

SETTLEMENT SEEN TO BALK DARKENING OF CITY'S THEATERS

Musicians Will Meet This Morning to Consider Owners' Offers.

HOPES RISE FOLLOWING CONFERENCE OF GROUPS

Projectionists Maintain They Will Strike If Demands Are Not Granted.

Early settlement of a dispute that threatens to darken Washington motion picture theaters appeared likely yesterday, following a conference productive of certain definite proposals from the Theater Owners Association. The Musicians Protective Union, in deadlock with the owners for more than a week as a result of the announcement that their contracts would not be renewed, will consider the proposals at a board meeting this morning. If they are agreed to, both factions agree that a basis for a speedy adjustment will have been laid.

The owners' association will meet again at 2 o'clock this afternoon, to receive notice of the musicians' decision. A lengthy conference between the two groups yesterday marked the first progress in negotiations since last Thursday, when the musicians announced that they would stand by their demand for protective contracts.

Triple Show Alliance.

The owners had announced their willingness to pay the union scale for musicians on a piece basis, but refused to renew the old three-year contracts, which required each theater to employ a definite number of the union's members, whether they were needed or not.

The situation was intensified by the announcement that a triple alliance between stage hands, projection machine operators and musicians would result in the walkout of the first two groups on September 1 unless the musicians' demands were acceded to.

The strike threat came from the National Motion Picture Machine Operators Association. The local operators' union recently signed contracts giving them pay increases, and it is understood that Washington members were not overly sympathetic with the musicians' plight. Fred I. Stevens, president of the local operators' union, announced yesterday, however, that organized theatrical employes would not abandon their decision to walk out at midnight August 31 unless the musicians were conciliated.

Both Sides Reticent.

J. E. Winkler, labor relations representative of the Fox Theaters Corporation, has been in the city several days conferring with theater officials, but it was emphasized that he was serving merely as an "observer." Mr. Winkler left the city last night with the announcement that he would return to assist actively in negotiations if his services should be required.

While neither faction would reveal the nature of the proposals advanced by the owners' associations yesterday it was understood that this group may agree to some modified form of contract. Since the nature of the controversy is such as to affect the jobs of every musician in the local union, officials of the union felt that they were not justified in definitely acting on the owners' proposals until the membership was consulted.

Final action on the fundamental issues under consideration is expected at the board meeting this morning.

Man Is Arrested On Fraud Charges

Alleged to Have Obtained $50 From Mail Order House on Check.

Ernest Arthur Stephens, of I street near First street northwest, will appear in court this morning to face charges of obtaining $50 under false pretenses. It is alleged that the man ordered more than $1,400 worth of school supplies, including a piano, and gave a check for the amount to a local mail order house last week. The check was for more than the amount of the bill, and the difference was $50, which he received in cash.

A detective in the store became suspicious and followed Stephens to the downtown section, but there lost him. Police were asked to keep a lookout for him, and he was arrested as he boarded a bus for Philadelphia Sunday night.

Stephens ordered the supplies sent to a private school on Massachusetts avenue, where they were refused. Local police say the man is wanted in Albany and Philadelphia for alleged similar frauds, and in Detroit and Indianapolis on worthless check charges.

Pair Taken on Narcotic Charge Held in $5,000

Dr. Edward M. Dodge, 38 years old, and his wife, Louise, 33 years old, both of First street northwest near V street, who were arrested Saturday by the narcotic squad, appeared yesterday before United States Commissioner Needham C. Turnage. Their case was continued for a further hearing next Tuesday.

In default of $5,000 bond apiece, they were remanded to jail. The commissioner recommended medical treatment for both of them. In the meantime, Dodge was charged at police headquarters with forgery and violation of the Harrison narcotic act. Mrs. Dodge also was charged with forgery.

Police Seeking Men Sandbagging Barber

Police are still looking for the two colored men who yesterday slugged and robbed the proprietor of a barber shop at 1706 I street northwest. After hitting Charles Laudano, the robbed man, with a sandbag, the men fled with about $200, the week-end receipts.

Laudano told police that one of the men entered as he was opening his shop and asked for a job as bootblack. The bandit engaged Laudano in conversation while the other man crept up behind him and hit him. Laudano was knocked unconscious. He was revived a few minutes later by Melvin Holmes, colored shoe shiner in the shop.

Junior Citizen Group To Debate Boxing Bouts

The question of whether public amateur boxing bouts should be licensed in the District of Columbia will be debated tonight by members of the Junior Citizens Alliance. The debate will follow the organization of a debating club of the alliance.

Those who will take the affirmative are J. Mark Trice, member of the bar of the District; George J. Adams, former heavyweight boxing champion of Harvard University, and Luther B. Kean. For the negative: Richard P. Schulze, patent attorney; Samuel Lightman, member of the bar of the District, and Paul E. Keen. Judge Mary O'Toole, of the District Municipal Court, will preside. The meeting and debate will take place in the offices of the Washington Board of Trade in the Star Building.

Wife Files Second Suit in Six Months

For the second time in six months, Mrs. Elizabeth J. Whitmer, of Sixteenth street northwest, near T street, yesterday filed a suit for absolute divorce against her husband, George W. Whitmer. A corespondent, the same named in the previous petition, also is designated.

Mrs. Whitmer, according to her petition, sued her husband for absolute divorce last March. In June, she says, they became reconciled, but the fascination of the other one is alleged to have been too much. Anyway, the wife states, her husband deserted her last August 8, and since that time she alleges he has been constantly in the company of the other woman. Many acts of misconduct between the two defendants are alleged. Attorney Raymond Neudecker appears for the wife.

Petition to Condemn Two Lots Presented

United States Attorney Leo A. Rover and Assistant Attorney General Henry H. Glassie yesterday petitioned the District Supreme Court to condemn lots 871 to 877 in square 2882. The property is located in an area bounded by Georgia avenue, Eighth street, Euclid street and Barry place, all in the northwest.

According to the petition filed by the two Government attorneys, the land is wanted as a part of the National Park project. Exhibits attached to the petition include approval of President Hoover to the proposed acquisition of the property.

SPOUSE OLD WORLD DESPOT, SAYS WIFE

INJUNCTION ALSO ASKED

Asserting, among other things, that her husband "is of the old European school and not only believes but actually practised on her his antique social philosophy that a man's wife is nothing but a chattel, a commodity to be manipulated as private property, and that she should relish and cherish the thought of sacrificing herself and life for the edification and perfection of her master husband," Mrs. Mary Margaret Calisto, of Kenyon street northwest near Sixth street, yesterday asked the District Supreme Court to grant her a limited divorce from Anthony Calisto, described as a "tonsorial artist" employed in a barber shop in the Southern Building.

The Calistos married February 17, 1918, and have three children, who the wife says are being improperly cared for by the husband. She asks for their permanent custody, adequate alimony, maintenance and an injunction to restrain her husband from molesting her and following her while he is armed with a deadly weapon. The wife tells the court she is in fear of her life and on July 20 was forced to leave her husband and take up her abode with friends.

Mrs. Calisto asserts that "she is American born, trained to American ideals and traditions, and to submit to a life contaminated with social despotism is impossible." She pictures Calisto as a "persistent nagger, gloomy, sullen, hostile and unsocial" and asserts that as a result they have lost all their friends. She states that the husband never has adequately supported her or the children, although well able to do so and that the children need dental care and other attentions.

School Additions To Have 760 Seats

Park View and Buchanan Annexes to Be Ready by September 22.

Additions to the Park View and Buchanan Schools, making room for 760 new pupils in the District school system, are due to be completed when the schools open on September 22.

A four-room addition to the Buchanan School will give accommodations to 160 additional children. A double addition of fifteen rooms at the Park View School will increase the student capacity at this school by 600. The Park View is the only platoon school in Washington.

Besides these classroom additions, an assembly gymnasium is being completed at the Eaton School in Cleveland Park. The new Eliot Junior High School, adjoining Eastern High School, is not expected to be completed until next February. The Anthony Bowen eight-room elementary school, completed last June, will be used for the first time this year.

Large Dog Attacks Children at Pool

United States park police were on the lookout yesterday afternoon for a large white dog which attacked a group of children playing beside the Lincoln Memorial pool shortly after noon.

Martha Holloway, 6 years old, of York, Pa., who is visiting Mrs. George F. Brunk, of 806 K street northeast, was bitten on the left breast. Another child jumped into the pool to avoid the dog. She was rescued by a bystander. C. H. Dasgen, of the park police, answered the call and the injured girl was taken to Emergency Hospital and later released. Her injury was not serious.

ROVER WILL ALLOW REV. T. P. BAKER TO TAKE MURDER AUTO

U. S. Attorney Sticks by Former Decision in Girl's Slaying.

PHOTOGRAPHS TAKEN FOR USE BEFORE JURY

Defense Counsel Told They Will Answer as Well as Car Itself.

United States Attorney Leo A. Rover announced yesterday that he had decided to stand by his decision to turn over to the Rev. Thomas P. Baker, father of the late Mary Baker, the automobile in which she is alleged to have been murdered.

The decision was communicated to Attorney Herbert S. Ward, counsel for Herbert N. Campbell, accused slayer of the girl, who on Saturday asked that the automobile be held in case the defense desired to use it as an exhibit.

Mr. Rover told Mr. Ward that photographs of the machine had been taken and that he did not see that the automobile would be of more material benefit to a jury than the photographs. The prosecutor stated that he had already committed himself to turn the car over to the Rev. Mr. Baker and that he saw no reason to change his mind.

Immediately afterward, Mr. Rover communicated with William C. Gloth, Commonwealth attorney of Arlington County, and instructed the latter to turn the automobile over to the girl's father. Mr. Baker is expected to come from his Virginia home to Arlington County today or the automobile.

Mr. Ward, in requesting that the automobile be held, declared that the defense case oefore a jury might be prejudiced if the machine were surrendered before trial. He pointed out that he could not understand how a person driving an automobile could fire a revolver and inflict wounds such as those from which the girl died. The Baker girl, according to the Government, was slain in the District, shortly after witnesses had seen her being beaten in her car, parked at Seventeenth and B streets northwest.

Four New Charges Denied by Shapiro

Real Estate Man Pleads Not Guilty to False Pretense Indictments.

Jacob Shapiro, president of the Joseph Shapiro Realty Co., was arraigned yesterday before Justice William Hitz in District Supreme Court on four indictments charging false pretenses in connection with real estate sales, and entered pleas of not guilty. Shapiro pleaded not guilty several weeks ago when arraigned on two other indictments containing similar charges.

Justice Hitz fixed bonds of $1,000 in each of the four new charges, and the real estate man immediately made the bail with Milton S. Kronheim, professional bondsman, as surety. Shapiro already is under bonds of $5,000 each on the other charges.

At the request of Attorney Albert Jacobson, Justice Hitz allowed 20 days in which the defense can attack the validity of the indictments. Mr. Jacobson stated that Attorney Alvin Newmyer, Shapiro's counsel, is in California, and will not return for several weeks. Shapiro was indicted in connection with alleged "hidden trusts" on houses sold through his firm. Shapiro is alleged to have represented that the houses were encumbered by only one trust when in fact they also were covered by another "blanket" trust.

Jersey City Mayor Greets Schneider

Jersey City, N. J., Aug. 25 (A.P.).—Eighteen-year-old Eddie Schneider, holder of three junior transcontinental flight records, was received by Mayor Frank Hague on the steps of the city hall today.

Schneider, who bettered the East-West, West-East and round-trip records of the late Frank Goldsborough, presented Mayor Hague a letter from Mayor John C. Porter, of Los Angeles. After the ceremonies here, the youth went to New York to deliver a letter from Mayor Porter to Mayor James J. Walker.

He planned to leave Roosevelt Field, N. Y., tonight for Chicago to participate in the national air races. His schedule called for a single stop at Buffalo.

TOURNAMENT SEES NEW RECORDS MADE BY MODEL AIRCRAFT

Frank Salisbury's Flying Time Scale Plane of Minute 29 5-8 Seconds.

JOHN SULLIVAN GETS BABY R. O. G. MARK

Opening Day Sees Close Contests; Prizes to Be Awarded Friday.

The opening yesterday of the District of Columbia model aircraft tournament was marked by the breaking of two District of Columbia records at the Macfarland Community Center.

A new high record of 1 minute 29 2-5 seconds was achieved by Frank Salisburg with his flying true scale model. Salisburg is in the ace class. The record formerly was held by Sam Walker with 1 minute 18 3-5 seconds. The other record was obtained by John Sullivan, also an ace, with his baby R. O. G., which remained in the air for 3 minutes 5 2-5 seconds. Sullivan broke his own record in achieving this flight.

Standing of Contestants.

The standing of the contestants as the result of yesterday's flights follows: Ace class, John Sullivan, of 1419 Twenty-ninth street northwest, 16 points; A class, George Shipley, 55 M street northwest, 17 points, and George Loeffler, 505 East Capitol street, 17 points; B class, Frank Ball, jr., of Ballston, Va., 14 points; C class, Fremont Davis, 900 Eleventh street southeast, 15 points; B class, Jack Friedman, 801 Twenty-first street northwest, 10 points.

Winners of the highest number of points in each class are to receive the trophies, and the Ace or Silver Ace winning the highest number of points is to be declared District of Columbia champion for 1930. In the race for the committee cup for the winning club, the Capitol Model Aero Club is leading.

The trophies are to be awarded Friday afternoon at the MacFarland Community Center following the conclusion of the final contests.

Trophies on Display.

The trophies are now on display at R. Harris & Co., at Eleventh and F streets northwest. The awards include three glider medals offered by the National Glider Magazine of Practical Aviation to the three boys winning respectively first, second and third places in either the outdoor or indoor glider contests. The medals are gold, silver and bronze.

The outdoor events are to be held tomorrow at Bolling Field, and the indoor events on Friday at the Macfarland Community Center. A luncheon will be served on the final day to the contestants prior to the announcement of the awards.

Charges Against Golf Operator Are Dropped

John Sorrel, 17 years old, who was arrested early Sunday morning by Fourteenth Precinct police, was cleared yesterday when the Corporation Counsel's office refused to issue papers charging the youth with operating the Mme. Queen Miniature Golf Course at Connecticut avenue and McComb streets northwest, after hours.

Sorrel was quoted as stating that he was doing his best to close at midnight in accordance with orders of the Corporation Counsel's office. Assistant Corporation Counsel Edward M. Welliver authorized the issuance of "no papers."

Capital Manager Sued By Pugilist's Trainer

Rosman De Bell, of Hillsdale, Columbia County, New York, trainer and conditioner for persons engaged in athletic and gymnastic activities, filed suit yesterday in District Supreme Court seeking to recover $2,082.98 alleged due under a contract to train Arthur Brandt, a pugilist.

De Bell's suit is directed against John Nathansohn, of the National Press Building, alleged manager of Brandt. The plaintiff states that in July, 1929, he entered into a contract with the defendant to train the boxer, and performed the duties until the last of December. The sum De Bell seeks to collect is claimed as balance.

Policeman Suspended On Drunkenness Count

Charged by his superiors with drunkenness and failing to report for duty, Private D. W. Rosser of the Sixth Precinct has been suspended. Lieut. Jeremiah Sullivan, acting captain of the precinct, has sent the charges to headquarters with the recommendation that Rosser be summoned to appear before the trial board.

Rosser asked for one day's leave for Saturday, which was refused. He failed to report for duty on that day, and when Lieut. Sullivan and Lieut. O. J. Letterman went to his home at 719 Taylor street northwest they found him in bed, claiming to be ill. Police Surgeon Dr. James A. O'Keefe was called in, and said that the man was intoxicated.

$75 Jewelry Theft Reported.

Jewelry valued at $75 was stolen from the house at 1432 S street, John O. Harmon reported to police yesterday. The loot included a watch, a ring and beads and necklaces. The thieves entered through a basement window.

Strong Men Cry Like Babes As Police Force Moves Out

There was weeping, if not gnashing of teeth, throughout the west side of the District Building yesterday as the Police Department moved the remnants of its property and equipment out of the old quarters on the first floor and over to the older quarters in the Walker Building on Louisiana avenue.

The effect of the policemen's departure manifested itself throughout the building, and strong men wept quite as unrestrainedly as the most feminine stenographer. Even the reporters in the press room on the fifth floor were toiling with tears in their eyes.

The weeping, however, was not induced by grief or regret at the passing of the gendarmerie. It was caused by a far more powerful, irresistible influence than any mere mental woe, a force that seemed to strike all within range simultaneously.

The trouble was that buried in the mass of 'cellos that had been lost in street cars, stills lost in raids, and other matter collected by the police from hither and yon and stored in the property room on the first floor, there were three tear bombs, and workmen in cleaning out the place accidentally exploded one. In the vicinity of the property room the gas was still strong at closing time.

Correspondent Wins Honors at Painting

ULRIC BELL.

In the case of the artist of fiction, recognition usually comes after a struggle. You know the formula: A ramshackle garret; hunger and loneliness; years of empty toil, and, then, at last—recognition.

In the case of Ulric Bell, however, recognition has come as a result of relaxation. With him, painting is simply a refined form of loafing. Nevertheless, he has been recognized.

Mr. Bell is the Washington correspondent of the Louisville Courier-Journal, and in that role is widely known. Two years ago he discovered that, after a tussle with his typewriter, nothing relaxed him quite so thoroughly as painting, and the result has been a steady output of pastel portraits.

Now he has been invited to send a collection of his works to the Balzac Gallery in New York, and fifteen of his pastel portraits soon will be on view in that atelier.

One that is likely to attract considerable attention is called "Tidewater Squire." This is a portrait of a man who is something of a celebrity in southern Maryland—Judge William S. Raleigh, of Point Lookout, Md., a roly-poly, happy-go-lucky old gentleman, who is at once the justice of the peace, the undertaker and the father-confessor of the Point Lookout region.

DEATH CAR DRIVER GIVES $1,500 BOND

HURTS OF FOUR SERIOUS

James Vernon Clatterbuck, 38 years old, of 44 Franklin street northeast, driver of the car which crashed into a bridge early Sunday morning, killing one man, yesterday was charged on the books of the Third Precinct with manslaughter. His family immediately made bond in the sum of $1,500 and the police guard which had been placed over his bed in Emergency Hospital was removed. He remained in the hospital, however. Attendants there say he is still in a serious condition.

No funeral arangements have been announced yet for Raymond C. Wenttang, 57 years old, of 80 Seaton place, who was killed when the car driven by Clatterbuck struck the truss of a small bridge over Rock Creek at Twenty-eighth and K streets northwest.

The condition of thre of the other persons hurt in the same crash remains serious. Attendants at Emergency Hospital, where all the injured were taken, say their condition is unchanged.

Coroner Ramsay J. Nevitt has not yet announced when an inquest into Wenttang's death will take place. It will not be held, at any rate, until Clatterbuck is well enough to appear. In the case of Clatterbuck's death, no inquest will be held.

Efforts to see the only occupant of the car who was not seriously injured, Joseph Earl Owens, of 1321 Belmont street northwest, were futile yesterday. Persons at that address said that Mr. Owens was out of town. It is thought that he might know how the accident happened.

Clatterbuck was booked for investigation Sunday, after police found a bottle which they said had contained liquor, in the wreckage of the car. Bond can not be set on an investigation charge, and the specific allegation of manslaughter had to be placed against him before the bail could be arranged.

Retiring Army Auditor Honored by Associates

J. Eliot Wright, assistant passenger transportation rate auditor, Office of the Finance Officer, U. S. Army, retired yesterday from active service after 32 years service. He entered the service as a clerk in the depot quartermaster's office on June 20, 1898.

A native of Washington, Mr. Wright is married and the father of eight children, six of whom are living. One of his sons, Dr. Herbert F. Wright, is professor of international law at Catholic University. He is secretary of the Association of Oldest Inhabitants.

Mr. Wright's associates yesterday gave him a pipe, tobacco pouch and a box of cigars. Col. R. S. Offley, finance officer, made the presentation.

Daily O'Currences

By JOHN DALY

LUELLA looked up from her coffee cup.

"How's the bank roll this morning?" she asked, nonchalantly, watching me read the financial page.

"The what?"

"The bank roll."

"Come again, lady; speak my language."

"Your language? Aren't you reading the financial news?"

"What's that got to do with it?"

"Well," she opined, "when any one follows the stock market——"

"Yes?"

"Well, it just naturally follows——"

"I read the baseball reports, too, but I don't play in the big leagues."

* * * *

LUELLA shoved her cup aside.

"I've asked you a question?" she shot, "and I'd like to have it answered."

"What was the question?"

"About your bank roll."

So that was it.

Nervously I tilted back the chair—almost sliding under the table.

"Bank roll? Bank roll? Where have I heard that term before?"

"In vulgar parlance, it means money," explained Luella.

"And you're asking for money Luella! Since when have you joined the vulgarians?"

"The vulgarians?"

* * * *

"TO BE sure. Only vulgar people speak of money——"

"Then I'm going to be terribly vulgar," said Luella, and she was. She shocked me—and how.

"What'd'ye want all that money for?" I asked, inquisitive like.

"To finance the banquet," she confessed.

"So! You're giving a banquet Why?"

It seemed that the Old Manse wasn't quite large enough to hold all our friends, so instead of throwing a little family dinner at home Luella had hired a banquet hall.

"Of all the crazy stunts,' said I, rushing in where even angels fear to tread.

"If you think that way about it," she snapped, "I'll call it off and disgrace us——"

* * * *

"DISGRACE us? We'll be disgraced if you give a banquet in any of the hotels Who's gon-a foot the bills?"

"That's why I asked for your bank roll," she said.

Gently, I took her aside and explained: "Listen, Luella, my love, this bank roll, as you jokingly call it, wouldn't stand the strain of a dutch supper——"

She started to cry. "Oh, dear; oh, dear," went the wail, "whattum I gon-a do?"

"What you ought to do," I suggested, starting for the office, "is stage a picnic somewhere—out in the country."

Robb Completes Allocation of Space Won as Police Department Moves.

LARGEST GAIN MADE BY WELFARE BOARD

Corporation Counsel Will Be Transferred to Third Floor Under Plan.

Reallocation of District government departments in the additional space made available by transfer of the Police Department and the City Refuse Department to the Walker Building on Louisiana avenue was tentatively completed last night by Maj. H. L. Robb, assistant engineer commissioner, and will be acted upon by the District Commissioners today.

To the Board of Public Welfare will go the largest individual assignment of the extra space, if the commissioners adopt the proposed plan. In its present quarters on the third floor of the District Building, the board has nine rooms with a total of 3,700 square feet of floor space. It is proposed to move the board into the quarters just vacated by the Police Department on the first and second floors, where it will have twelve rooms with a floor space of 6,176 square feet.

Others to Be Moved

Offices of the Corporation Counsel are to be transferred from their present location on the fourth floor to the third floor, where they will occupy those now occupied by the Board of Public Welfare and the City Refuse Department. The latter is to be transferred to the Walker Building probably this week. In place of his present nine rooms and 3,580 feet of space, the Corporation Counsel will have thirteen rooms with 4,870 square feet, providing a private room for each of his assistants.

The entire fourth floor is to be allotted to the Engineer Commissioner for use of departments under his control. This will add 4,340 square feet to the present floor area of the engineering departments of the District government. The divisions which will benefit most from this change will be the municipal architect's office, the highway department, and the sewer department, it is understood.

Crosby to Gain Private Room.

Commissioner Crosby is to regain use of a private room adjoining his present offices on the fifth floor. This room, which has a floor space of 580 square feet, formerly was part of the commissioner's office and was used for conference purposes, but when the building became overcrowded was utilized for the department of trees and parkings, which will give up the two rooms it now occupies in exchange for two others with about 500 additional feet of area.

Other departments to benefit from changes are the Fire Department, which will receive an additional room with 836 square feet; the Health Department, which will acquire an extra 220 feet, and the Department of Weights and Measures, which will be given 390 more square feet of office space.

Danger of Water Famine Discounted

Washington's Supply Sufficient for City Seven Times Its Size.

Rain, or no rain, Washington is in no danger of suffering from a shortage of water on account of the drought, according to measurements of the steam gauging system of the Geological Survey.

Through two conduits from the Potomac River at Great Falls flow approximately 213,279,000 gallons of water every 24 hours. Of this amount about 77,556,000 is used to supply water for the city, it is estimated. The remainder of the water in the conduits is used for generating electricity for use at the Dalecarlia plant. The available supply of water could be increased ten times by the construction of storage basins if it ever became necessary, engineers say.

Even at the present minimum, which is a record for all time, enough water is being supplied for a city seven times the size of Washington, according to engineers in the steam gauging division of the Geological Survey.
